PRESIDENT HOOVER, who worked 14 hours yesterday, went to bed convinced that Henry Ford was right when he said, "the presidency is a job, as well as an office."

British newspapers do not like the President's flat rejection of the League of Nations, but say pleasant things about the new President and his inaugural address.

Rothermere's Daily Mail says: "The tone of the speech is one of idealism without illusion." That is good combination.

Beaverbrooke's Express says Hoover's "ringing pronouncement is a first class campaign document for conservatism." Beaverbrooke hopes it will discourage British talk of Socialism.

It all depends on how much money you have. Prudhomme's saying, "Monarchies are destroyed by poverty, republics by wealth," is always timely.

However, this republic seems able to stand a good deal of wealth. Perhaps it's because we are not as much of a republic as some think, with our good old king, Big Money, in the background, keeping watch above his own.

Chicago's state's attorney identifies members of "The Chopper Gang" that bumped off seven gangsters in a row with machine guns. "Chopper" is the gang word for a machine gun operator.

One chopper is said to be Joe Lolordo whose brother, Pasqualino, was murdered by the Moran gang. It was a pleasure for him to work a machine gun on the backs of seven Moran men lined up in the bootleg garage.

"Time at length makes all things even," says Byron.

Leandro knows, and Louis knows, that it is true.

Louis's brother was killed by Gus Cusc. Louis got the revenge he swore to have when the whole Nonanoff family was wiped out by his orders.

"If we do but wait the hour, there never yet was human foe that could evade." If impatient, the patient hate and wait long of him who treasures up a wrong."

Colordo might like to paste that up in his room.

If the chopper gang is brought to trial a jury probably would hesitate to punish, as it would the others, a man that killed his brother's murderers.

Logic is sentiment.

A criminal, name unknown, murdered a policeman in cold blood, kidnaped a chauffeur with his car, as a means of escape. He said casually to the driver, holding a "gun" to his back, "I hate all cops, and I'm going to kill as many as I can. I have killed two."

The police say the criminal was "a drug-crazed dope fiend."

That makes it important for the police to interfere, as much as possible, with drug peddling.

Many that sell drugs and buy "protection" for the "privilege" might be in jail if a real effort were made to put them there.

Policemen should know that cocaine and similar drugs do what nothing else will do. They give the criminal, usually a coward, the "nerve to kill a bull"—bull meaning a policeman in the criminal code.

Mexican revolutionists claim nine states, and have proclaimed "religious liberty," repealing Mexican laws interfering with religious control of schools, forbidding religious ceremonies in streets and other places, compelling priests to register, forbidding priests of foreign nationality to exercise priestly functions, etc.

The leader of the revolt in Vera Cruz, Jesus M. Aguirre, says the Mexican fleet in the Gulf has joined the revolution and all the people sympathize with it. A religious fight is a long, bitter fight.

On April 8, the giant passenger steamship Leviathan, built by Germany, taken by this Government, will be turned over to Mr. Chapman to run as his private property. It is to be hoped that he will make a success of it and other boats bought from the United States Shipping Board.

Thus, formally and officially, the United States Government recognizes that it isn't able enough to manage a line of steamships.

The Government ought to know.

Gifford Pinchot says that out of $8,000,000,000 or more of public utilities stock, three billions represent only water.

The American people, he says, pay $300,000,000 a year interest on pure water. That is sad.

REBEL TROOPS IN MUTINY

40 Families Marooned by Flood at Revere

ILLNESS IS FATAL TO TAGGART

Indianapolis, Ind., March 6—Thomas Taggart, 72, veteran Democratic leader and former U. S. Senator, died at his home here today following an illness of several months.

Taggart was suffering from a stomach ailment. His condition was pronounced critical early Wednesday when he returned from his summer home at Hyannisport, Mass.

Thomas Taggart was born in Hagerstown, Md., the son of Thomas and Mary (Dingsbury) Taggart.

The passing of Taggart marks the end of the group of politicians who controlled Democratic affairs and ruled them with an iron hand for more than a quarter of a century.

Former Gov. Taggart had not been in active politics since his defeat for the governorship in 1916.

FOOD SENT REFUGEES BY CITY

More than 40 families were marooned in the Revere st. and Oak Island sections of Revere today when the "county ditch," a drainage canal emptying into the ocean at the Point of Pines, overflowed its banks and flooded three miles of streets and several acres of low land.

The rising waters forced many families to leave their homes. By the flood, children were unable to go to school and those who could were forced to remain indoors. Food supplies were carried to the stricken districts in boats.

U.S. ASKS TO HAVE BAIL DOUBLED

The lawyer for the Massachusetts bootlegger had much of the joy taken out of it today when Asst. U. S. Atty. Elihu D. Stone, in charge of federal dry law prosecution here, announced that all United States commissioners within the commonwealth, requesting that double bail be henceforth required of first offenders against the Volstead act.

Attorney Stone's announcement followed that the government authorities in this State will at once avail themselves of the "teeth" in the new Jones act which makes sale, transportation or manufacture of liquor a felony even upon first conviction, and which provides for such offenders an initial penalty of five years in prison or a $10,000 fine or both.

BASIN PLAN DEFENDED AS GREAT CITY UTILITY

Completion of the proposed $3,250,000 improvements to the Charles River Basin would create "something of extraordinary lowness, a thing of great beauty as well as utility," Arthur A. Shurtleff, widely known landscape architect, told the joint legislative committee on metropolitan affairs at the State House today.

He declared that if the program were carried out the stretch of river and boulevard from Watertown down the Cambridge side of the stream to Charles and Cambridge sts., and up the Boston side to Brighton would constitute "the most lovely spectacle in the country if not in the world."

Women, Men Held in Poison 'Plot'

Lawrence, March 6 (AP)—Two women and a man were held for the Grand Jury today by Judge Chandler after he had listened to a tale of plotting against the life of Peter Yegelovitch, a Salem, N. H., farmer.

The three held, each in $5000 security, are the farmer's wife, Annie; Mrs. Mary Grinkavitch, a shopkeeper, and Waclaw Renkowski, an insurance agent.

There had been domestic difficulties in the Yegelovitch household, the court was told, and Mrs. Grinkavitch, a friend of Mrs. Yegelovitch, not only advised her to do away with her husband, but furnished a bottle of poison.

The pot failed when Mrs. Yegelovitch lost her courage and reported the alleged conspiracy to the police.

BUICK, FATHER OF AUTO, DIES POOR WITHOUT CAR

Detroit, Mich., March 6 (AP)—David D. Buick, founder of the Buick Automobile Company, now a unit of the General Motors Corporation, is dead here of cancer. He was 74 years.

He had for years been too poor to own an automobile, yet millions of cars bore his name.

Mr. Buick, who was known as one of the pioneers of the automobile industry, died in comparative poverty. For the last two years he had held an instructorship in the Detroit School of Trades.

In 1901 Mr. Buick was a wealthy man, a manufacturer of plumbing fixtures who had just sold his plant for $100,000 to indulge in his

DE VALERA OUT OF JAIL 4 DAYS AHEAD OF TIME

Belfast, Northern Ireland, March 6 (AP)—Eamon De Valera, Irish Republican chieftain, was released this afternoon from jail four days before the completion of a 30-day sentence he had been serving for illegally entering Ulster territory.

De Valera was arrested at Newry on the Ulster-Free State frontier, February 5, as he was attempting to reach Belfast in violation of a long-standing order prohibiting him from entering Ulster.

His arrest caused protests from Republican sympathizers in the Free State, and President Cosgrave explained that, although the Free State had made representations to Belfast authorities, he could take no further official action. It was feared that De Valera might be sentenced to two years' imprisonment, but he received only 30 days, on February 8, for attempting to flout the laws of Ulster.

De Valera seemed to be in excellent health and was motored to a town in the Ulster border and placed in a train bound for Dublin.

IMPERILLED BY FLAMES

Celia Kadis of 384 Harrison ave., who was ready to flee early today when flames menaced her home. Three firemen were injured in fighting the fire, which did considerable damage and threw a wide and thickly populated area into confusion. (Staff photo.)

3 FIREMEN ARE HURT AT SOUTH END BLAZE

Three firemen were injured early today battling flames that swept through Union Hall at 386-390 Harrison ave., causing a loss of $10,000 and menacing many tenements in the district.

The firemen, struck by sections of a falling building and by flying glass, were assisted from the smoke-filled structure by fellow firemen and taken to City Hospital.

The two upper floors of the building, a three-story brick structure, were wrecked. The flames are believed to have started from a carelessly discarded match on the second floor of the building. They spread rapidly up the stairway into the top floor and burst through the roof.

Deputy Chief Downey, who responded on the first alarm, immediately ordered a second when it appeared that the fire would spread to other buildings in the thickly settled district.

FIREMEN INJURED

Hundreds of residents in surrounding dwellings left their homes and went into the street to watch the firemen fight the blaze.

Fireman Charles McCloskey of Ladder 3 was working on the second floor of the buildin when he was showered with glass from a smashed window. Bleeding from several lacerations on the face and hands, he was assisted down the stairs by other firemen.

A few minutes later Fireman John Kiley and Cornelius O'Keefe

POISONED RUM DEATH VICTIMS NUMBER 21

Peoria, Ill., March 6 (INS)—The death toll in Peoria and Kouchouse due to poisoned alcohol rose to 21 today.

The latest death reported was that of William J. Hall, 60, of Galesburg. Three other deaths in Galesburg, reported earlier, were those of D. T. Trout, 28; Rex Colville, a railroad engineer, and Charles Harkrader, a bartender.

Seventeen deaths have been reported in Peoria County.

There are three cases of blindness being investigated in Peoria, and two in Galesburg.

Five alleged bootleggers were arrested, two of them women

Prof. George Ashman of the chemistry department of Bradley Polytechnic Institute, testifying at the coroner's inquest into the death of Clarence Hoppe, said Hoppe died as a result of drinking liquor containing from 10 to 15 per cent of wood alcohol.

REBELS MUTINY IN VERA CRUZ; FEDERALS MARCH TO RETAKE MONTERREY

Washington, March 6 (AP)—American Consul Willys A. Myers at Vera Cruz reported to the State Department today that the 3d Battalion of the revolutionary garrison at Vera Cruz had mutinied at dawn today and was occupying half of the city.

The revolutionary troops have been in possession of Vera Cruz since last Sunday under the leadership of Gen. J. M. Aguirre. Some of the forces were sent out from Vera Cruz and occupied towns throughout that state, but later reports said some have been evacuated by the rebels.

Mexico City, March 6—The battle line in Mexico today moved within gun range of the United States border.

Reports received here said rebel forces planned an attack on Juarez, across the border from El Paso, Texas, and that loyal federals were moving on Nogales, Sonora, close to the Arizona line.

In some quarters it was said that Juarez would be in the hands of the revolutionists before midnight.

Should actual fighting occur on the border it is understood here that United States troops will be rushed to the line to protect American property and citizens on their own side the Rio Grande.

Mexico 'War' Bulletins

Mexico City, March 6 (AP)—The government today published a telegram received from Ambassador Telles at Washington, reading: "As a result of a conference this morning between President Hoover and Secretary Kellogg the State Department is delivering to the press an announcement that the American Government will furnish to the Mexican Government upon solicitation arms and facilities for their exportation, according to the needs of the Mexican Government.

New York, March 6 (AP)—Telegrams naming him general representative of the Mexican rebellion in New York have been received by Gen. Manual Montero Villar. He said he had appointed Ignacio Moran Marical as consul in New York for the revolutionaries.

Navajoa, Sonora, Mex., March 6 (AP) — Mario Tapia DeObregon, widow of the late President-elect Alvaro Obregon, today sent a telegram to President Herbert Hoover in Washington urging him to view the Mexican revolutionary situation in an "impartial and just manner."

New York, March 6 (AP)—Millions of dollars of American money are invested in the Mexican revolutionary area, but advices reached here are that mining operations are going on as usual. Officials of the Greene Cananea Copper Company, which has properties at Cananea in the State of Sonora, said they had received word that there has been no interruption in work at its mines. The Anaconda Copper Mining Company also reported there had been no interruption in that company's work.

HOOVER TO CALL EXTRA SESSION FOR APRIL 15

Washington, March 6 (AP)—On the second full day of his administration, Herbert Hoover's mind turned to the special session of Congress he has promised to call to deal with farm relief and the tariff. He talked it over with Representative Tilson of Connecticut, Republican leader of the House, and other members of Congress.

Tilson recommended the call be issued either for April 10 or April 15 and the probabilities are Mr Hoover will select the latter date since it falls on a Monday.

FARM RELIEF FIRST

Farm relief will be taken up first by the House while the ways and means committee is perfecting tariff amendments.

The Senate meantime will perfect its organization and give attention to nominations, many of which failed with the last Congress.

The Chief Executive had many callers in the forenoon and received two recommendations for the office of solicitor general made vacant by the elevation of William D. Mitchell to the attorney-generalship.

Senator Reed of Pennsylvania proposed John G. Buchanan, a Pittsburgh lawyer, while appoint-

MEXICAN BATTLE LINE MOVES CLOSE TO THE AMERICAN BORDER

At the same time it was announced that federal troops were converging from five directions on Monterey, capital of Nuevo Leon, captured by the rebels yesterday after a 10-hour battle.

A counter-attack which would attempt recapture from Gen. Gonzalo Escobar, the rebel leader, was reported near. The federal force marching in the counter-attack numbers 8000 men. The city is reported held by 2800 rebels.

Throughout the revolt-torn district open warfare raged today between strong forces of the opposing factions.

MOVE MONEY INTO U. S.

Abelardo Rodriguez, civil governor of Baja California and military commander of the northern district of his state, has invaded the rebel State of Sonora, and occupied San Luis, on the Baja California-Sonora border.

Gen. Gustalum, a commander under Rodriguez, with 250 troops, has crossed into Sonora, it is announced that he will march across 200 miles of desert to attack the capital city.

News of an impending attack on Juarez caused great excitement in that city. Federal troops there moved 25 miles southward to cut the railroad line at Samalayuca, to stop the reported movement of a rebel force advancing upon the city. Thus far Juarez has remained loyal to the Mexico City government.

Reports at Juarez said the rebels, under Gen. Marcelo Caraveo, Governor of Chihuahua, left Chihuahua City yesterday with orders to attack the border city. Observers said they believed the two forts in the mountains south of Juarez would be the scene of the first fighting, if any. The troops at the forts were reported to be loyal to the government.

Funds in the Juarez branch of the Bank of Mexico were transferred to El Paso during the night and many Mexican officials moved their families to the American side.

An unverified report that 2000 rebel troops were marching upon Nuevo Laredo, across the line from Laredo, Tex., was denied by Gen. Benigno Serratos, head of the federals there.

Revolutionary leaders in Nogales, Sonora, have received a report that Gonzalo A. Gonzales, brother-in-law of former President P. Elias Calles, and former collector of customs in the Sonora border town, has been arrested by rebels at Piedras Negras, Coahuila.

While rebel leaders were claiming continued successes in their cause the federal Government today also claimed victories in their counter campaign.

FEDERALS VICTORIOUS

This morning the war ministry announced great progress in the federal drive seaward to recapture the city of Vera Cruz.

It stated that the entire rebel garrison of Orizaba, numbering about 800 troops, had been recaptured. Orizaba is only 80 miles from Vera Cruz.

It was also stated that 350 rebels surrendered to the federal vanguard at Esperanza, Puebla, near the Vera Cruz boundary. Seven large electric and steam locomotives and much other rolling stock was recaptured at the railway junction there.

Gen. M. Molinar commanded the federal force which captured Esperanza. He reported that he encountered no opposition.

The federal force which took Orizaba consisted of 8000 infantry and cavalry under the command of Gen. Almazan. The Government indicated that only virtually no opposition was encountered there either.

This force has been augmented to 15,000 for the pending concerted drive upon Perote and Vera Cruz. War Minister Calles believes the rebel force defending Vera Cruz under Gen. Aguirre is not sufficiently large to offer effective resistance to the federal forces.

According to unofficial estimates, Gen. Aguirre's army totals between 9000 and 6000 men.

CAPTURE NEW TOWN

Late dispatches received here indicated that Guaymas, in Sonora, has fallen into the hands of the revolutionists. Travelers reaching there by automobile from Hermosillo reported all was quiet in the city.

Gen Armenta, with the 20th battalion of the Mexican army, and perhaps some other troops still in Obregon loyal to the Porter Gil government, has taken to the mountains.

Another late government announcement said Col. Adalberto Tejeda, governor of the State of Vera Cruz had evaded the rebels and with 500 followers was at a point between Jalapa and Teocelo, in the State of Vera Cruz... trying to raise more troops in order to lead his own advance against the rebels.

Tejeda's whereabouts had been a mystery since Sunday.

AMERICANS STRANDED.

The government today stated that propaganda is being dropped from airplanes in many cities, urging rebels to lay down their arms or face serious consequences. President Portes Gil said no means were being omitted which might serve to avoid bloodshed.

Officials estimate that the revolt throughout the country has been restricted to only about 10,000 regular troops, or about one-sixth of the entire Mexican army.

Railroad communication from this capital to the outside world is now restricted to Tampico. All other routes have been disrupted.

Many American tourists and business men are stranded here but so far have suffered no inconvenience. Government food control is being debated owing to the imminent shortage of food supplies.

CHIHUAHUA FALLS.

Reports received here to the effect that the Chihuahua city garrison, commanded by Gen. Caraveo, had fallen before the onslaughts of a rebel force were confirmed today. The reports said Gen Caraveo had joined the rebel ranks.

Reports from the border said that if an engagement follows at Nuevo Laredo, United States troops from Fort McIntosh will probably be rushed to the American side of the international bridge here to see that American residents on the U. S. side of the border are not endangered.

A dispatch sent from Guaymas, a port in Sonora, said:

"Travelers arriving at Guaymas from Hermosillo by automobile report all quiet on the afternoon of March 4. Gen. Amanta and the 26th battalion and other troops and Indians loyal to the Portes Gil government have taken to the mountains. There was no news of any combat and Guaymas is in the hands of the revolutionists.

"The Mexican vessel Bolivar has been seized by the revolutionists.

"The Glorish, an American fishing vessel, is in the harbor.

"Gen. Manzo, leader of the Sonora revolutionists, has informed merchants and bankers business should continue as usual. Revolution has ample funds. There will be no seizures for forced loans. But our opponents will be executed."

With but 10,000 regular troops reported among the revolutionary forces it was pointed out today that the present situation is not nearly so bad as that which existed in the revolt of Adolfo De La Huerta in 1923, when the Rebel forces comprised more than half the army, but still lost their campaign.

Rebel Leader Plans for Drive on Mexico City

Nogales, Ariz., March 6 (AP)—Gen. Francisco Borquez, revolutionary commander of the northern section of Sonora, declared in a statement today from his headquarters in Nogales, Sonora, that rebel forces steadily were converging toward the interior of Mexico from Ortiz, Chihuahua; Durango, Torreon, Chihuahua City and other strategic points.

"Controlling, as we do, Sonora, Sinaloa, Cuhuila, Durango, Zacatecas, Nuevo Leon, Vera Cruz, Nayarit and Jalisco, we can sweep down on the national capital from the north, east and west," the statement said.

"The greatest battle of the revolution probably will be fought in Jalisco or Guanajuato," it continued. "It is reported that Gen. Calles plans to go to Irapuato to organize his forces for an intended invasion of Sonora. If this is true, I look for the issue to be settled near Guadalajara.

"Calles will find he cannot make much progress in Jalisco, which is in our control and is full of Catholics who have been persecuted by him in the past. Calles, in fact, will never be able to organize the Jalisco Catholics."

Gen. Borquez informed persons who applied to him for safe conduct to the south, that no special steps to insure their safety would be required.

From Mazatlan, in Sinaloa, came a delayed dispatch saying:

"All federal offices, including the telegraph office, were closed this morning. Employes placed on the train for Guadalajara, and federal troops. Rebel army is reported to have been at San Elias, repairing railroad. Have no means of communication except steamers. Only municipal authorities left in the city.

All Efforts Made to Protect U. S. Rights in Mexico

Washington, March 6 (AP)—American diplomatic and consular officers in Mexico are exerting every effort to protect the lives of Americans and their property in the sections of the Republic where revolutionary disturbances are in progress.

The extent of the property interests of Americans in Mexico was estimated by State Department officials today at $2,000,000,000. No reports of damage to any American property has thus far been received in Washington.

President Portes Gil Pays Visit to Morrow

Mexico City, March 6 (INS)—Much significance was attached today to the unusual exchange of courtesies between President Portes Gil and United States Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow yesterday.

After the ambassador had made a formal visit to the president at his residence in Chapultepec Park, the Mexican president broke all precedent by officially and formally reciprocating the American envoy's visit.

President Portes Gil stayed at the embassy for fully a half-hour last night. What was discussed at the two conferences was not revealed, but it is believed here that the American ambassador assured the president that the Hoover administration would continue the Coolidge policy of moral and material support of the present Mexican government.

BOOTLEGS HIT BY JONES LAW

Attorney Stone also communicated today with immigration officials, requesting co-operation from them in the enforcement of deportations under the Jones bill wrote.

By characterizing once-convicted bootleggers as felons, the new law renders them liable to immediate exclusion from the country if they have been here less than five years. Asst. U. S Atty. John W. Schenck will prosecute such undesirable aliens at the discretion of his department and the department of immigration.

"Tragedy looms on the horizon of hundreds of unnaturalized families," Atty Stone declared today, "if convictions of foreign-born liquor makers and liquor sellers continue to be as numerous as they have been in the past."

dream of a "horseless carriage." He had been experimenting with automobiles for years.

Uses his entire fortune in a series of "horseless carriages," none of which was a success. He was in debt when he finally developed a car he was convinced was practicable. By driving it from Detroit to Flint, 68 miles, he convinced J. H. Whiting, president of the Flint Wagon Works, of the motor car's possibilities and Whiting became his financial backer and partner.

They made 28 cars the first year, but one was extraordinarily successful. After making changes in design, they produced a car that would sell, but by that time the Buick Company, the Flint Wagon Works and several Flint banks were so deeply involved they asked W. C. Durant of the Durant-Dort Carriage Company of Flint to take over the tottering Buick Company

Durant did so. He sold $500,000 worth of stock in the enterprise and later organized the General Motors Corporation, which he in turn lost to the DuPonts and other capitalists.

Mr Buick later engaged in other enterprises, none of which brought him success.

The inventors in 1909 went to California and organized an oil company. Once more fortune appeared about to smile upon him, but he became involved in litigation over ownership of the lands. Court action was long and costly. Mr. Buick soon found himself penniless.

His second dream of wealth shattered, and growing old, he once more sought to wrest a fortune from the world that had treated him nons too well. He became partner in a company controlling many acres of land in Florida. The company failed.

He returned to Detroit. He was past 70, "broke," almost friendless. He made his home in a shabby little flat. He could not even afford a telephone. Cars bearing his name flashed past his door. He could not afford an automobile.

John D. Says His 'Old Man' Is Always Fair Weather

Jerusalem, March 6 (AP)—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., admits his father is a stronger man than he is.

"My father is like Egypt—he has always good weather. At 89 he is still stronger than I am," John D. Rockefeller, Jr., said to newspapermen in the American colony house today.

Mr. Rockefeller intends staying in Palestine and Syria for eight days. He regards the Palestine trip as only supplementary to his visit to Egypt, but said he was unwilling to pass so near the Holy Land without seeing it.

Talking about travel, Mr. Rockefeller said he was struck by the panorama of Jerusalem, with beautiful buildings and paved streets better than in many American cities.

He will visit only archeological and historical sites, including Jerico and Nazareth, as he is pressed for time, since his boys must soon be back for school.

'TOM' TAGGART IS TAKEN BY DEATH

the tiller of the Democratic ship, steering a course that invariably brought him back into control. For 14 years prior to that rise to state "boss," Taggart fought his way upward through the political ranks, in county, city, state and national affairs.

STARTS ON CAREER.

In 1886, Taggart launched upon his political career by becoming the Democratic auditor of Marion County, in which Indianapolis is located. In 1890 he was re-elected for a second four-year term.

Meanwhile, in 1888, Taggart had been made Marion County Democratic chairman. In 1892 he was promoted to Democratic state chairman.

Taggart was elected mayor of Indianapolis in 1895 and re-elected in 1897, and again in 1899. He also was seventh district chairman for 12 years.

In 1904 Taggart was an outstanding figure at the national Democratic convention at St. Louis, Mo. He occupied a similar important place at the national Democratic convention in Denver in 1908.

The Taggarts emigrated to the United States when their son was only five years old and settled in Xenia, Ohio., where the boy Taggart received his early education in the common schools. His first employment was that of cleaning out the spittoons at a Xenia and beating an old-fashioned gong when the trains pulled in.

FRECKLED BOY

"He was just a plain, uninteresting, freckled-faced youngster when the freckles could be seen under the foreign substance," John Stoll described the boy Taggart in a biographical sketch. "One thing the boy freely admitted, that he was far from caring whether his face ever was washed."

One business venture, his health resort at French Lick, famous as a resting place, playground and political camping grounds, has attracted visitors from all sections of the United States. This hotel proved a mecca for both Republicans and Democratic leaders. Its central location made it a meeting place for politicians from all parts of the country.

Mr. Taggart remained president of the French Lick Springs Hotel until 1921, when he was succeeded by his son, Thomas D. Taggart.

Bulletins!

Douglas, Ariz., March 6 (AP)—Arturo Valenzuela, brother of Gilberto Valenzuela, Mexican presidential candidate, in a statement issued here declared that if former President P. Elias Calles is banished from the country, and "legal operation of government without interference of assassins" promised, revolutionary leaders will agree to peace.

Mexico City, March 6 (AP)—Bishop Juan Navarette of the Roman Catholic diocese of Sonora today was in the interior arranging for the first general observance of mass since 1926, when the clergy refused to continue services under what they regarded as unreasonable religious laws. Governor Topete, since the start of the revolt, has proclaimed suspension of the religious laws.

Mexico City, March 6 (INS)—The federal drive to recapture the rebellious citadel of Monterey, capital city of Nuevo Leon State, is being led by Gen. Juan Andreu Almazan, youngest general commanding a division in the Mexican army. Gen. Almazan has already taken the field.

of Ladder 3, who were also working on the second floor, were struck by a section of the ceiling as it fell. They too were helped out of the building.

All three were allowed to leave after treatment at City Hospital.

The fire was discovered by a passer-by who saw smoke pouring from the building. The first floor of the structure is occupied as meeting quarters by various labor unions.

A match carelessly tossed behind the stairway on the second floor is believed to have caused the blaze. The flames spread quickly up the stairway and were already raging through the top floor when fire apparatus arrived.

Firemen battled the flames for more than an hour before they were checked. Many residents in neighboring dwellings gathered their belongings together in preparation for flight to the street should the flying sparks ignite their homes.

side" of Beacon st., who opposed the sunken auto road feature of the plan, crowded the hearing room, a number being forced to stand.

At the opening, David A. Ellis informed the committee that Attorney Bentley W. Warren, who represents the Charles River Basin Association, was ill and asked permission for him to be heard in a week or ten days. Senator Chas'es Warren said the request would be taken under advisement.

Henry I. Harriman, chairman of the special commission which reported the plan, opened the proceedings with a detailed description of the proposed program.

The Charles River Basin, he said, is a great potential asset which has never been completed. He divided the project into three sections. First: Improvement of water conditions. Second: Treatment of the borders of the Basin. Third: Driveway feature, which would supply the missing links of the parkway system.

A feature would be the small cost, $500,000, according to Mr. Harriman, or less than the widening of Cambridge st. He said in the near future the El structure on Atlantic ave. would be taken as an overhead highway, thereby completing "the greater circular system in the downtown section."

40 FAMILIES IN REVERE FLOOD

Milk wagons and automobiles were stalled in the flooded area. Mayor Cassano and Commissioner of Public Works Walter Sanerio took personal charge of the situation, ordering city automobiles and trucks out to carry groceries and other supplies to the occupants of the houses which were isolated by the high water.

The district principally affected were Sagamore, Dow, Agawam, Calumet and Dunn road. Water was from one to three feet deep on all of these.

The "county ditch" flows from Melrose through Everett, Chelsea and Revere to the Point of Pines. In the Oak Island and Point of Pines districts it is known as Diamond Creek. Automatic gates at its mouth are designed to shut off tide water from backing up the stream, but the gates failed to operate today.

ment of Judge Charles Dawson of Kentucky was urged by Senator Sackett, J. M. Chilton, national committeeman, and R. W. Huntley, Republican State chairman of Kentucky.

BORAH IS CALLER

Another caller was Senator Borah of Idaho, who said he contemplated no comment on his inaugural address and especially that part of it dealing with general law enforcement.

Senators Edge of New Jersey and Robinson of Indiana and Dan Pomeroy of New Jersey, vice-chairman of the Republican national committee, also called to pay their respects.

The cabinet members who will work with President Hoover were all at their desks today, the last two to be sworn in, James W. Good as secretary of war, and Arthur M. Hyde as secretary of agriculture, taking the oath of office this morning.

Secretaries Mellon, Davis and Kellogg are holdover members, but Mr. Kellogg will be relieved soon by Henry L. Stimson of New York, former Governor-General of the Philippines, now en route across the Pacific to take up his new duties.

MELLON IGNORES FOES

Secretary Mellon was at the Treasury Department as usual today, apparently unmindful of the fight begun in the Senate on his eligibility to continue service without the formality of renomination and confirmation.

Secretary Good was the first sworn in today, taking the oath from John B. Randolph, veteran assistant chief clerk of the War Department, in the presence of a large number of official and personal friends.

Mr. Hyde, a former Governor of Missouri, assumed office soon afterward, the oath being administered by R. M. Reese, chief clerk of the Department of Agriculture.

The retiring secretary, William M. Jardine, was the first to greet Mr. Hyde's hand, exclaiming: "God bless you, Arthur."

Mrs. Hyde and a daughter were among those who witnessed the ceremony.

New Irish Envoy Reaches America

New York, March 6 (AP)—Michael MacWhite arrived on the lines of the Cunard liner to succeed Timothy Smiddy as minister to Washington from the Irish Free State.

MacWhite, who was accompanied by his wife and their five-year-old son Eoin, is to build up "good commercial relations." When it was suggested there was little room for way of diplomacy to cause a ruffle between America and Ireland, he said: "So much the more need of a minister, for it is when we are so close that frequently we need diplomatic oil on the water."

HIGH SCHOOL 'SHEIK' HELD IN GIRL'S DEATH

Salem, N. J., March 6 (INS)—This tree-shaded farm town with its ten churches was on fire today over the poison death of one of its pretty schoolgirls.

Alice Whiteseil, only 18, is dead. She was a poor girl.

Harry Bloemer, high school "sheik," and member of a wealthy family, admitted buying strychnine and giving it to her on February 19, according to Sheriff J. Emmor Robinson.

"Harry said he didn't want to kill her," said Robinson.

But there was a girl Bloemer did want to marry. She is a pretty blonde, Eleanor Butler, 20, daughter of a well-to-do family.

Eleanor is critically ill. Harry is alleged to have left this girl he loves parked in the automobile while he bought the "rat poison" for the other girl he didn't want to marry.

"Harry is innocent," moans Eleanor in her illness. "He was in Salem high school with me when they say he was giving that girl poison."

They are calling the case "the second American tragedy" due to the striking similarity of Theodore Dreiser's novel and this tragedy of youth.

A coroner's jury will decide tomorrow whether Alice committed suicide or whether Harry Bloemer is to go on trial for murder.

Emma Hofacker, 15, closest friend of the dead Alice, is to be one of the main witnesses at the inquest.

"When Alice left me that night she waved her hand said, 'I'll see you tomorrow'" said Emma. "If she said that, how could she have known she was going to take poison that would kill her?"

Joseph Whiteseil, father of the dead girl, is just a working man.

"It weren't suicide and the coroner's jury shouldn't find it suicide," said Whiteseil.

N. E. Exams for West Point Open

The annual West Point examination for Congressional appointees from New England States and regular army soldiers of the First Corps Area began today at the Army Base before a Board of Officers consisting of Maj. FIRST-AID WEEK BEGINS MAR. 17

The annual "First Aid—Home Remedy Week" will be held this year from March 17 to 23, it was announced today.

This will be the eighth successive year in which Sterling Products, Inc., originators of the "Week" point out to householders the necessity for having a well-filled home medicine chest against emergency.

"First Aid — Home Remedy Week" has the full approval and support of both the National Retail Druggists' and the National Wholesale Druggists' Associations.

Out of his long experience, Secretary S. C. Henry of the retail national body declared today in connection with the week:

"No one knows better than the average retail druggist how much needless suffering there is because most people are neglectful in the matter of making provision for the hour of need which is sure to come when sudden illness or unforeseen accident calls for immediate attention."

Form "Anti-Ugliness" Society

BYRD'S CHIEF AID RESIGNS

London, March 6 (AP)—An exchange Telegraph dispatch from Wellington, New Zealand, says that Lieut. Richard Evophy, second in command of the Byrd Antarctic expedition, is resigning his position.

Wellington, N. Z., March 6 (AP)—Commander Richard E. Byrd's supply ship, the Eleanor Bolling, has arrived at Dunedin, bearing traces of terrific storms she encountered 1200 miles south of New Zealand on her way back to the ice barrier with supplies. It was at this point that Commander Byrd ordered her to return with her cargo to New Zealand.

The brave ship, the City of New York, is expected on Monday and both vessels will lay up at Dunedin for the winter.

Malden Girl Is Smallpox Victim

Miss Katherine Hughes, 19, a Boston stenographer, who has been ill at her home in West st., Malden, for two weeks, was today declared to be a victim of smallpox.

Malden Board of Health officials, called in when she failed to respond to treatment for chicken pox, diagnosed the disease as the more deadly ailment and removed Miss Hughes to a special isolation ward in the Malden Contagious Hospital.

DEFENSE OPENS IN DICE GAME HOLDUP CASE

The government rested today in the prosecution of the five men on trial in Superior Court for their alleged holdup of a poolroom dice game in Everett st.

Anthony "Sparky" Chiampa, slain in Revere, was a member of the holdup gang, according to the government.

The defendants are Angelo Polcari, known as "The Sheik"; Pasquale ("Paddy Wagon") Vallarelli, Americo Tutella, Carmino Ventola and Edward Curran.

Just before the prosecution closed, Patrolman Edward D. Creighton of the Dudley st. station testified under direct examination by Asst. Dist. Atty. Frederick T. Doyle that 1:30 a. m. on Jan. 13 he saw five men get out of a taxicab in Edgewood st., Roxbury.

He identified Polcari, Vallarelli and Ventola as three of the five. This was just after the time alleged by the Government as the time of the holdup.

Several victims of the holdup testified today also, including John O'Neil, dead mute; Isadore Monoson and Samuel Barash.

Another witness was Samuel Gaspar of Bulfinch st., West End. He testified he was the lookout for the dice game and received a slap on the mouth by a holdup man, who then pressed a gun into his side.

Ex-Senator James E. Brennan, counsel for Curran, opened the defense immediately after the prosecution closed.

The residue of the estate is given to Emma Page of Jamaica Plain, a sister, and to his niece, Miss Hedwig Krebs, of Zollikon, Switzerland.

THIEVES SHOOT 2 POLICEMEN

Cleveland, March 6 (AP)—Patrolman Carl Sherman was killed and Sergt. Martin E. Hoffman was shot through the chest today when they attempted to stop two thieves from stripping an automobile.

The two officers received a call at a West Side precinct station that two men were stripping an automobile at a lonely spot and left to apprehend the thieves.

As they drove up and stepped out of their own car, the two robbers opened fire before the officers had a chance to draw their guns. Anthony Blandy, a bus driver, found them later, Sherman dead and Hoffman lying on his side.

The slayers escaped in their automobile, which they had stolen.

COOLIDGE CLEARS UP MYSTERY OF PLANS

WILL SEEK NEW HOME, SAYS 'SPOKESMAN'

By JAMES J. SMITH

Northampton, March 6—Househunting is the chief problem confronting Calvin Coolidge and Mrs. Coolidge, for they have reluctantly decided to move from the house on Massasoit st., which has been their real home for 25 years.

On his second day as a private citizen, the former president got his biggest "kick" out of not having to get up at 8 o'clock in the morning to start dictating letters and otherwise "stay in the harness" until 10 o'clock at night.

Mrs Coolidge, on the other hand, found her greatest satisfaction in breathing the invigorating northern air as she strolled with her pet chow-chow, Tiny Tim. She said:

"The air is much more wonderful up here than in Washington, and I feel much better already."

"It was hard to leave our old friends in Washington but it is nice to get back here. It was a great lark but a great responsibility. It is too bad that more women cannot have the opportunity of living in the White House. It is a great opportunity for service. Now I want to live like my old friends here."

REVIVES "SPOKESMAN"

In talking with newspapermen today, Mr. Coolidge retained his "White House spokesman" role, saying that he be not quoted and according, on that basis, cleared up much of the mystery about his plans.

He went to his old law office by automobile and received the reporters in the same small room where he received clients many years ago.

It is on the second floor at 20 Main st., and the window bears the same old sign, Calvin Coolidge, lawyer.

He was dressed in a dark blue business suit. Throughout the morning he smiled continually, cracked jokes and thoroughly enjoyed himself. Washington correspondents said they never dreamed he had so many smiles in his system.

It was shortly after 9 when he reached his office and found a huge heap of mail and telegrams, mostly congratulatory messages.

Mr. Coolidge is trying hard to learn how to be a private citizen, after being in the public service almost without interruption for 30 years. It is a job he frankly admits he knows little about, but, at any rate, he feels "a different man" already.

WHY HE IS "THANKFUL"

One thing he is thankful for is that he was not compelled to make speeches he doesn't want to make.

The Coolidges will move from 21 Massasoit st., where they have half of a two-family dwelling, because there is evident necessity for a large place, due in part to the many new presents which have been acquired since Mr. Coolidge was called to Washington.

It is apparent, however, that both Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge have great affection for their present home. Both their sons were born and raised there, and they don't like to move.

Mr. Coolidge has no intention, for the present, at least, of writing a book, and he will not practice law again.

The Coolidges don't plan a trip to Europe, either, as had been rumored. There are so many places of interest to both of them in this country that a trip abroad is farthest from their minds.

NO JOBS FOR LUCEY.

Plymouth, Vt., his old home, has its allurements for Mr. Coolidge, especially now that the syrup time nears, but no visit will be made at this time of the year.

As for his old friend, Jim Lucey, the Northampton shoemaker, the ex-President has a surprise visit in mind to renew their long friendship, but there is no prospect of business for Mr. Lucey, for the baggage from Washington contains enough shoes to last Mr. Coolidge a long, long time. The Coolidges chuckle accompanied these disclosures.

With a happy smile came the statement that Mr. Coolidge would go home for lunch as in days gone by.

In regard to a new abode, no indication was given of its possible location, but it was inferred that it will at least be in this city.

MRS. COOLIDGE AT WORK

After her walk, Mrs. Coolidge plunged into housework, her first in several years. She made several changes in the arrangement of the furniture.

Alfred La Rochelle, 16, of Walnut st., a messenger boy, is one of the happiest lads in the city as a result of a trip to the Coolidge home with a telegram. He was invited in and treated to cake and coffee by Mrs. Coolidge, while Mr. Coolidge, who was at home at the time chatted with him.

The boy is about the same age as Calvin, Jr., was when he died of blood poisoning five years ago.

Another happy resident of Northampton is Miss Mae E. Hayes, stenographer for Atty. Ralph Feneavay, who shares a suite of offices with Calvin Coolidge. She received a warm handshake from the ex-president who later dictated a few letters to her. She has been employed there since Mr. Coolidge was lieutenant-governor.

GREAT QUEST OF TYPICAL GIRL IS POPULAR

Hundreds of New England girls —or their friends—believe they qualify first for the title Typical American Girl. This is attested to fact that photographs and letters are pouring in on the American Girl Editor with the closing date, March 31, still 25 days away.

The great Quest for the Typical American Girl, being conducted throughout the country has been taken to heart by the girls of the nation and by the girls admirers.

The girl who is selected will receive the $5000 award made by Smart Set Magazine, and will be acclaimed the Typical American Girl, a wonderful honor in itself.

Send in to the Typical American Girl Editor of the Boston Evening American, a photograph and full description of the girl you wish to nominate for the honor of being selected in this region.

PHOTO NECESSARY

A candidate cannot propose herself however, in this quest.

Each proposal must be accompanied not only by the girl's photograph, but by a biographical sketch, giving her age, weight, height, coloring (whether blonde or brunette etc.) and her social, business and athletic activities.

Not only may individual readers of the Boston Evening American make nominations for this highest honor that may be bestowed on an American girl in this decade, but social and other organizations may nominate candidates.

Also, high school societies, college sororities, business girls' organizations, women's clubs—all are invited to participate in this most interesting quest of the generation.

The search is a selective one and not a motion picture, popularity or beauty contest. It is an effort on the part of Smart Set Magazine and the 17 co-operating newspapers to find the girl best representing the Typical American Girl.

EXPENSES PAID

The girl ... is chosen by the Boston Evening American as the Typical American Girl of this section, will be sent to New York City under proper chaperonage and with all expenses paid as the guest of Smart Set Magazine.

There, with the 16 other regional winners, she will be the guest of the magazine for a week.

While the 17 regional winners are in New York the national committee selected by Smart Set Magazine will choose the Typical American Girl from among them and will award her $5000.

But this is not all. Guy Hoff, the famous artist, who does the covers for Smart Set Magazine, will paint the portrait of the winner for possible use on one of the summer ... of the ...zine.

After he has finished that job he will paint the portrait of five of the remaining 16 girls.

Rules of the Quest

1—This is a selective search, not a motion picture, popularity, or beauty contest. It is an sincere effort to find the girl who best represents The Typical American Girl. The term, "Typical American Girl," means one who is representative of young American womanhood in character, intellect and appearance. The Quest ends at midnight, March 31.

2—A National Committee of Judges appointed by Smart Set will make the final decision and grant a $5000 award to the selected girl. This committee is composed of Rosamond Pinchot Gaston, Vina Delmar, Jesse L. Lasky, John Golden, Guy Hoff and Margaret Sangster, editor of Smart Set, and a representative of the Hearst newspapers.

3—A local committee of judges will select each newspaper's Regional Winner.

4—A candidate cannot propose herself. She must be proposed by some individual, club or organization. This proposal must be sent to the Quest Editor of the Boston Evening American.

5—Each candidate's proposal must be accompanied by her photograph, biographical sketch, listing age, weight, height, coloring, education, and her social, business and athletic activities.

6—The girl chosen as the New England winner will be sent, under proper chaperonage, to New York at Smart Set's call.

7—The minimum age is 17.

8—In the event that the decision of the National Committee of Judges results in a tie vote, the full award of $5000 will be given to each tying candidate.

9—The decision of the judges will be final. No relative or member of the household or anyone connected with this publication, or with participating newspapers, can enter the Quest.

Taylor Dies in Chair Declaring Innocence

George Taylor, the "dancing barber," died in the electric chair of Charlestown prison at three minutes after midnight today, protesting his innocence to the world in a letter to his brother and sister.

Taylor spent his last hours in spiritual consolation and also writing a letter of thanks to his attorneys, John H. O'Neil and Francis E. Rafter.

FIN. COM. RAPS, LAUDS CITY'S LOAN POLICY

The general loan policy of Mayor Nichols is praised, but certain features of it are sharply criticized, in the annual report of the Boston Finance Commission, which was issued today.

The commission announced that out of its own appropriation of $30,000 to carry on its year's operations it has an unexpended balance of $4,535.01.

While the net debt of the city increased from $53,882,151 on January 1, 1928, to $56,200,000 on January 1, 1929, the Mayor has exercised discretion in his approval of loans, according to the report, which praises him especially for vetoing City Council loans for district playgrounds and municipal buildings.

The commission asserts that the Mayor erred in borrowing for purchase of department equipment, which should have been a current replacement charge, and in certain street resurfacing and reconstruction jobs, including River st., which should have been met out of current taxes, in the opinion of the commission.

The Public Welfare Department ceased paying doles to many persons not entitled to relief, effecting a saving of $639 a week, the report also states.

Sir Oliver Lodge Gets "Messages" From His Wife

London, March 6 (AP)—Sir Oliver Lodge, celebrated scientist and spiritual philosopher, says in an "in memoriam" tribute to his wife, who died Feb. 29, that he has received messages from her.

Sir Oliver states that "she met and was welcomed by her beloved son and daughter and was allowed to send us a characteristic and evidential message before being taken by them to rest and recuperate."

Medical Aid For Netoco Employes

The New England Theaters Operating Corporation of Boston has recently made arrangements to learn the physical status of every one of its several hundred employes. A prominent Boston physician has been named medical and surgical advisor of the corporation, and appointments are now being made for complete physical examination at the corporation's expense of each one of the Netoco personnel.

This will not only acquaint Netoco with the state of health of its employes, but will prove a boon to the workers themselves. Since the Netoco medical advisor may be consulted at any time by the employes of the corporation, it represents a substantial saving in doctor bills to each individual.

PAID $4000 FOR HOCKEY RIGHTS, SAYS DUGGAN

Thomas J. Duggan of Montreal paid $4000 for two franchises in the National Hockey League, he testified today during a searching cross-examination of his suit to compel Charles F. Adams, owner of the Boston Bruins to turn over 2250 shares of common stock in the Boston Professional Hockey Association.

Atty. Samuel Hoar conducted the cross-examination and read a letter of Nov. 7, 1924, from Adams to Duggan, stating Adams wished to revert to the original proposition of dividing with Duggan half the profits of the 1924-25 season.

Duggan in reply to Adams then was read, expressing surprise at the letter and reminding Adams that he had sent him a contract to sign.

Under this, Adams organized the Boston club. Duggan's letter warned Adams that the only authority he had to transfer the franchise Duggan had given him to the Boston club was the contract Duggan had signed and was expecting Adams to sign.

DEATHS FROM RUM UNDER DRY LAW, TRIPLED, SAYS DOCTOR

Dr. Mayo F. Behneman, physician and director of laboratories at Franklin Hospital, San Francisco, assistant in medicine at the University of California and lately district medical officer for the United States Marine Corps in the Rocky Mountain states, has made a deep study of prohibition.

Dr. Mayo F. Behneman, physician and director of laboratories at Franklin Hospital, San Francisco, assistant in medicine at the University of California and lately district medical officer for the United States Marine Corps in the Rocky Mountain states, has made a deep study of prohibition.

Classed as a Pacific Coast authority on alcohol and its effects in medicine, and known for his liberal ideas with respect to means of justifying scientifically the nationwide demand for a temperance substitute for prohibition, Dr. Behneman was telegraphed for an opinion.

His reply, in part, is appended. He discusses the subject mainly from the public health angle, noting that the bone dry stress the social side of the evils of drink, rather than the medical. He says:

"Permanent complete alcoholic prohibition stands no chance of being accepted in this country. The pendulum has swung the other way!

RATE RISES

"Despite the prohibitionist politicians, America's death rate in 1926 was higher than in 1925, in 23 of the 28 states of the Department of Commerce registration area. And in 1925, the death rate was higher than in 1924, in 16 of those states.

"Back in 1919, when a good many deaths from war illnesses were always occurring, the registration area death rate was 12.8 persons out of every 1000; seven years later, in 1926, the rate had dropped to 12.1, a decrease of seven-tenths of one person out of every 1000.

"Stop and think what an infinitesimal role prohibition played. Great advances in the medical sciences, establishment of foundations for preservation of the nation's health, and the gradual decrease in post-war deaths were just a few factors that brought that figure down seven-tenths of one one-thousandth. This post-war period has been the greatest in the history of the world in the education of the public toward better health.

"How has our death rate compared with other countries?"

"To be fair, we must go back to 1914, five years before enactment of the dry law, and up to 1924, five years afterwards. In that 10-year period, the following 'wet' countries either equalled or passed this country in the lowering of their death rate: Austria, England, Wales, France, Germany, Ireland, Italy and Spain. Moreover, France and Germany lowered their death rate twice as much as we did in that period.

ALMOST TRIPLES

"Alcoholic ingestion has long been attacked on the grounds of its death-dealing qualities exulting in exit through heart, lung and kidney diseases, particularly Bright's disease. How ironical, that in 1925 there was an increase in mortality over 1924, in influenza, heart disease, and in all forms of nephritis. And in the latter year, the mortality had increased over 1920 in cancer, diabetes, nephritis and violent deaths. All since the reign of the bootlegger began.

"And here, perhaps, is the most startling and ludicrous situation, except for its tragedy, yet presented. The death rate from alcoholism in this land of the free in 1925, was 1.2 persons per thousand, while after four years of prohibition, it rose to 3.2, almost tripling itself.

"Enough for the dead.

"There was an increase of reportable diseases in 1925, numbering 29 out of 60, over what was present in 1924. The number of deaths from violence, which includes suicide and accidents, has almost doubled since the advent of the Volstead law.

"These are some of the evils of drastic, complete alcoholic prohibition with its bootlegging, its poisonous liquor, and its inevitable production of an increase in other vices which menace society. These are some of the persons who poisonous liquor alone killed in the first seven years of prohibition 15,000 more people than America lost in the World War.

ASYLUMS FILLED

"The mental hospitals of the United States contain nearly 300,000 inmates, and about 75,000 new ones enter yearly. And there is a most decided increase annually.

"Sixty institutions for feebleminded and epileptic patients in 36 States during 1926 had a total of 7203 first admissions, as compared with 6833 in 1922, an increase of 5.6 per cent.

"And prohibition was going to decrease the number of insane, and make many of our asylums empty memories of the past!

"Insanity and disease will continue to flourish, even if laws prohibiting the manufacture and sale of alcoholic beverages are made and, drastically executed.

"In the wide experience of Stephen Perham Jewett, clinician, he found only 4½ per cent of the ascendants of insane and mental defectives had a history of alcoholism. And this small percentage sold well be further cut down by proper methods of control, such as by liquor control board of England. Under its supervision and direction, drunkenness and its evils arising from misuse have been cut down to more than one-half since 1915, when the board went into operation.

"After all, what class was it that was supposedly killed by alcohol misuse? The weak and unfit were automatically eliminated by it, while the strong were left to profit by its conservative and limited use.

"Alcohol has forever been associated with the development of the most brilliant races and the life of the strongest nations. As Jewett marks: 'It is a peculiar fact that those countries in which the consumption of alcohol seems to be most universal, are the very ones which are in the vanguard of civilization.'

STATUS UNSOUND

"E Dumont Smith, president of the Kansas Bar Association, probably has in two words placed the status quo of the prohibition laws as well as anyone, when he recently declared it 'absolutely unpleasant' as well as 'hasty and ill-considered.'

"A word concerning the prisons and the narcotic addicts. The United States Department of Justice has lately announced that its most striking instance of increase in the number of federal prisoners in the last 10 years was among those convicted for violation of the narcotic law.

"There were only 299 such prisoners in 1919, while in 1927 there were 2116, the largest number incarcerated for violating any one federal law.

"Together, the number of federal prisoners during this period has increased 110 per cent, while the population of the country increased less than 20 per cent. On June 30, 1927, there were 18,788 federal prisoners in penitentiaries and jails, while on June 30, 1918, the number was 8,927.

"Although the population has increased only 40 per cent, arrests for drunkenness have increased 168 per cent during the last 17 years, according to police records. Back in 1910, in the days of the open saloon, the arrests totalled 4988, while during 1927 they totalled 13,373.

"Once in a while, figures are necessary to bring home the actual truth. Far too many bland statements on prohibition are made without support.

TELLS OF ABUSE

"Where does the argument against the use of alcoholic beverages lie? Many feel that the drinking of alcoholic liquor harms the human body. Few seem to carry the correct thought, that only ABUSE of alcoholic liquors causes harm. No one questons that—the abues or overuse of most anything connected with the human body is harmful. It's harmful to overeat continually. However, no one has taken food from us just because of that fact.

"The moderate, correct use of alcohol never hurt anybody, and there is no physiological basis or any other basis for feeling otherwise. The late Sir William Osler, the 'Hippocrates of modern medicine,' and regius professor of medicine at Oxford, states in his famous 'Principles and Practice of Medicine' the following:

"In moderation, wine, beer and spirits may be taken throughout a long life without impairing the general health.'

"I well remember, when I was an instructer in pharmacology at the University of Wisconsin, some member of the class questioned the use of alcohol as a food.

"My department superior, one of the three greatest pharmocologists in the world today, quite vociferously and forcibly stated that no hot would never be equalled as a food for the human body.

"Dr. Herman O. Mosenthal associate in medicine, Columbia University has written:

RESULTS MANY

"Alcohol produces neither sugar nor fatty acids and may thus be regarded as an ideal food for the diabetic.

"The references, the famous scientists and the results of their prolonged investigations are multiple and easy of access.

"No right-minded person would argue honestly for the old saloon unless its sole products were the light wines and beers. It was the old bar-room and the kind of liquor sold in it that caused John Barleycorn's legal downfall, for which the innocent now suffer for the guilty—or rather, with the guilty.

"Many a saloon plied spirituous liquors upon minors and degenerates and chronic drunkards. It was such a condition that prompted England's control of liquor distribution and consumption.

"Alcohol as a food, we find even superior to most other foods in one particular, viz., in that it does not require digestion. Float one fact alone makes alcoholic beverages indispensable in the feeding and treatment of those medical conditions related to a non-functioning digestive system.

"Under the present conditions, broadly speaking, the man who doesn't need his beer for its food value and social aspect is the very one who can afford to buy it from the bootlegger, while the hard worker, with his unbalanced diet, his monotonous fatiguing routine, work, and restricted social life, hasn't got the money to pay five times as much for something one-fourth as good."

Here Are Rules in Hearst Temperance Contest

THE purpose of the contest is to obtain a practical plan, as a substitute for prohibition, which will secure better actual temperance conditions, which will be more easily possible of enforcement by State and Federal authorities, which will offer less encouragement to crime and tend less to debauch the public service and which will not so outrage and violate the fundamental rights and personal liberties of American citizens.

The rules and conditions of the contest are simple and are as follows:

1—Every person is entitled to enter the contest, but no one person may submit more than one plan.

2—The practicable plan proposed as a substitute for prohibition must be set forth in an article containing not more than one thousand words.

3—This contest will close on April 30, 1929, and no plan which has not been mailed and postmarked on or before that date will be considered.

4—The articles submitted in the contest will be judged by a committee of eminent Americans, the personnel of the committee to be announced at a later date.

5—The full prize of $25,000 will be awarded to the contestant submitting the best plan as a practicable temperance substitute for prohibition.

6—If other plans not awarded the first prize shall still be considered worthy of some compensation by the committee, a second prize of $5,000 and other prizes of $1,000 each may be awarded.

7—Articles submitting a plan to be considered in this contest may be sent to the Temperance Contest Committee, care of the editor of any one of the following Hearst newspapers: Albany Times-Union, Atlanta Georgian, Baltimore News, Boston Evening American, Chicago Herald and Examiner, Detroit Times, Los Angeles Examiner, New York American, Omaha Bee-News, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Rochester Journal, San Antonio Light, San Francisco Examiner, Syracuse Journal, Seattle Post-Intelligencer, Washington Herald, Wisconsin News (Milwaukee).

John D., Jr., Touring Through Palestine

FIRES HIS SHOP, THEN STAGES 'ESCAPE'

Worcester, March 6—A "hair-breadth escape," realistically staged by Murad Katcholian, Southbridge st. clothier, who leaped to safety today through a broken window of his burning shop, failed to keep the merchant from arrest on a charge of setting the fire to defraud insurance companies.

Katcholian's wild dive through the smashed pane landed him in the brawny arms of Patrolman Edward T. Tobin.

"What's the hurry?" asked the officer when he got his breath.

"I woke up and found my place ablaze," the clothier explained.

Officer Tobin sniffed.

"How'd you get the kerosene on you?" he demanded but there was no answer.

In Worcester district court the Katcholian shop clothier pleaded guilty to the charge of setting the fire. Business was bad, he said, and he had $3500 insurance. He was held in $2000.

While the arraignment was taking place, firemen were still pouring water on what was left of the Katcholian shop.

Boy Plays 'Robber' With Dad's Gun; Baby's Dead

Camden, N. J. March 6 (AP)—Victim of a holdup prank played by her little brother, Betty Diehl 6, died at a hospital early today. Her brother, John, who shot her with his father's revolver, was held at the house of detention.

While the parents were absent John took the weapon, which he thought was empty, and pointed it at his sister, saying, "Hands up! I'm a robber." He pressed the trigger and a bullet entered Betty's abdomen.

A neighbor, hearing the shot, notified police. To them John said, "I put Betty in the bathtub and washed the blood away. Then a man came and took me away." An operation and blood transfusion failed to save the little girl's life.

Judge Fancost, who held the boy, said:

"It is a shame to hold this boy. It should be a crime to leave revolvers around the house where children can get hold of them."

King of Denmark Caught in Ice Jam

Copenhagen March 6 (AP)—Christian X, King of Denmark; Queen Alexandrine and Prince Knud arrived here this morning after spending the night aboard a ferry ice bound in mid-Baltic Sea.

STAGE ALL SET FOR INDIANA OIL BATTLE

Whiting, Ind., March 6 (AP)—This city of 20,000 inhabitants at Chicago's back door where the huge refineries employ approximately 90 per cent of the residents, is ready for the influx of stockholders tomorrow to attend the annual meeting of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, where the battle of oil between Rockefeller and Stewart will be decided.

Restaurants were stocked with supplies for the anticipated 2000 or more visitors, and hotels expected to have all rooms taken, for indications were that the meeting would last at least two days unless the outcome was indisputably determined by the number of proxies on hand in Chicago before the session opened.

Just off the main street, the story and a half brick community house was fitted out like a political convention hall, with batteries of telegraph and telephone wires testing under the auditorium stage, press tables in the orchestra pit, loud speakers linking the men's and women's gymnasiums with the main hall, and refreshment stands loaded to capacity.

Indeed, Whiting expected to witness a real convention fight, with Col. Stewart sounding the keynote in his annual business report, Rockefeller representatives presenting their side of the argument, and individual stockholders being heard from the floor. Mr. Rockefeller is in the Holy Land.

The meeting will first be called to order at the refinery offices, according to law, and then, if the expected crowd is on hand, will adjourn to the Community House to decide on the "moral fitness" of Col. Stewart to continue as a company director.

Col. Stewart was asked what he would tell the stockholders in defense of his activities with the Continental Trading Co., which resulted in Mr. Rockefeller's demand for his resignation.

"Well, if they flush me I'll tell them plenty," the great-shouldered ex-foster replied.

He will act as chairman to open the meeting, and then is expected to surrender the chair to E. G. Seubert, president. Winthrop W. Aldrich, New York attorney, will speak for John D., Jr. He arrived in Chicago Monday with 16,000 proxies in his pocket under guard. Fifty-nine per cent of the more than 5000 shares of Standard Oil stock have been lined up against Col. Stewart, Mr. Aldrich said. The Rockefeller group has only 16,000 of the 50,000 stockholders on its side. The big blocks of stock, however, are held by the Easterners.

Col. Stewart had on his side the proxies of 28.67 per cent of the 7000 employee-stockholders. He claimed the proxies also of nearly all the stockholders in the Middle West. Unless the uncontested proxies of one side greatly outnumber those of the other, a long, tedious check at the meeting is foreseen.

Evangeline Booth Welcomed in N. Y.

New York, March 6 (AP)—Evangeline Booth, commander-in-chief of the Salvation Army in America, returned today on the liner Pennsylvania from England, where she attended the meeting of the high council which deposed her brother, Gen. Brawmell Booth, as world commander-in-chief.

A thousand Salvation Army workers, led by a band and carrying flags, met Miss Booth at the pier. Miss Booth explained that the deposing of her brother was for the good of the Salvation Army of the world and for the well being of the general himself.

Clubwomen Warned of Cancer Peril

Cancer, the hidden menace to every Massachusetts home, is one reason why every woman should take periodic physical examinations, Dr. Anne C. Palmer, State Federation chairman of public health, told 300 members of the Wollaston Woman's Club.

She spoke while the club's pulses raced with the excitement of its annual election of officers, albeit temperatures remained normal.

"Men, who see the necessity of periodic examinations of their business, also understand the importance of regular physical examinations," Dr. Palmer said. "But women, thousands of them, fearing to learn they have this dread disease which is more prevalent in Massachusetts than in any other state in the Union, simply neglect going to a doctor until it is too late."

Dr. Palmer, explaining in detail how to have a thorough physical examination made, predicted that through the rapid strides of the public health service and every doctor today a specialist, the time is not far off when doctors will have to pay the patients when they get sick, like they do in China, instead of vice versa.

Cancer is the one disease which keeps two jumps ahead of medical science," she said. "This State leads all others in the number of cases with no apparent cause. We have observed that it attacks some nationalities more than others, and we have found how to cure it in its early stages.

EDUCATION ONLY HOPE

"But educating the public to regular physical examinations is our only hope of being able to discover it in time to check it. Some idea of the prevalence of this disease in our state can be gained by the fact that the new cancer hospital in Norfolk, opened 19 months ago, needs an addition to care for more patients now. This State hospital is a boon to sufferers, who receive care and living for only $1.50 a day if they pay it themselves, and $2.50 a day if the town pays it.

Here the patients are made comfortable, and they are the happiest group of persons you will find in a long while, because they know that they are being helped with the best that medical science offers today. They are able to see the beauties of life which we often fail to note in the everyday rush of business."

Dr. Palmer explained that cancer is now known to be not a hereditary disease as was formerly believed, but occurs in robust persons from generations of healthy ancestors.

ELECT NEW OFFICERS

Alexander Robertson, assistant health commissioner of Quincy, told how the "Toxin-Anti-toxin" treatment to immunize young children against diptheria has practically wiped that disease out of the community since May, 1927. He urged the clubwomen to prevail upon all young mothers of their acquaintance to protect their children under five years by applying to the public health service for this free immunization.

Mrs. Robert B. Wallace was unanimously elected president of the club and Mrs. W. Scott Austin, first vice president.

Others elected were Mrs. William A. Robb, second vice president; Mrs. Frank A. Lincoln, clerk; Mrs. William A. Leavitt, re-elected secretary; Mrs. Edward Chapman, treasurer; Mrs. Herbert S. Fairclough, custodian.

The following directors were elected: Mrs. F R. Duley, Mrs. Orville N. Estes, Mrs. Frank F. Jenks, Mrs. William W. MacDougal and Mrs. Henry E. K. Ruppel.

DORCHESTER OPERETTA

Mrs. Ruth Humphreys Knight scored another triumph in the presentation of the annual operetta at the Dorchester Women's Club when "The Gypsy Rover" was received with enthusiasm by two large audiences, afternoon and evening.

Leading roles sung by talented members of the club included Alice K. Osgood, soprano, Dolly M Hayden, soprano; Christina A. Wilson, mezzo; Iona S. Riedel, contralto, with male soloists assisting.

Others in the cast as the gypsy chorus included Mesdames Helen L. Dempsey, Ella W. Hill, Lottie M. Dunn, Grace B. Kelly, Wilma Adell, Grace Finn and Dorothy Willard and Misses Margaret Lien, Helena Riedel, Barbara Osgood and Dorothy Wurzburg. Miss Lilla Fries won new honors as dancing coach with her charming gypsy children, Gertrude Hann, Eleanor Knight, Beryl Sutherland, Richard Coffin, George Cutter and Richard Wilder.

A special feature was the community orchestra of 10 pieces directed by Mrs. Knight which furnished the music for dancing following the evening performance.

A large staff assisted in making this a brilliant event. Mrs. Ellen P. Davidson and Mrs. Knight managed the stage, Mrs. E. P. Ruggles had charge of the settings, Mrs. George A. Masters of candy, Mrs. William Hoag of tickets and Mrs. Fred Mann of advertising.

ROXBURY WOMEN IN COUNCIL

BRITISH PIANIST RENDERS FINE PROGRAM

By MOSES SMITH

Harold Samuel, English pianist, offered a program at Jordan Hall last night, and he attracted an audience not large, but as enthusiastic as the average full house would have been. He began his performance with music of Bach proceeded to Schumann's C major Fantasia, three short pieces by Brahms and the same number by Debussy, and ended gloriously with the Bach Chromatic Fantasia and Fugue.

By his arrangement of the program Mr. Samuel may have intended to suggest that "modern" harmony is not exactly a discovery of this century. Great composers come and go, but the music of Bach towers gigantically for all time. At least such a judgment seems safe in this year of grace, 1929.

The pianist has been so often praised for his interpretation of Bach's music that it is unnecessary to repeat the eulogy again. In the fugue the rhythmic upbuilding to the climax was powerful. Dynamic rhythm was, in fact, a keynote of Mr. Samuel's playing in the most of the program.

It was this energy plus opulence and quantity of tone that made the Schumann's leading memorable. But he did not neglect the lyric poetry of the slow movement; and his tendering of Brahm's and Debussy's pieces were notable for beauty of tone. Perhaps he might have caressed more fondly Debussy's "La fille aux cheveux de lin." But he had already stoned in advance in the Brahms D minor Ballade.

Fined as 'Operator' of Parked Car While 'Drunk'

Although he was sitting at the wheel with his automobile parked and the motor shut off, when he was arrested, Joseph B. Hull of Beacon st., Brookline, was found guilty today in Quincy court of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor.

Hull, who is the son of J. Byron Hull of Brookline and Hingham, was also found guilty of drunkenness and fined $105 on both complaints. He appealed and was released on his personal recognizance.

Patrolman Anthony Thompson testified he found the youth "drunk at the wheel." Hull said he had taken two drinks and, upon feeling dizzy, stopped the car.

"Humorous and Thrilling Experiences of a Press Photographer" will be given in an illustrated lecture by Alton H. Blackinton of the Boston Herald at Masonic Temple, 2:30 p. m.

WOMAN'S CITY CLUB

Mrs. Fred Achuff will give the first of a series of three talks on "Study of Prints" at 3 Walnut st., 3 p. m. Some season tickets still available and single tickets may be at the door only after these are gone.

A concert by the combined Harvard Instrumental clubs will be given at Ford Hall, 8 p. m.

ABINGTON WOMAN'S CLUB

Guest night will be observed at Grand Army Hall, 8 p. m., with a musical program provided by the Gertrude Thompson company. Mrs. Edgar Locklin and Mrs. Marcia Peterson will be hostesses.

MASS. WOMEN'S REPUBLICAN CLUB

"Dangers of too great centralization of power" will be discussed by Dr. Arthur Bromage, Harvard, 11 a. m.

FIGHT AGAINST DRUGS WINNING, SAYS PORTER

By KENNETH CLARK

Washington, March 6—An optimistic survey on the world fight to curtail opium production was presented by Representative Porter, Republican, of Pennsylvania, chairman of the House Foreign Affairs committee.

From official sources he has received reports telling of drastic restrictive measures being adopted in India and China, two of the largest producers.

"The battle to limit opium production, which was one of the principal tenets of the American platform at the 1925 Geneva opium conference, is slowly being won," Porter declared.

"Our chief danger now lies in the over-manufacture of narcotics by 45 European factories.

TO CEASE IN 1935

"If we can bring these factories under strict control, similar to the control exercised over American factories, the greatest forward step of all time will be made in the fight to eliminate the dangerous drug problem."

Under the present program being followed in India, production of opium for export will be stopped completely by 1935. After that date opium will be permitted to be produced only in such quantities as are needed for legitimate medical and scientific purposes. The Indian government has also strict control over this production to prevent opium seeping into the illicit traffic.

At Geneva, the American delegation, of which Porter was chairman, urged a prohibition program. When it became apparent that the powers would not agree to this proposal the American withdrew.

INDIA'S HAND FORCED

By withdrawing America opened the way for the establishment of the present restrictive policy in India, Porter was informed by C. F. Andrews, an anti-opium leader of India.

"The American action was the club which forced the Indian Government to adopt the curtailment policy," Andrews declared. "After that our fight was comparatively easy. The officials realized that they no longer could back out against the American program."

The Chinese Nationalist Government also is curtailing opium measures to wipe out opium production, Porter stated.

"The government realizes the terrible menace of opium addiction," he said. "Opium can now be grown only in the three Chinese provinces and soon will be controlled effectively by governmental decree."

Porter further predicted that Siam will follow suit as soon as it obtains tariff autonomy so that it can obtain money to replace the present opium revenue.

TO RENEW FIGHT HERE

With these countries controlling the raw product, the chief remaining opium producers are Turkey and Persia and some of the European colonial possessions.

Meanwhile, lines were being drawn in Congress for a renewal of the effort to obtain a thorough-going survey of the domestic dope traffic. The move will be launched in the near future, it appears.

Adding his endorsement to those of scores of other federal law enforcement officials, Samuel W. McNab, district attorney in Los Angeles, wrote Representative Theodore Gourdis, Republican, of New York, that he favored the investigation.

"I think such a survey would be very useful and beneficial, as it would pave the way for 'intelligent' legislation along the lines of control of narcotics in this country," said McNab.

2 Notorious Brigand Brothers Captured

Cetinje, Jugoslavia, March 6 (AP)—Two notorious brother bandits, Drago and Rado Vuletitch upon whose heads the Government had placed a reward of 50,000 dinars, have been captured after a desperate struggle by State police. The police had been scouring the countryside for two years hunting the brothers who are the last survivors of the traditional Montenegro robber bands.

Their capture makes this section of Jugoslavia again safe for travelers.

Man Found Dead by Gas in East Boston

Thomas O'Reilly, 28, a fisherman, was found unconscious today in bed in the room he occupied in a lodging house in Saratoga st., East Boston, with an open gas jet pouring fumes into the room.

The landlady, Mrs. Gertrude O'Keefe, notified the police and O'Reilly was taken to the East Boston Relief Hospital, where he was pronounced dead. Police relieved the light was blown out by the wind after O'Reilly had fallen asleep while reading in bed.

Remove Film

Teeth regain dazzling whiteness

New special film-removing dentifrice whitens teeth amazingly when ordinary methods fail.

FILM is the cause of dull, discolored teeth as well as the serious tooth and gum disorders. Run your tongue across your teeth and you will feel this film. It absorbs stains from food and smoking and turns white teeth dull. It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and decays.

Film hardens into tartar. Germs by billions breed in it. And germs, with tartar, are the chief causes of pyorrhea. Ordinary brushing fails to remove film successfully. So dentists urge the special film-removing dentifrice called Pepsodent.

First, Pepsodent curdles film, then removes it in gentle safety to enamel. No other way will make teeth as sparkling white. Write for free 10-day appl to The Pepsodent Co., Dept. S, Wabash Ave., Chicago, or ask your druggist for full-size tube.

PROCEEDS OF NEW YORK ANTIQUE SALE TO GO TO HUB SCHOOL—BETTY ALDEN

Selection Made by G. C. Greener of the North Bennet St. Institution

VERY FREQUENTLY DO METROPOLITAN attractions, artists, collections, celebrities and personages come to town with the New York stamp of approval. Boston in one notable instance is reversing this usual procedure, and is sending something notable, a collection of antiques, to New York. It might, to some, appear to be a coals to Newcastle project, this. But even New York will have a keen interest in the very choice things George C. Greener of the North Bennet Street Industrial School collects each year, to benefit the school. And which now is to bid for New York favor.

IT IS A STUPENDOUS PROJECT. One to daunt a coterie less resourceful and energetic than the very smart and important ones that maintain so keen and enduring an interest in the school. Actually hundreds and hundreds of pieces have been shipped to New York and will be set up in the Anderson Galleries, in Park ave. at 59th st. Here New Yorkers with the connoisseur taste may view them at a special opening planned for March 14. On March 18, the last day of the exhibition, there is to be an auction; and if New York does not delight in the Greener collection and buy as id lib, then all predictions will fail of fulfillment.

THE SAME PEOPLE WHO SPONSORED THE exhibition here in town are backing the New York debut of 16th century Spanish pieces, French chateau treasures, furnishings from Italian palazzos and English cottages. And many of the same will be in New York, if not for the special opening, at least for the auction. Mrs. Henry Lyman Sr., Samuel Cabot, Mrs. F. L. W. Richardson, Mrs. John Homans, Mrs. John Perkins, Mrs. Robert Sreven-son, Miss Evelyn Sturgis and Henry L. Shattuck are some of the names associated with the Boston concerns of the school, and now that the New York invasion is undertaken interest and backing are just as strong.

MRS. JAMES SHAW, A SUTTON PL. PIONEER and chatelaine of a most charming establishment in that individualistic East River environment, is right on the spot where the Greener collection is concerned. Daily, almost, she was in attendance here in town when the recent exhibition was being set up at the Motor Mart Building. She came over from New York specially to help. And for the New York affair she is one of the most important sponsors. And I understand that Mr. and Mrs. Quincy Shaw McKean are evidencing the deepest interest, too. They plan to view the treasures at the Anderson Galleries, and having pursed both wide and deep and exquisite tastes, will probably do much purchasing.

THE McKEANS SOON WILL BE 'EN ROUTE South, making a Philadelphia stopover on the way to Florida. In the city of Penn, Mr. McKean will try his prowess with the racquet at certain indoor tennis tournaments. Mrs. McKean, aside from being a beauty of the Boston upper crust, is an artist of more than countrywide repute. As Margarett Sargent she annually exhibits in New York and enjoys a growing fame. And being handsome, aristocratic and gifted becomes the cynosure of metropolitan attention and the subject of special articles in sophisticated magazines.

THEY'RE REHEARSING FOR SUMMER
Miss Katharine Adams and Miss Sally Sprague wear the Vincent Club rehearsal uniforms most becomingly. The annual show will be staged early in April. (Staff photo.)

WHEN ONCE OR TWICE during a season Richard Platt of Lime st. himself appears as the star of his afternoon of music then is the audience indulged most delightfully. One of Mr. Platt's "First and Third Wednesday" to which a choice circle is bidden each winter comes this afternoon and at the pianoforte in his spacious studio Mr. Platt will charm his hearers as he never fails to do. The Platt Wednesdays have I come welded very pleasantly onto the musical outline of Boston's winter—they commence in January and continue until spring lights the buds and April is on the calendar.

SOMETIMES THE PROGRAMS are interpreted by budding geniuses just setting out to attain the stars. And again by guest artists already enrolled in the books of the famous, friends of the host in every instance and happy to do the gracious thing and sing or play at a Wednesday. The pleasant half hour over the tea cups is not the least enjoyable of the afternoon's several half hours—and today Mrs. John L. Ames of Chestnut st. and Mrs. Frederick Thaxter Parks of Newton will sit behind the urns and do the hostess honors for Mr. Platt's bachelor establishment.

EVIDENTLY THE VINCENT CLUB is out to make a theatrical record this season. The feminine pets of society's amateur stage plan to make their annual spring offering extend not only over three days but to cover an entire week; and for that purpose they have taken over the Plymouth Theater and will occupy the boards from the evening of April 2 through that of April 9. Ambitious indeed is this program—but the fashionable world to a man and to a woman turns out for the Vincent Club Show as for none other. Daughters and sisters and sweethearts and wives are the stars and the chorus, and society would applaud its own.

SOMETHING IN THE NATURE of a revue—with perhaps a thread of continuity running through it, the show that annually nets a very tidy sum for the Vincent Memorial Hospital will do the same thing this year. Crowded houses are a rule with the Vincent Club show—the fashionables have a way of attending repeatedly. And the world and his wife always manifests its interest in the Thespian activities of smart debutantes and post-debutantes via the route of the box office.

JOHN CHARLES THOMAS, star of tomorrow's last morning musicale at the Hotel Statler, also has the honor to open next season's series, that will benefit the Boston School of Occupational Therapy. Mr. Thomas is honor guest at luncheon after the musicale, when Mrs. John W. Myers will have the noted baritone at her table. Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas here in town and about the North Shore regret that she will not, in all probability, be in Boston during Mr. Thomas's stay. Mrs. Thomas was Miss Dorothy Kahler, daughter of Mrs. George Dobyne of Beverly Farms and Palm Beach.

RESERVATIONS FOR luncheon following the musicale make an interesting list: Mrs. A. Barr Comstock, Mrs. Matthew J. Whittall, Mrs. Joseph H. Pratt, Mrs. Harry W. Poor, Mrs. Borden Covel, Mrs Henry Ogden, Mrs. Charles Moss. Mrs. L. Lloyd Greene, Mrs. Oliver Ritchie, Mrs. E. Davenport Warren, Mrs. Kenneth Davidson and Mrs. George Olmstead are entertaining. The musicales have been sponsored by all the smart people in town, and next season promise to repeat the huge success they have enjoyed during 1928-9.

SOCIETY'S BUDDING FEMininity reaching almost to the coming out stage under May school tutelage will listen tomorrow to Miss Carolyn D. Smiley, who will tell of "Indian Girls" and who will wear for her lecture the beautiful and colorful costume of the Indian woman of means. Miss Smiley knows whereof she speaks. She is in this country after 11 years in India, as a member of the faculty of a girls' school in the Bombay district.

Bishop Warns Women of Harm in Smoking Cigarettes

Asbury Park, N. J., March 6 (AP)—A warning to women who smoke cigarettes, was issued today by Bishop Ernest G. Richardson, head of the Philadelphia area of the Methodist Episcopal Church, who is presiding at sessions of the New Jersey conference.

Despite the "injury to mind and body," the bishop said, "evidently a greatly increasing number of women are smoking today."

"Women are more delicately organized than men and whatever effect tobacco and drugs would have upon their bodies would be more intensified and accompanied by more harmful effects than on men," he said.

Bishop Richardson expressed the opinion that "the liquor question is settled for all time."

STRESEMANN IN APPEAL FOR MINORITIES

Geneva, Switzerland, March 6 (AP)—Speaking calmly and eloquently before the League of Nations council, Dr. Gustav Stresemann, German foreign minister today delivered an address in behalf of improved protection for the rights of minority peoples.

Proposing the creation of a special commission to study the problem, Dr. Stresemann declared the peoples attached to nations not their own have "eternal right to speak their own language and to keep their souls and faith." He opposed the idea that minorities must gradually be assimilated with the populations among whom they live.

Dr. Stresemann warmly approved a proposal by Raoul Dandurand of Canada whereby all 14 members of the council could have a representative on the minorities committee as a substitute for the present committee of three.

Reparations to Be Put on Ordinary Debt Basis

Paris, March 6 (AP)—Phases of removal of the reparation question from a political to a commercial sphere faced the committee of experts at its plenary session today.

The aim of the committee is to remove the feeling that Germany is paying reparations growing out of the war. Rather it is sought to make the payments strictly business obligations and debts owed by one country to another.

It is in pursuance of this idea that the plan of a trusteeship for reparations now before the committee in more complete form has been evolved from deliberations of three sub-committees and private talks among the individual delegates.

Where are all the bunions hiding?
since Coward came to town

THOSE bunions are hiding. Sure enough. They're hiding in Coward Shoes specially devised to conceal them. And to comfort them. Were you to search them out you'd find these bunions to be much less irritable, much less obnoxious than they've ever been before. You'll find them snuggling into a little pocket of exactly the right size, built into Coward Shoes for this purpose. So if thousands of bunions seem to have left Boston, it's because Coward has come to town.

Of course, bunion shoes comprise only one branch of the wide Coward line of comfortable shoes. There are shoes here for people with any kind of foot ailment . . . . and smart, comfortable shoes for those who luckily don't have any complaint at all.

Here's a Coward Bunion Oxford—in Black Kidskin—Suede Trimmed.

The Abercrombie Mystery

BY CAROLYN WELLS

A Six Day Novel

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN

A HOME PAPER FOR THE PEOPLE WHO THINK

SECOND SECTION

BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, MARCH 6, 1929

6-Day Novel by a Famous Author

CHAPTER 2

"I NEVER received any such letter from my wife," replied Hugh, his deep eyes filled with sadness.

Ken watched him closely. In no way cringing, Abercrombie would, Ken felt sure, suffer tortures rather than bring pain to another.

He glanced curiously at the other woman.

Lorna Garth, as he had learned her to be, sat beside her father, the doctor.

Miss Garth was, he judged, about 25 and her slim form was graceful in its lines of careless ease.

But to Ken's experienced eyes, the girl was nearly crazy.

All the room were listening eagerly to Garrett as he read the accusing letter written by Mrs. Abercrombie to her husband.

"You ask me to give you your freedom—ask for the greatest boon—and you offer me in return, what? Disgrace and ignominy—loneliness and desertion. Money! What do I care for money? Will that compensate for the low, sordid gestures of the divorce court? I, who have never known the shadow of unpleasant conditions or uncomfortable scenes? Shall my good name and yours be dragged in the mire for the public to jeer at? Yet you say, grant you divorce, as calmly as one would ask some slight, casual favor! You do not care for me, you never cared for me—why, I do not know—others have praised me, others have loved me, but you—never mind all that—the question is direct—you ask for divorce and I refuse to grant it. That is final."

Slowly Garrett read this strange epistle. "You recognize the document?" he asked his witness.

"Yes," Abercrombie said, "I never received such a communication. This is the first time I have seen or heard of it or of its contents."

"You acknowledge it is in the handwriting of your late wife?"

"I state that I am certain it is."

"Did your wife hold conversation with you that in any way embodied the intent clearly indicated in this memorandum?"

"She did."

"Yet you told me there was no question of divorce between you."

"Don't quibble. I told you we never quarrelled. Mrs. Abercrombie told me quite frankly that she would not entertain the thought of a divorce."

"Then you had asked her to do so."

"I had."

"For what reason?"

"Because I thought it would further the happiness and well-being of both of us if it could be brought about."

"Yes, it is my mother's writing. Now, what are you going to do about it? And where did you get it? I suppose that Mercer egg dug it up from the secret pigeon-holes of my mother's desk. It doesn't mean a thing."

"Did you ever see in your mother's possession any bottle containing mercury?" asked Garrett.

Maisie looked thoughtful. "I do seem to remember such a thing a few weeks ago," she said, slowly. "I went to mother's medicine chest for something, and I vaguely recall seeing a small box of tablets, which was clearly marked, "Bichloride of Mercury Poison."

"One more thing, Miss Abercrombie." Garrett was very suave now. "Has your father—your stepfather—shown, of late, any signs of being interested in or devoted to any other lady other than his wife?"

Maisie stood up, her amber eyes growing dark and the red blood surging into her cheeks. "No," she said cringingly and

COASTGUARD SAVES 2 STRANDED FISHERMEN

Film Star Is Heartbroken for "Mrs. Corey's Prince"

FEARS SHE WILL LOSE DON LOUIS

Berlin, March 6—Frantic efforts to block what now appears to be assured—the marriage of Mabelle Gilman Corey and Don Louis Ferdinand de Bourbon, cousin of King Alfonso—have resulted in a serious nervous breakdown for Hertha von Walther, beautiful German film actress.

Hertha has been taken to a sanatorium from where she is bombarding Don Louis with letters and telegrams requesting a definite answer as to whether the report is true that he intends marrying the wealthy American divorcee.

"Don Louis and I are still engaged to marry, but Don Louis is silent regarding his attitude toward Mrs. Corey," said Hertha.

The film actress has written a letter to Prince Ludwig Ferdinand of Bavaria, second cousin of Prince Ruppreicht, the former Crown Prince of Bavaria and relative of the King of Spain, to plead with Don Louis not to forsake her. She has asked Prince Louis Ferdinand, whose wife was an aunt of the King of Spain, to ask Don Louis what he intends doing.

"My fear the worst," said Hertha. "Though Don Louis writes me every day from Rome he does not deny that he meets Mrs. Corey and is strangely silent regarding my question as to whether the reports concerning his name with Mrs. Corey's are true.

"Don Louis has known Mrs. Corey a long time. He has been dazzled by the luxurious surroundings in which Mrs. Corey moves but whether he has been tempted or not I do not know.

"And yet he writes often of her I try to console myself with the thought that, after all, Mrs. Corey is much older than Don Louis, but Don Louis fails to give me a straight 'yes' or 'no' about the reports."

Admiral Stirling Dead

Baltimore, March 6 (AP)—Rear Admiral Yates Stirling, retired, is dead at his home here. He was 85. The admiral had been ill for about five years.

HER 'MIRACLES' TO BE LEGAL

Convicted of using the mails in a scheme to defraud, Madame Sadie E. Perry, Lynn "miracle woman," clairvoyant and healer, was given opportunity today in federal court to continue business "if conducted without misrepresentation."

Judge John A. Peters gave her the opportunity when she appeared to pay a fine of $1000. She was placed on probation for five years under a suspended jail term of 18 months.

Madame Perry's conviction followed testimony by postal inspectors that, under assumed names, they had been given mail treatment by her for diseases they did not have.

The court suggested her counsel and government authorities confer on allowing her to conduct certain phases of her business, including the sale of "lucky stones."

Oppose Filling in of South Bay

Opposition from the city and business firms developed today at a legislative hearing on the proposal to fill in the South Bay and part of Fort Point channel.

Lack of provision for recompensating the firms which will lose their navigation rights was stressed by some. Others claimed added sewage would endanger bathing beaches.

Henry Wells Very Ill at Haverhill Home

Henry Wells, member of the Public Utilities Commission, is seriously ill at the Hale Hospital in Haverhill, according to word received at the State House today. Mr. Wells, a resident of Haverhill, was operated on yesterday at the hospital, and according to he report, failed to rally.

STOLE GIRL HE WANTED TO MARRY

Lawrence, March 6—District court was the stage today for the final act of Lawrence's kidnaping mystery of last Sunday evening, with the principals the alleged kidnaper, the man he claims was his accomplice and the girl who was spirited away from Newbury st.

Salvatore Gallo of Union st., who was sought throughout the Merrimack Valley and who was arrested as the result of detective work by the girl's 19-year-old brother, faced the court on a charge of abduction and another complaint of a serious statutory nature.

Joseph Traina of Merrimack st., Methuen, alleged by Gallo to have been hired by him for $5 to play a part in the abduction, faced charges of abduction and of being an accessory before the fact of abduction.

The girl in the case, Cecelia Traverso, 25, of 10 Elm st., was arraigned on a statutory complaint.

FOUND MAN.

According to the testimony offered by Inspector Charles R. Woodcock, Gallo was arrested after Antonio Traverso, brother of the missing girl, had telephoned Sergt. James J. Gallagher at headquarters yesterday afternoon and announced that he had located the "man that stole my sister away."

Gallo, Inspector Woodcock alleged, had finally broken down and revealed his plans for the kidnaping. He confessed, police said, that he was violently in love with the Traverso girl, but that their families were not agreeable to the marriage.

LICENSE TO WED.

At 11 o'clock Tuesday morning, while the entire police force was searching for Gallo and the girl, Gallo, without attracting attention, visited City Hall, where he filed application for a marriage license. That fact was not known until Gallo divulged it to police in the afternoon.

Gallo was released under bonds of $5000, Traina under bonds of $2500 and the girl under bonds of $1000.

Woman Advised to Take Up Writing

By LOUISE RICE

Noted Graphologist

I HAVE received a personal account from you and have found it so interesting that my desire for knowledge prompts me to try again. My husband is good, but will never succeed as he is satisfied, slow and content, and I have decided that if life is to be less drab it is up to me to go get it.

WINNIE, Waltham.

Thank you, Winnie, for the many pleasant things you wrote which I have not quoted, and for your good wishes.

I'm actually going to encourage you in the idea that you can help and have the beginning of a career, too, in writing. You probably had the talent developed early, and your married life, even with all its distractions, has not stifled it, but on the contrary, probably has broadened the scope of your observation and feeling.

I will send you the address of a magazine which is issued just for writers, if you will send me a stamped and addressed envelope.

This magazine carries a "market report" which is very helpful and stimulating. I also think that you would find some general assistance, such as that of a good literary agent, worth while.

Remember that the person who can write at all nearly always can write anything from household articles about cooking and decorating to literary studies of books and masterpieces.

Start out and write anything and everything, and try to do at least a thousand words a day. On that basis—and general talent—you will teach yourself your business. It is a business, too, and can be attended to with practical good sense.

Get a typewriter and learn to think to it writing as fast as you think. It's the only way to save time and money.

I'll look to see your name, some day!

NOTE: Send sample of your handwriting to Miss Louise Rice for analysis. To cover clerical costs enclose 10 cents in silver or stamps. Also enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. The individual analysis will be returned to you within a period of one or two weeks. Letters will not be published if sender so requests.

THE CURIOUS QUIZZER

Every day he asks a question and pictures those questioned.

THE QUESTION

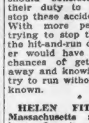
Do you think the State rewards for hit-and-run drivers have served to lessen such accidents?

NATHAN HOROWITZ, 48 Wentworth st., Dorchester, credit manager—The rewards given by the State for hit-and-run drivers have to some extent served to lessen these accidents but I think that the reward should be larger. With the number of cars on the road increasing daily the chances of accidents are also increasing and if the pedestrian is to have any safety at all these hit-and-run accidents must be stopped.

ALICE BRADY, 1 Stockton st., Dorchester, operator—I think that these accidents have been lessened by the rewards given by the State because they furnish the public at large with an incentive to be on the watch for them. The hit-and-run driver is one of the most cowardly creatures on earth and the State should pay a bounty on them just as they do on animals that are a nuisance to the people.

MAURICE SHELDEN, 102 Devon st., Roxbury, publicity man—Yes, the rewards have lessened these accidents and I think that in time they will be stopped altogether. Every person in the country should consider it their duty to help stop these accidents With more people trying to stop them the hit-and-run driver would have less chances of getting away and knowing this would not try to run without making himself known.

HELEN FITZPATRICK, 530 Massachusetts ave., Boston, at home—I can't see how these accidents could help being lessened by the rewards of the State. It is only a person of the lowest sort who would try to leave the scene of an accident without stopping to help the person that he has injured. I think that the State is doing a fine thing in offering these rewards and they should prosecute the hit-and-run driver to the full extent of the law.



900 FREED IN STRIKE WAR

New Bedford, March 6 (INS)—The last echo of New Bedford's big textile strike last summer, when 7,000 workers from 26 textile mills were on strike for 25 weeks, was heard in Superior Court today.

Judge David F. Dillon accepted the pleas of nolo entered by nearly 900 defendants arrested on riot charges and placed them on probation for one year.

The men and women were charged with picketing, loitering parading without license, conspiring to incite riot, assault upon police officers, etc.

Pleas of nolo were entered by counsel for defense, and the judge accepted, placing all defendants on probation.

Nichols Tax Bill Reported Favorably

With six of the 15 members reserving their rights, the legislative committee on municipal finance today favorably reported the bill of Mayor Nichols setting the Boston tax limit at $17.72 a thousand. This is 25 cents higher than the limit fixed in 1928.

Draper and Weeks to Manage Hospital

Governor Allen today appointed B. H. Bristow Draper of Hopedale and Sinclair Weeks of Newton as managers of the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary.

WIFE SUES SON OF BANKER

Haverhill, March 6—With a petition filed in Essex County Probate Court by Mrs. Mabel Grimshaw Nichols, now of Campgaw, N. J., against John B. Nichols, one-time Haverhill banker and merchant, seeking separate support and the custody of their four-year-old son, John B. Nichols, 3d, a hearing on the case may soon be held.

Mrs. Nichols, who is said to be of a wealthy New Jersey family, also asks the Probate Court to grant an attachment of $50,000 in order to try and reach trust funds in control of the Old Colony Trust Company, Boston, that may become due her husband after the death of his mother, who resides in the aristocratic Highlands section of this city.

Attorney Leo Finen of this city, counsel for Mrs. Nichols, in the petition he has filed for her in court, seeks an injunction and restraining order to prevent payment to her husband of his share of the trust fund when he would be entitled to it.

A hearing on this question in the case may also be held in the near future.

After the death of George Nichols in 1920, leaving a valuable estate, it is claimed by counsel for Mrs. Nichols, the petitioner, that a trust arrangement was entered into by which her husband would share in the estate. The Old Colony Trust Company was named trustee.

Mrs. Nichols and her husband, it is claimed, have been separated for some time, she returning to the home of relatives in New Jersey, but still maintaining her legal residence in Haverhill.

The marriage of the couple was a leading social event. Attorney Ralph H. Taylor is counsel for Mr. Nichols.

TWO SAVED FROM DEATH AT SEA

Two young Marblehead fishermen who "went down to the sea" in their "ship" to do "fishing upon the great waters," got two surprises early today.

They were Emerson F. Goodwin, 21, of High st., and Gerald Smith, 22, of Frost st., and they had been out in the cold throughout the day and night and were soaked through by rain and snow.

When the youths did not return last night, Capt. John Giles of the Massachusetts Humane Society station at Marblehead telephoned the coast guard base at East Boston and a cutter and patrol boat were sent out.

The patrol boat finally sighted the motorboat and towed the youths to Marblehead, where a police ambulance rode them to their homes.

Husband and Wife in Separate Flats

Springfield, March 6 — Judge Charles L. Long in probate court granted a divorce to Israel F. Contois, from Myra A. Pastell Contois of Boston, on the ground of desertion, despite the fact that they lived in the same house.

The testimony was to the effect that the wife had occupied a tenement upstairs, while her husband lived in the flat downstairs. During the three years they have been married, the testimony was that they had never lived together, therefore the judge deemed it desertion just as much as if the parties occupied separate houses on the same street.

Remodeled Yen Ho Will Open Tonight

The newer Yen Ho, Tremont st., completely remodeled to duplicate the famous Royal Night Club of Nankin, China, will be formally opened tonight with an all-star program of entertainment. The interior has been entirely remodeled.

For 7 months, carpenters, painters, artists and interior decorators have been engaged in making the alterations under the personal supervision of Goon Bing.

Goon Bing announces that the same chef who prepared the delicious dishes for the Chinese royalty at Nankin is now employed at Yen Ho and had added over a score of selective Chinese dishes to the Yen Ho menu.

A larger dance floor has been installed making it the greatest in area of any Chinese restaurant in town. A change of policy has also been announced with the establishment of a noon day vodvil show. In the past the cabaret was only given in the evening.

New Oyster Bar Is Opened at Hugo's

Of interest and importance to Boston epicures is the announcement of Hugo's Restaurant, at 121 Summer st., of the opening of an oyster bar.

It is under the direct supervision of Hugo in person and his experience was obtained in the original home of the succulent oyster, Cohasset. He is familiar with every phase of the oyster industry in its application to the restaurant business and this familiarity is reflected in the lusciousness of the oyster product served and in the manner of serving it.

On the same standard of excellence is the other sea food served at Hugo's.

Many Entries for Dance Tournament

The second of a series of dance tournaments will be given at the Symphony Restaurant tonight and a large list of entries are expected. Silver loving cups will be awarded to the winners.

One of the feature attractions at this resort this week is the sensational dancing act of Muriel & Fisher, who are appearing here direct from the Roxy Theater, New York. Thursday night is theatrical night and Friday night there will be a collegiate dancing contest. Gold prizes will be awarded to the winners.

No COLD

tomorrow if you take HILL'S tonight

The moment you feel a cold coming on take HILL'S CASCARA-QUININE. These well-known tablets stop a cold overnight because they do the four necessary things in one—1. break up the cold; 2. check the fever; 3. open the bowels; 4. tone the system. That's the quick and complete action you want for a cold and only HILL'S provides it. So get HILL'S at the first sneeze or chill.

Land in Family 10 Generations

Springfield, March 6—A tract of 25 acres of land in the adjoining town of Agawam, part of a tract granted by William Pynchon, founder of Springfield, to John Leonard, 292 years ago, and which had been handed down through 10 generations of the family, has been sold to Ida Nacewitz, a Polish-American farmer, it became known. The wording of the original grant by Pynchon in 1637 conveyed a tract extending rather vaguely many miles to the west.

CONFIDENTIAL GUIDE TO RADIO

By FRED TOYE
Radio Editor

HERE'S what the stay-at-homes throughout the land will listen to this evening:

7:00—WBZA—Jeddo Highlanders. Tuneful light classics by orchestra, with Frederick Wyatt, baritone, and Stephano di Stephano, harpist, as soloists.

7:30—WEEI—La Touraine Tableau. Studio orchestra of 40 in a miscellaneous program, assisted by Milton Rittenberg, pianist.

8:00—WNAC—Showboat. Melodramatic presentation of "The Pulse of Chinatown."

8:00—WBZA—Mobiloil Orchestra. Light music. Alois Havrilla as guest announcer and a mixed quartet. Maurice de Packh directing orchestra of 50 pieces.

8:00—WEEI—Sunkist Serenaders. Orchestra and soloists in songs with a Spanish flavor.

8:30—WBZA—Sylvania Foresters. Quartet, guitarist and orchestra in songs of "Lindy Lou" type.

9:00—WEEI—Ipana Troubadours. Snappy music and dance rhythms.

9:00—WBZA—Smith Brothers. You know all about them except the color of their shirt fronts.

9:30—WNAC—Van Heusen Feature. They promise that this will be a real he-man program.

9:30—WNAC—La Palina Smoker. Lively music and nonsense, with Lewis and Dody, vaudeville favorites leading the way.

9:30—WEEI—Palmolive Hour—Olive Palmer, Elisabeth Lennox and the Revellers in an hour of lively songs.

10:00—WNAC—Koister Radio Hour. Beethoven, Dvorak and other orchestral tid-bits.

10:30—WNAC—Daguerreotypes. Columbia feature offering popular songs of the past.

10:30—WEEI—Gold Strand Orchestra. A serious program of lighter music.

BOSTON AMERICAN SPORTS

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN — SPEED ACCURACY, INTEREST — NEWS OF THE DAY IT HAPPENS — WEDNESDAY, MARCH 6, 1929

MR. BOSTON By Jack Conway

"I FIND the old home town once more very much steamed up over the combative qualities of Jim Maloney of South Boston," said Mr. Boston today. "Even in far away Miami I could hear the echo of Shamus' punches as he whaled away at on Con O'Kelly at the Boston Garden.

"Then Maloney up and whacked Honest Tom Heeney around. I told Dan Carroll as far back as the date of the Maloney-Risko that Heeney was one son of swat whom Shamus was sure to lick.

"You say, didn't Heeney knock Maloney stiff in New York a year ago last September? The records say so, but then records should not be taken too seriously. Maloney had previously been stopped by Jack Sharkey and George Godfrey and didn't have the right mental attitude when he entered the ring with Heeney in New York. This was the real reason he went overboard in a round.

"I believe Maloney found himself that night out at Braves Field when Jack DeMave smacked him over six or seven times. He discovered he could take a punch on the chin and COME OFF THE FLOOR TO WIN! I have felt that the DeMave fight had more to do with bringing forth the new Maloney than anything else.

"Maloney licked DeMave a second time just to pro the first affair wasn't a fluke. He also pasted Henry Lamar, Ton, Fuente, Jack Renault, Johnny Risko and Andy Mitchell. Then he put a stick of dynamite under the Hard Rock from Down Under.

"I REGRET I didn't have an opportunity to see the Maloney-Heeney bout. They tell me Shamus put up a swell battle, that he jabbed and hooked Heeney until the latter once more thought Gene Tunney was the bird in the other corner.

"The boys are already talking about another meeting between Jack Sharkey and Maloney. Such an affair would jam either Fenway Park or Braves Field to capacity, but it is unlikely to take place this year. If Sharkey and Maloney clash during the outdoor season, it will be in New York in the final bout of the heavyweight tournament to decide the champion of the world.

"The directors of the Madison Square Garden Corporation have nominated Sharkey as the defending champion. He will not be asked to box until September when he will be pitted against the best available opponent. Possibly that man will be Maloney. Schmelling and Paulino are the only boxers who block Shamus' path to the championship shot with Sharkey.

"THE New York Garden would like to pit Maloney against Paulino some time next month and have the winner of this tussle clash with Schmelling at the Yankee Stadium in June. The survivor of the June tussle would be sent in there against Sharkey in a title contest in September.

"Under the terms of Sharkey's contract with the New York Garden, they have until July 15 to name his opponent and until September 10 to stage the bout.

"Sharkey's contract calls for a guarantee of $100,000 and a 25 per cent privilege.

"AS for Dempsey, it looks as though the former champion has decided to hang up the gloves. From now on he will appear only in exhibitions and in the role of prompter.

"The fight for the championship is between Sharkey, Maloney, Schmelling and Paulino."

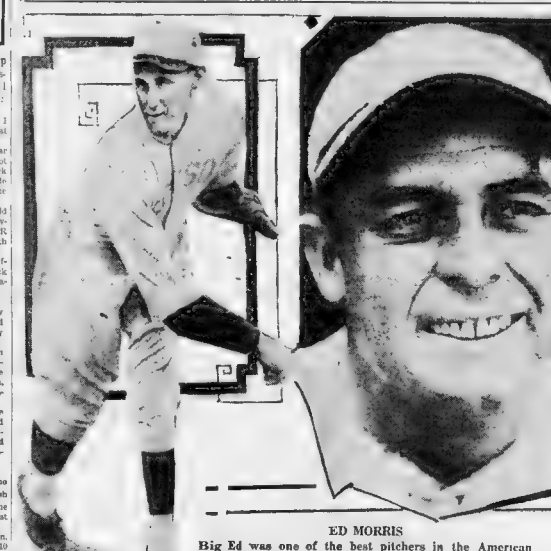
FLORIDA SUN BAKING RED SOX INTO SHAPE FOR SEASON



ED MORRIS

Big Ed was one of the best pitchers in the American League last year. He made the Red Sox a really good team each time he went on the mound. Ed wants to lead the league this year. And he has a good chance to do just that.

CHARLEY RUFFING

Charley, though a bit heavy now, will be down in real trim shortly. He expects to have his best season.

DANNY MacFAYDEN

Danny, of Somerville, has improved a lot in the last year or so. He is a bit heavier now. Which helps the smoke. And he knows how to toss the balls where they don't like 'em. Under Bill Carrigan, MacFayden should be better than ever in '29.

HIGH CLASS ROOKIES READY

Bigelow, Secured in Deal With Senators, Expected to Hit Hard and Often

By JOE CASHMAN

Bradenton, Fla., March 6—The Red Sox will get their first chance to sharpen up their batting eyes today. There are no sore arms nor lame backs in camp, so there should be plenty of good hitting, unless the hurlers start tossing 'em up with something on 'em.

Everybody in camp is anxious to see Elliott Bigelow take a few cuts at the ball. This lad, secured from the Senators in the Myer deal, led the Southern League last season with a .392.

That's hitting in any circuit and a most remarkable average to hang in the Southern League, where the hurling is of big league caliber for more than half the season.

All eyes will be on Elliott whenever he steps to the platter today.

Another rookie who should furnish the onlookers a few thrills is Russell Scarritt, a native of Florida, who hit .354 while playing with St. Paul in the American Association last year.

MANY GOOD HITTERS

Then, there are Jerry Standaert, who hit .358 with Memphis, Otis Dumas, who hit .343 with the same club, Bobby Barrett, who hit .321 with Buffalo, Bob Reeves, who hit .306 with the Senators, and Grant Bills, who hit .303 with Minneapolis.

All of these sluggers promise to be well worth watching.

None of the Sox regular hurlers are due to do any pitching today. Bill Doak, veteran big league spitballer, who lives here, has volunteered his services, as have a few other local boys.

When these tire out, Carrigan will give a few of his rookie pitchers a chance to risk their live under the barrage of hits that is sure to result when the slugging newcomers and such veterans as Tatt, Todt, Regan, Berry, Newing and Ken Williams start swinging their bats.

Rain cut the length of the last practice session almost in half and measuring the players for uniforms required a lot more time out, but Manager Carrigan announced today that this will not interfere with his schedule in any way.

SQUAD CUT TODAY

The squad will be cut this evening and starting tomorrow each group will engage in two hours of batting and fielding practice daily, under the direction of Carrigan and Hennie Wagner.

The athletes have only six more days to get in shape for the first exhibition game, which will be with the St. Louis Cardinals, here on next Wednesday, so everybody in camp will have to step from to tomorrow on.

The makeup of the two infield continues to be the same. Tod Regan, Gilly and Reeves complete one quartet, while the other is composed of Standaert, Moncewicz, Narleski and Barrett.

When Rhyne arrives in camp he will be tried out in one of the combinations but except for this shift, the two quartets are expected to remain unchanged until after the exhibition game here a week later.

Wagner will have a hard time deciding what infield to keep this spring. They can all field up to the big league standard. Batting ability promises to settle the question of who will and who won't be kept.

None of the outfielders, pitchers or catchers have done enough work, yet, to make it possible to say who are likely to make the grade.

MUST FIGHT FOR JOBS

It is certain, though, that there will be a great battle for everybody berth on the team for every player in camp is in fine shape and confident of his ability to survive.

Neither Flagstead nor Rhyne have arrived.

Both are due but failed to show. Flagstead doesn't need to work, because he is always in the best of shape when he reports but he may find himself out of the running for in infield berth unless he puts in an appearance very soon and is in fine physical condition when he does so.

St. Pete Chatter

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 6—Bruce Cunningham had worlds of smoke on the ball. The boys were swinging after the catcher had the onion. He didn't try to curve it.

Heinie Meuller kicked because he was assigned to the second team. He claimed he was in shape. Then to prove it, twisted his ankle badly walking up to take his first turn at bat.

Johnny Evers umpired on balls and strikes, and amused the gang with his imitation of Klem's nemame. The players didn't dare to kick.

Only one chance came to Rabbit Maranville, but he made a sparkling play on that, and tossed to Maguire for a force at second.

The midget also cracked out a short two bagger to right center.

George Harper, holdout, has wired that he will be in Orlando for an important conference in a few days, and would like to meet the Judge somewhere twixt here and there, and talk business. So he is weakening.

Johnny Cooney's bruised finger is mending and he will be back at first shortly for the Gowdys. Spohrer is not the world's most graceful first backer.

The Braves will do well in their exhibition series here. Most of the boxes have been sold out already. The club needs it, for life is tres expensive in these parts.

DE VITO TILTS WITH McGUIRE TOMORROW

Joe DeVito, brilliant young Italian heavyweight from Providence, will tackle Ned McGuire in the feature finish match of Paul Bowser's all-star wrestling tournament in the Grand Opera House tomorrow night.

The match is somewhat overshadowed by the approaching tussle between Gus Sonnenberg and Joe Malcewicz, to be held in the Garden a week from Friday night, but Promoter Bowser expects to play host to a large gathering, especially since DeVito is the greatest favorite of Italian wrestling fans since Renato Gardini was at the height of his popularity.

DeVITO NICE PROSPECT

DeVito looks like one of the greatest young prospects in the country.

Due to the recent thaw the ice in front of the Tech boathouse has cleared and the indications are that a large open area will be ready for the crews.

In preparation for this event Rigger Pat Manning has had the 30-foot Leared barge put in the water in front of the boathouse. The barge has been lodged on the flats since the last fall workout.

The riggers have also been at it and the craft is ready for action.

Because of the bad weather the Technology crews have been confined to foreign workouts on the river.

Unless the weather becomes cold again the Tech crews will be out every night from now on, and the Tech mentor is hopeful that his proteges will not have to retreat to the boathouse as was the case last year when the weather became too cold.

However, the Tech crews are a week ahead of the schedule for the past two years, not having been on the river as early as this during that time, and because of the limited practice time this additional training period is welcomed by all at the boathouse.

SEGRAVE AFTER SPEED MARK

Daytona Beach, Fla., March 6 (AP)—The third annual international speed classic which opened here today saw two of the world's fastest automobiles tuned to perfection awaiting favorable beach and weather conditions which will permit them to go hurtling along the ocean speedway in an attempt to establish a new speed record for the straightaway mile.

J. M. White of Philadelphia, whose 36-cylinder triplex holds the present record of 207.55, and Maj. H. O. D. Segrave, British contender, pronounced their machines ready for the terrific gruelling they will undergo in quest of new laurels and declared beach and weather conditions alone would determine their starting time.

Despite the fact that White has said his powerful machine is ready for the test, the opening of the speed classic today still found him without a driver.

Maj. Segrave said his giant Golden Arrow racer, powered with a 12-cylinder airplane motor and streamlined to perfection, was capable of making a theoretical speed of 240 miles an hour, but he said he would be satisfied with a record of 215 or 216, providing White's driver fails to equal that mark.

TECH EIGHTS ON RIVER

Four Technology eights will take the river today for the first outdoor workout of the season, according to Head Coach Bill Haines, weather permitting.

Due to the recent thaw the ice in front of the Tech boathouse has cleared and the indications are that a large open area will be ready for the crews.

In preparation for this event rigger Pat Manning has had the 30-foot Leared barge put in the water in front of the boathouse. The barge has been lodged on the flats since the last fall workout.

The riggers have also been at it and the craft is ready for action.

Because of the bad weather the Technology crews have been confined to foreign workouts on the river.

Braves Have Some Great Prospects

By NICK FLATLEY

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 6—It's morning glory time in Florida. The clubs are beginning to play scrub games, and sundry young men step into the calcium, and are fervently written up in the daily.

Some very, very few of these remain to shine, but the greater soon vanish and are heard of no more.

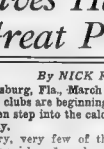
Except, of course, in their own little towns where they sit around and tell about the time they were big leaguers.

Which leads up to the fact that several youths begin to look like real ball players in the Brave squad down here. One grows cynical with the years, and remembers mistakes of other days.

If the kids that have been heralded from these parts had all made good in the last few years the Braves would be perennial world champs.

Managers and veterans have the habit of strolling the novices, hoping that their dreams will come true. But now and again the wise birds are willing to go on record about some kid, and make no qualifications.

Which is true of Robert Byrne James, a chap from Omaha, who is going to give Freddy Maguire quite a battle for the second base berth. Robert Byrne made an immediate impression. He's a slim, not very tall youth, who handles himself with the natural niftiness of the good grounder grabber.



Nick Flatley

He looked good his first day out and has been improving right along. He's as fast as a streak, and manages to cling to anything he gets his fins on. And these last few practice sessions, he has been smacking the apple.

BYRNE SOCKS HOMER

Robert Byrne was the hero of the first at inning practice duel. He combed a homer to deep left center in the fifth inning, with the bases loaded, and that gave Hank Gowdy's Yanigans all the glory.

Robert did some smart fielding, as well, and looks like a stand out, as the boys say, among the new players. He has had only a few years professional experience, and may need some seasoning, but it is generally admitted that he will be up there some day.

"I don't generally go for the kids that look good in the swing," said Evers. "They come to camp in shape, are full of hustle, and make the veterans look slow for awhile. But this kid James is different. He does things the way a real ball player should. He seems to have the natural knack.

"He can cover ground and get that ball. Someone passed around the word that he had a weak arm, and we were worried about that. But he can cut that ball with any of them. He showed that as soon as the word was passed to let go.

"And he looks like a good enough hitter for an infielder. He's still a bit nervous, but he has the courage and ambition and that's most of the battle. He may have another year out but he'll be up there, sure as you're a foot high, before long."

GOWDY LIKES JAMES

And serious Hennery Gowdy, the other right eye, chimes in with: "That's a fact. Jeanniny cricket but that kid can go get them. I've seen a lot of them come up, but never one who looked to have a better chance.

Another new Brave who catches the fancy is Lou Leggett, the catcher from Reading. The Muddy Rust type and a finished performer.

University Six Must Step to Win War

The Kentville Wildcats, rated by many as the best hockey team in the Maritime Provinces and holders of the Halifax Herald trophy, emblematic of the East-West championship, play the University Club tonight in the Boston Garden.

The teams engage a second time tomorrow night.

These are the final games of the season for the University Club and perhaps the last time that local fans will see Ted Learnard, former Dartmouth ace and goalie for the "Unis," in action, as he has announced that this is his last season as a player.

KENTVILLE CAPABLE

Kentville will present the same team that won the championship by defeating the Regina Aces 7 to 2 and the Moncton team by a score of 6 to 1.

Five of the players have been seen in action before in Boston. They are Ernie Mosher, Gordon Kennedy, Waldon Kennedy, Pete McDonald and Buck Bennett.

Mosher starred with Joe Sheridan's Marples five years ago and has a large Boston following.

He recently was offered a contract with the Buffalo professional team. Gordon Kennedy is said to have the fastest shot in Eastern Canada.

FINE RECORD

The team's record this year shows 24 victories, five losses and one tie with a total of 85 goals against 42 for its opponents.

University Club will be at full strength against the invaders. Johnny Chase's bad knee is much improved and he will start at center with Clark Hodder and "Doug" Everett at the wings. Dave Perry and Joe Fitzgerald playing defense and Learnard in the nets.

TUFTS QUINTET PLAYS TECH

Tufts will travel to Cambridge tonight to meet Tech in its last basketball game of the year. The Jumbos victors in their last two games, are anxious to close the season with a win and as M. I. T. has lost only one game this year the contest should be a close one.

The Jumbos, in winning eight out of 14 starts, have shown class and have managed to defeat B. U. and Northeastern among the local teams as well as decisively trouncing their traditional rival M. A. C. which had previously defeated Harvard.

EAGER FOR GONG THAT STARTS HUB GARDEN BATTLE

Mello and Dundee fought in Boston recently. Lowell Al, in that war, had a good margin on the champion. And Al thinks he will repeat. Each intends to try for a knockout. That would settle all arguments.

JOE DUNDEE—AL MELLO

MELLO CHOICE TO WIN OVER DUNDEE

Al Mello of Lowell is expected to go to the post a betting favorite when he clashes with Joe Dundee, world's welterweight champion, in a return 10-round bout at the Boston Garden on Friday night.

Mello defeated Dundee here in January and his admirers are confident he will repeat.

Jack Dempsey will also help to put the charity boxing show over. The boxing commission will be asked to allow the former champion to act as master of ceremonies or engage in a three-round boxing exhibition.

Dempsey would prefer to act as master of ceremonies, but a rule of the commission may prevent him from doing so.

Dundee is in town for his bouts with Mello and will top off his training at Jim Toland's Gym. The champion is already in good condition and is of the opinion he will even up his score with Mello.

Dundee, regarded as one of the most punishing punchers that ever wore the welterweight togs, is keenly looking forward to scoring a knockout in this bout. He points out that he had Mello hanging on desperately a couple of times in their previous meeting and he is hopeful of finishing the job in Friday night's bout.

Prominent Boston men and women interested in the promotion of the Boston Boys' Club and the Boston Children's Friend Society, which will receive the proceeds of this show, expect the ringside to be well represented by members of their set.

A fine preliminary card will support the main feature. In a 10-round bout, Arthur Flynn of Lawrence meets Charlie Arthurs of Newark, N. J., while Frankie Moore of the North End meets Buster Brown of Baltimore in an eight-rounder.

In the six-round bouts, Joe Tavelerl, North End, takes on Eddie Fister, New Rochelle, while Sam Chernoff, New York, opposes Jo Hatfield, Philadelphia, and Tom Watkins, New York, meets Tony Sbucco, North End.

TAD'S TIDBITS

MIAMI stars were lucky guys at that. Jack Sharkey and Young Stribling ought to thank their stars that the breaks of luck have all been their way

They pulled off a show at Miami, that netted Jack $100,000 and Willie over $64,000.

Now, let's get on with our story ...

D'ye remember a few years ago that Gene Tunney went up to Madison Square Garden and at Frank Flournoy's desk ... acted to fight Jack Sharkey in 15 rounder ... this of course is before Gene met Dempsey. Oh, yes, this was when the pickings were kind of poor for Gene. Anyway this did happen.

Something ... happened in the meantime and the match was forgotten. Later on Tunney went to Miami and agreed to fight Stribling there. It looked like a big gamble for Gene and Willie would split up an awful wad.

JACK Sharkey then let out a squawk that could have been heard at the Magellan straits if someone had been there with an ear up.

Well, something happened to the Miami match and Gene left Miami and came North to East Orange.

Then Stribling let out a belch. Oh Boy, what a belch.

As we said before the other night Willie and Jack split up quite, SOME change.

Can you imagine what Gene Tunney would have done to them and he taken them on the one night named and at the designated spot?

What lucky bozos they are that Mr. Tunney didn't get a look at them.

What he WOULD have done to Will and Jack.

Charlie is sure the Windy City corporation will outpo the Garden Corporation and says Last not only the shows will be bigger but better and is willing to bet that right now his corporation has more millionaires aboard than the Garden Corporation has. His letter follows in part:

"And now at this time an experiment is being started out here which I know would interest you. With the banning of Tendom Chicago Stadium, Paddy Harmon early realized the trouble he would have getting fighters good enough to fill the 25,000 seats.

"Several months ago he hired Tommy White who you will remember as a great featherweight. He started a free school for boxers at Dreamland Hall with classes every afternoon and evening.

"ABOUT 500 kids have enrolled, out of which number about 50 have showed enough promise to justify keeping them in the classes. White teaches the boys, but there are outside coaches in boxing and only one was in attendance.

He teaches the most ... fundamentals. Did not go ... and the right resting on toe ... He discourages crouching, swaying, and wrestling.

After some of the students had progressed well in classes Harmon started weekly amateur shows matching White's boys with teams from the other clubs. I. A. C. A. A. but soon found that the White boys were being pitted with boys of from one to three years experience on ...

"It is Harmon idea that the present day fighters are mostly untaught and unfit. He claims that the promising boys are tossed into the ring by hungry managers and told to see if they can take it.

Heavyweights to Top Card at St. Joe's

Another large group of amateur boxers will gather in Commercial Hall on Saturday night, when St. Joseph's T. A. S. will hold its weekly amateur tournament.

The heavyweight will be featured once more. The big fellows are starting to appear at the weekly St. Joe's tournament, for they are training for the big amateur events of the season which will start soon and four are expected to clash in the feature bouts at Saturday's ...

Bouts also will be held in the 112, 118, 126, 135, 147 and 160 pounds classes, and each class will be open to all comers. Entries may be filed with William H. Cuddy, 373 Washington st., room 315.

Two Teams Tied in Gotham Bike Race

New York, March 6 (AP)—Two teams were deadlocked for the lead in the six-day bicycle race at Madison Square Garden today, the 59th hour. They were Georgetti-Debnets and McNamara-Vanek. Each had gone 942 miles and nine laps.

After last night's wild riding the teams settled down to a comparatively easy gait to conserve energy for sprints later in the day.

Prevent Baldness Before too late!

Watch These Points

When your hair begins to recede at the temple (1), frontal (2), or get thin on the crown (3), nature is painlessly warning you that you have been neglecting your scalp and baldness is surely approaching. Heed this positive warning. Save your hair by having The Thomas' correct the scalp disorder that is causing your loss of hair.

ASK the bald-headed men you know how they—became bald and about 8 out of every 10 will tell you that baldness came upon them almost overnight. But this is not true! Nature always gives a warning . . . but the trouble with most men is that they do not realize what this warning is!

Investigate what we are doing for others who are getting bald—and what we can do for you. Scalp examination is FREE—no obligation—come in today!

Harvard Infield Almost Complete; War for One Job

2ND BASE NOT YET FILLED

Nugent Favored for Keystone Sack Position; First, Third and Short O. K.

By TED LYNCH

Although Coach Mitchell's Harvard infielders are only taking their third workout of the year today, three of the varsity infield posts have been filled, and the large number of diamond aspirants are now concentrating on the only remaining open berth at second base.

It took Mitchell just two days to decide that, barring injuries, Johnny Prior, Capt. Everett Donaghy and Eddie McGrath would play most of the coming games in the Harvard inner works.

Prior and Donaghy will return to their posts of a year ago at first and third respectively, while McGrath will fill at the short field.

The contest for the keystone berth is bound to be torrid. The race now favors Frank Nugent, one of the five lettermen returning this spring. Nugent cavorted his baseball wares in the outergarden, but right now is trying out for his more natural post in the infield.

MAY SHIFT NUGENT

Doubtless Mitchell would hand the post to the Brighton boy right now if the veteran mentor was sure of his outfield material. As it is, the crop of fielders is none too promising and Mitchell might be forced to move Nugent out.

Personally, Nugent prefers the infield. He played short at Brighton high and later on the 1930 Harvard frosh team. He has played at second base and wants to hold down that post on the Harvard varsity nine this spring.

Should Nugent start chasing fungos once again, the race for the job would simmer down to Johnny Carver, Bill Elkins and Timer DesRoches.

On experience and playing ability Carver should have the position hands down, but the former Cambridge Latin star is hampered by a lame shoulder.

Carver came to Harvard and Cambridge as one of the greatest athletes ever graduated from Exeter. He played football, hockey and baseball with the Red and Gray and was expected to reach great athletic heights at Harvard.

ARM VERY WEAK

However, Johnny banged his shoulder in a freshman hockey game and the wing went bad in the middle of the yearling baseball season. He stayed away from football, conserving the wing for baseball. But here again the arm refused to function.

During the past summer Doctor Tommy Richards cut into the shoulder on three defferent occasions. Since that time Carver has been practicing daily on the weights at Harvard and will not try out his arm until later on this season.

Timer DesRoches played on the Harvard yearling team a year ago and looked great playing next to Eddie McGrath. Should Nugent be shifted to the outfield and Carver's arm not function, DesRoches will cover the post left open by the graduation of Johnny Chase.

Hard Punchers at Dilboy Post Show

Each and every one of Boston's representatives in the big intercity amateur boxing tournament that Dilboy Post, V. F. W., will conduct in K. of C. Hall, Highland ave., Somerville, tomorrow night, is regarded as a hard puncher.

Little Johnny Tomesello, one of Boston's 112-pounders, is, perhaps, the hardest hitter of all the Boston boxers. Pat Kelley, the other 112-pounder, also has his share of knockouts in the local tournaments during this winter.

Boston's 115-pounders, Frank Millerick and Gordon Faulkner, both of Somerville; Billy Gerber, Dorchester, and Jackie Norton, Roxbury, 126-pound defenders, and Bob Hamilton, Cambridge, and Walter Rocheville, Medford, in the 147-pound class, have proved that they can use their right hands for more than eating.

Besides these four Intercity classes there will be two open divisions, 135 and 160 pounds. Entries for these will be accepted today at Dilboy Post headquarters, K. of C. Building, Highland ave., Somerville.

Y. M. C. A. Wrestlers Show in Title Bouts

The amateur wrestling game, particularly in the Y. M. C. A.'s, has grown by leaps and bounds in the past year. The teams that seem to stand out at the present time above the others are the teams of the following associations: Boston Newton, Providence and Lynn, and there is much interest in the coming tournament on Saturday night at Cambridge. The men will weigh in at 6 o'clock and will wrestle at 6 30.

The meet is under the personal direction of Dr. Fred E. Simm, who is chairman of the Two State Wrestling Committee.

Hardie, Disccoverer of Corbett, Dead

Oakland, Cal., March 6 (AP) — Lou Hardie, 69, known as the man who discovered James J. Corbett, former heavyweight champion of the world, and assisted in his development as an amateur boxer, died of pneumonia yesterday.

Hardie played major league baseball with Philadelphia in 1883, Chicago in 1886, and Boston in 1889.

RAWSON PLANS FOR SHOT AT SCHAAF

Big Boy Rawson, the hard-hitting young heavyweight from Dorchester who has scored 12 knockouts in 12 local bouts, will do-mand bouts with Ernie Schaaf and Jim Maloney if he succeeds in stopping Bob Mills, heavyweight champion of New Hampshire, in the feature 10-round bout of the Arena A. A. at the Arena Monday night.

The 13th may be a bad one for Rawson. He has never met an experienced an opponent as the champion of New Hampshire. Mills has gone the 10-round distance time after time, while it s doubtful if Rawson ever went more than six rounds. Mills, too, has an awkward southpaw style, plenty of heart, and a stiff punch.

The New Hampshire heavyweight is under the guidance of Harry Kelley, former trainer of Johnny Wilson and Jack Sharkey. "I wouldn't have made the match if I didn't think Mills would win," he said. "I've been teaching him and training him for three years. He has won a lot of fights and picked up a lot of experience. I think he's ready to go after the big fellows. Rawson is the first step, and I'll be very disappointed if he doesn't beat the Dorchester fellow."

Col. Bob McKirdy will feature three more heavyweight bouts on his show, Josephine Rambone Feiv of South Boston and Big Boy Burhan will resume their rivalry in a six-rounder that cannot fail to be a slugging bee from start to finish.

Tom McNeeley of Cambridge, former amateur champion, will tackle the best available opponent, and a third preliminary bout between heavyweights will be announced tomorrow.

Jake Zeramby, dazzling young junior lightweight from Lynn, is to appear in the 10-round semi-final bout against Lew Perfetti of New York. Zeramby has won bout after bout, and is one of the biggest favorites in New England.

Freddie O'Connor of South Boston and Jy Diamond of the West End, hitter featherweight rivals, will meet in a return bout over the eight-round route.

In a six-rounder, Johnny Daley of Watertown, former national amateur featherweight king, will meet the rough little Jimmy Scully of South Boston.

Providence to Hub Run Plans Complete

Preparations are practically completed for the third annual marathon sponsored by the Shepard Stores of Boston and Providence, Saturday.

The first eight runners to complete the 44-mile grind will be awarded silver loving cups. The next 25 runners will receive medals.

Entries for the marathon close today at 12 o'clock. The start will be made at the entrance to the Shepard Stores on Washington and Union sts., Providence, and the runners will finish opposite the Tremont st. entrance to the Shepard store, here.

The race will be held regardless of weather conditions, starting at 10 o'clock. The train carrying the runners will leave South Station at 8 o'clock on track one.

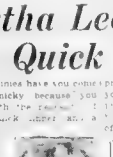
Martha Lee Tells of a Quick Dinner

HOW many times have you come home panicky because you were faced with the problem of preparing a quick dinner which couldn't possibly, with any stretch of imagination, appear like a dinner when thrown together in a hurry? Important people were coming, the house must appear well ordered and the dinner must have the appearance of being elaborate though analysis would prove it might have been prepared in short time.



Martha Lee

Here is a menu which will [illegible] prepared very quickly and which looks elaborate enough for any housewife to serve with the proud assurance that she is giving her guests a delicious meal:

Cream of Tomato Soup
Olives Cranberry Jelly
Stuffed Celery
Filet Mignon
Garnished with Pimento
Baked Potato Corn Soufflé
Avocado or Lettuce Salad
Toasted Crackers Cheese
Peach Short Cake Coffee

The cream of tomato soup may be purchased at any grocery store with the best people serving it whipped cream or ice cream, but choose one of the cream soups as it is more delicate.

The filet mignon may be purchased from any butcher shop and will be ready to broil. Broil it [illegible] as you wish and garnish with pimento.

The corn soufflé which follows may be quickly prepared and is delicious if made with sliced peaches.

To every eight you would need a can of sliced peaches. The RETURN OF OLD KING BRADY

The Adventures of Great Detective Recounted

CHAPTER 3

In the third chapter the Governor receives another threatening letter. Old King Brady keeps the tryst and rescues a woman who is being choked to death. She turns evidence and promises to aid Old King Brady to recover the child.

ONCE again Old King Brady proved to be right. On the morning following their conversation Gov. Strong received a letter bearing a Chicago postmark. He took it directly to the Bradys. It read thus:

"Governor:

You have deceived us. Beware!

When or how we shall kill your granddaughter we shall not say, but it shall be done and the letters published unless you act in our favor at once. Slow this letter to the Bradys if you dare! Remain at the hotel. Before the day is out information will come to you.

"The Committee."

"Don't lose heart," said the old detective. "We know who our enemies are and I should despise myself if I failed to round them up."

"But your advice, man! Your advice!" cried the Governor impatiently.

"Is for you to disguise yourself as me and let me disguise as you, and then leave matters in my hands."

They accordingly made the disguises and separated.

"And now," said Harry, "we can get busy, Alice. I'll start sidewalking it at follow Mrs. Crispino."

On the opposite corner stood a well-dressed foreign-looking man whom Harry had decided was one of the enemy. As for Alice's mission, it grew out of a bunch of love letters the Bradys had found among Riffaldi's effects, all signed "Your Loving Mag." Alice had located the address given. Old King Brady felt that sooner or later Riffaldi would visit his "loving Mag" in St. Louis. I am a detective." He himself comfortable at the hotel. Late in the afternoon a card was brought up to him bearing the name "Mrs. Crispino."

He at once descended to the parlor. A lady sitting ov In one corner raised her hand slightly. He went up to her, saying "Mrs. Crispino?"

"Yes. You are Governor Strong?"

The old detective seated himself beside her. "Yes, I am."

"I have called to see if you have anything to say for publication in St. Louis. I am a reporter."

"I don't know that I have anything to say. But go ahead and I'll answer your questions."

Mrs. Crispino rapidly wrote down in abbreviated longhand his ambiguous replies to her questions. She extended the pad to the old detective, saying: "Read it over and see that I have reported it correctly."

He took the pad, read it through, and then he understood. The last lines ran thus: "Tonight at midnight. Clark st. bridge; the full amount or the child dies. Come alone or you will not see us. No other chance will be offered you."

"It is quite correct, Mrs. Crispino. I will follow the instructions."

Within a few more words Mrs. Crispino took leave of the "Governor."

"Fooled again," muttered Old King Brady.

Midnight found the detectives on the Clark st. bridge. There were many people coming and going; presently a woman brushed by and I must give them the slip."

The old detective suddenly [illegible] Mrs. Crispino stood up [illegible] the street and a man was talking to [illegible] Old King Brady had accomplished his purpose—he was now in the enemy's lair.

That might be Tony Pitato," reflected the old detective, although he had never seen him.

The man and woman went down the street and entered a tenement. Old King Brady followed neither the number carefully. He was uncertain just how to proceed. Suddenly [illegible] man stood at the [illegible] "I have got a clue at last!" he muttered. "I'll have you now, my fine fellow!"

"A quarter! He is going for her because she lost her man," thought Old King Brady. "I think I'll ask a hand in that little family jar and get that fellow."

He hastily entered the tenement. He heard a scream. Reaching the door he threw it open. Mrs. Crispino lay on the floor moaning. The man stood over her with a wicked looking knife raised above her breast.

His attention was attracted by the opening of the door and he turned. Quick as a flash the old detective struck the hand it at and the knife into the air, while with his right foot he tripped the fellow up.

Old King Brady drew his revolver. "You are my prisoner!" he cried, displaying his shield.

"All right, boss! Don't shoot. I give up!" without the man.

"Stand up!" ordered Old King Brady. The fellow rose, made a rush for the old detective and tried to grab the revolver. Then he darted through the door and ran down the stairs. The woman s [illegible] lay moaning on the floor.

"Was that your husband?" demanded Old King Brady.

"No, oh, no!" she replied. "It is lucky you came when you did or he would have killed me." She rose slowly to her feet. "We are far from being safe here, sir," she continued. "He will surely return and do us both up."

"Then come with me, if you are able, and I will see you safe wherever you want to go."

They descended to the street and walked on in silence. The woman kept eyeing him shyly. Finally, seeing she was evidently afraid to speak the old detective asked, "Do you want that man arrested?"

"Arrest!" flashed Mrs Crispino "No! I'd like to see him hung! He will never live to raise his hand to me again."

"Don't make threats, Mrs. Crispino. If that man should be found dead some day it might result in you being hung yourself."

She gave a violent start. "Who are you?" she demanded.

"I am a detective. It is my business to know things," said Old King Brady.

"You fear others beside that fellow," said the old detective. "Let me help you and you need have no fear. You were at the Palmer House this evening playing reporter and pretending to interview Governor Strong."

She gave a slight scream and tried to run.

"Stop!" ordered Old King Brady. "Don't do that or you will force me to arrest you."

She halted instantly.

"Now be sensible if you want your revenge. It was by my advice that Governor Strong gave you the letter. If you will come over to my side your revenge is certain. Of course, your common sense might to tell you that Governor Strong will never turn over a hundred thousand dollars. The demand [illegible]

"That's what I said in the first place," she muttered. "Will there be anything coming my way if I do?"

"I can guarantee you a thousand dollars if you will fix it so that we get the child."

"And that without me giving him away?" she asked quickly.

"Ah, I see! You love him still."

"I hate him!" she cried fiercely, "but I fear his friends."

"Fix it so that we get little Ray and you get your thousand."

"I'll go you," said the woman. "You have already mentioned the name of the man who tried to [illegible]"

"Ha! So! Then his name is Tony Pitato."

She was silent.

"Will you tell me where you are to meet him?"

She gave a number on Fulton st.

"Ah!" thought Old King Brady, "then the child is in the hands of Slag Pryor!"

Woman Sleuth Plays a Part in Many Thrilling Situations

'The Abercrombie Mystery'; by Carolyn Wells, a Fine Novel Complete in Six Days stepped down to sit beside Hugh.

Having examined all the witnesses the inquest was adjourned for two weeks for further evidence.

Kenneth Carlisle passed rapidly through the crowd and snapped pearl into a small reception room he had quickly chosen for office. Downing joined him there and the two detectives prepared to take up the case in earnest.

"Now for it," began Ken. "That farce of an inquest is over. To be systematic, we want to find out first of all, as to the time of the lady's death, and the weapon and the motive."

"You're playing a murder game, then?"

"Yes," Ken spoke seriously, "because it was a murder. That woman never killed herself. The drink she was taking when her daughter saw her, was the fatal draught, and its effects, both then and later, caused her death."

"Yes, I agree. Then you have the weapon."

"Downing, I want to give this thing an honest handling. Now, the obvious suspect is Hugh Abercrombie, for in the game with the biggest claim to motive and opportunity, and he must be investigated."

"You're ascribing motive to him because you've heard gossip around about the Garth girl."

In reply Ken told him in full detail the scene he had witnessed between Hugh Abercrombie and Lorna Garth, continuing:

"No, we can't fix it on him yet. But he had a motive. Now as to opportunity. We must find out where he was at six-thirty Thursday afternoon. That's the fatal hour, and the hour she died. The daughter says she was in tea tea house at six-thirty and her mother was alone there, sipping a highball. Therefore, whoever put the poison in that drink for her, had left the scene only a few moments previously. That poison was probably given to the lady in that highball, a short time before six-thirty.

"I don't like the theory that the lady opened the new bottle of Scotch."

"I agree with you, that's why I deduce the poisoner there. He opened the bottle, and probably poured drinks for them both."

At this point a new face followed by the entrance of Van Antwerp.

"It's this way, Ken. Hugh wants to go to New York to confer about the funeral arrangements. And he says you want to see him for anything, could you do so now so he can go along."

"All right, then. Where is he?"

"In his study, the room back of this office."

Meantime, Ken reaching the study, went in, to find Abercrombie there and Eric Redmanya with him.

The detective suddenly recalled that all these two men, in this same room, that he had seen through the window on Tuesday evening—a night before.

Ken requested Redmanya to leave them alone and then faced Abercrombie squarely: "I find myself obliged to ask you some very personal questions," he said, "and I feel sure it is better to have no third person present."

Abercrombie nodded.

"You wanted a divorce," Ken went on. "You did not want to live with your wife any longer. Why did you want a separation?"

"Is my business," Hugh answered, "we both would have been happier living apart. We were not congenial, not at all of the same kind or temperament and I hoped she would see it as I did, that we would be better off in every way if we could obtain a divorce."

"And you had no other reason for wanting that divorce but to further the happiness of yourself and your wife? There was no third person whose happiness you had in mind?"

"No, I never have heard what I suppose is common report. You have doubtless heard that I have been calling on Miss Garth, the daughter says she was in tea tea house at six-thirty and her mother was alone there, sipping a highball. Therefore, whoever put the poison in that drink for her, had left the scene only a few moments previously. That poison was probably given to the lady in that highball, a short time before six-thirty.

EVENING New York Stocks AMERICAN New York Curb MARKET

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

MARKET IS HELD BACK BY FEAR OF MONEY

By W. S. GUSTAS

New York, March 6.—Though the closing stocks and a few of the speculative favorite pushed ahead substantially in the final hour of two today, the market as a whole was handicapped by the nervousness over money supplies and stocks turned irregularly downward in the early afternoon.

There was not enough outside money to keep the rate down to 5 per cent and 5 per cent was offered by Wall Street operators for call before noon to keep the speculative pot boiling.

Amazonia dominated the situation with new highs in buying which carried it to the new leaders of Amazonia stock find themselves in possession of a fine garden which they either "trash in" of use as reduction of the purchase price of the new stock at 45 a share or Amazonia climbed to its new 4½ point gain, but fell back to 157 when the scaling was passed to 60.

It is the general understanding in Wall Street today that it means the reserve board is making it plain to the member banks, through confidential bulletins, that it means exercise what was said about the reduction of speculative borrowing and that banks which lean heavily will find themselves cut off entirely from the reserve bank credit reservoirs.

That would be a calamity too great for the banks and are inclined to take orders with as good grace as they can muster. It is too early yet to look for concentrations to pour very much money into the call loan market and a 10 per cent money rate is predicted in some sections of the Wall Street district.

New York Curb Has Steady Trading Tone

New York, March 6—Curb prices were steady today. Chesebrough Mfg. Co. common and Cities Service was down ¼ at 120¾. Associated Gas sold at 90. Decca Record at 22¾ all unchanged.

FISK RUBBER HAS PROFIT ON INVENTORY

Fisk Rubber Company for the six months ended December 31 1928, showed net earnings after charges of $691,882. While representing a sub-normal profit on the volume of business done, it was sufficient to cover 1¾ per cent on dividends on the preferred stocks, which were suspended last summer.

As stated at the end of the first half year, the company had incurred commitments for rubber for 1928 and 1930. To mark all commitments to the closing basis of the books of December 31 1928 Fisk set up a special reserve fund of $1,940,000 since the closing of the books crude rubber prices have advanced over seven cents a pound, which makes unlikely the use of the reserve fund during the present year in its inventory account Fisk now has a very snug profit.

While the net result of the operations of the second half year is by virtue of the establishment of the $1,000,000 reserve fund in making a deficit for the year $3,967,442, Fisk, in spite of this and of its note and bond indebtedness during 1928 of $45,500, ended the year with a ratio of current assets to liabilities of 4.9 to 1 compared with 3.6 to 1 June 30. As of December 31, it had quick assets of $17,306,000 against liabilities of $6,953,784.

Unit sales last year actually increased 27 per cent although lower prices cut the dollars and cents volume from $52,281,033 to $50,834,841. Production in 1928 actually exceeded 6,500,000 tires.

ANACONDA TO RAISE WAGES

Butte, Mont., March 6 (AP)—For the third time since copper prices began to improve last fall the Anaconda Copper Mining Co. today announced a wage increase for its workers. Vice President J. R. Rush announced that the company had decided on additional 5 cents a day for all employees on its payroll of the company. Proportionate increases were granted women working part time.

The increase affects about 18,000 men and brings the basic pay for underground work will exceed, effective as long as the domestic price of copper is 19 cent a pound or over.

The first increase was 50 cents a day, effective March 1, 1928, on the basis of 15-cent copper on October 1. The second was 25 cents a day, effective February 1, 1929, when copper was selling at 17½ cents a pound.

OPPOSE CHANGE IN THE ANTI-TRUST LAW

Increased powers of paternalistic interference, at the hands of a commission or bureau, are all that is promised in the present propaganda for the old 1914 idea that the regulation of business should be taken out of the hands of the courts, according to Gilbert H. Montague, widely known as counsel on numerous federal and state investigations, writing on "Can Business Afford to Take a Chance on Sherman Law Revision?" in the current issue of The Magazine of Business.

"Teams have been written in agitation for an amendment to the Sherman Law which would change the phrase 'restraint of trade' to 'unreasonable restraint of trade,'" Mr. Montague points out in his article, "all in apparent ignorance of the fact that ever since 1911 the Supreme Court has been construing, applying and enforcing the Sherman Law exactly as if this phrase 'restraint of trade' has already been amended to read 'unreasonable restraint of trade.'

"Eighteen years of construction, enforcement and application by the Supreme Court have brought the Sherman Law," he believes, to approximately this position:

(1) Previously competing units may merge, consolidate or combine, by agreement or otherwise, whenever warranted by sound economic considerations, provided always that there remain outside the merger, consolidation or combination enough rival competing units of sufficient strength and activity to insure the continuance of actual competitive conditions of substantially every point throughout that industry.

(2) Except by fair competition, or by fair and reasonable persuasion, or by peaceful severance of business relations between the disputing parties, no person, firm, or corporation, whether by merger, consolidation, combination, or single unit, may in any way, under any pretext of self-advancement obstruct, impede, or retard any one else from carrying on his lawful business or livelihood.

Except for the Supreme Court's attitude toward resale price agreements, which Mr. Montague declares, have always been regarded by him as a somewhat illogical departure from all the Supreme Court's decisions under the Sherman Law, the two rules named, in his opinion, are an approximately accurate and comprehensive statement of the actual scope of the Sherman Law.

"Certainly the Federal Trade Commission's earlier history tends to show that, in its rulings upon business practices, agreements, combinations, consolidations and mergers," Mr. Montague points out "no commissi- or bureau will ever dare to be more 'liberal' than the courts have been in their construction, application, and enforcement of the Sherman Law since 1911."

Isaac Silver & Bros. Sales Increase 15 P. C.

Isaac Silver & Bros. report total sales for the first two months of this year $930,867 against $811,771, for the same period of last year, an increase of 15 per cent.

Wall Street Gossip

F. W. WOOLWORTH reports February sales much ahead of 1928, $13,879,709 compared with $12,992,231 in February, 1928, increase of 201 per cent.

A. M. BEALE, president of A. M. Byers Co., was elected director of Pittsburgh Steel Hoop Co. to succeed J. F. Byers, resigned.

CERTAIN-TEED Products Co omitted quarterly preferred dividend of $1.75 due at this time. Last regular common dividend of $1 was discontinued.

AMERICAN Petroleum Institute estimates daily average crude oil production at 2,702,900 barrels in the week ended March 2 an increase of 87,250 over preceding week.

NATIONAL Rubber Co. declared initial dividend of 50 cents, payable April 15.

NORTHERN Sugar Refining Co advanced price of refined sugar 15 points to 4.90 cents a pound.

BOSTON STOCK SEAT SOLD AT RECORD HIGH

By FRANK H. MELOON,
Financial Editor.

Seat on the Boston Stock Exchange has just been sold for $45,000. This is up $5000 from the last previous sale, and is the highest price in history for a local seat.

With the automobile show under way in Boston, it is especially interesting to note that the auto output for the past month is seen fully up to expectations previously recorded in this column. At least a 20 per cent increase over February of last year is said to be assured when the final figures are at hand. One writer attempts to guess the 1929 output by multiplying the February estimates by 12. Such a process would indeed be fallacious. The correct result in any year since the automotive industry got "going." Trade authorities who have been conservative in the past think 1929 will show the highest sales since 1926.

Jesse L. Livermore, whose speculative activities in the commodities markets have been as gigantic and varied as his experiences in stocks, believes that the coffee situation today is comparable to that in copper a few months ago, prior to the spectacular rise in the price of that metal.

Breaking a silence which had endured for the last seven years, the noted speculator has given current a possible clue to the course which might carry the price of this commodity substantially higher than prevailing levels.

"I would recommend to any manufacturing concern using raw cotton," Livermore said in a prepared statement, "to cover their requirements for the next few months immediately before the speculative public realize the future possibilities of cotton."

Livermore made it clear, in informal remarks, that he considers a possibility of tremendously increased speculative interest in various commodities. To his listeners, the suggestion was carried that the speculative wave in stocks might easily extend into many raw products.

As a prophet on commodity price fluctuations Livermore has an enviable record. He forecast and publicly forecast the marked appreciation in wheat prices in 1924, and likewise proclaimed that the top had been reached before the sharp drop in the price developed. The preceding year Livermore foresaw a marked advance in cotton prices which developed in amazing fashion.

"With the demand for manufactured articles requiring raw material in most every case being greater than for years," Livermore's statement read, "it is very apt to exceed until it embraces every industry using raw material. It is becoming more apparent every day that the surplus of most commodities is becoming depleted and in some cases has already become exhausted.

"Industry in general for the past five years, and particularly for the last three years, has been pursuing a policy of 'hand-to-mouth' buying in covering their production requirements for raw material, and the reason for such a policy has been the stability of the commodity price level.

"However, we have a practicable example in the copper industry today of how abruptly conditions may be forced to anticipate their requirements for raw material once the fundamental conditions surrounding a commodity becomes so strong as to bring prices into an upward trend.

"If exports of American cotton keep up at the same rate of increase over last year for the balance of this cotton season, and the American consumption keeps on gaining at the rapid rate it has of late, it will not be long before the consumers of raw cotton will find themselves in a position similar to what the consumers of copper are in today.

"Once the speculative public realize the future possibilities for profit that he ahead in the next few months in the cotton market, the consumers of cotton will have to contend with the active competition of the public in acquiring cotton for their future needs.

"The statistical position of cotton as a commodity today is very strong and in my opinion it should be very easy for cotton to duplicate what we have experienced in the copper market for the past six months."

A couple of years ago it was suggested in this column that New England potato growers ought to pay more attention to marketing potatoes, especially with the names of the varieties well advertised. Contrary to the popular early belief, a potato is not just a potato, but can be picked by variety according to the taste of the consumer. And a baking potato is not always a "boiling" potato and vice versa.

New England potato growers are adapting themselves rather slowly to modern marketing conditions. Minnesota growers are marketing their product here in 25-lb. bags to such an extent that the 100-lb. bag is used by many as headed for the discard. The smaller size package is expected to increase potato consumption—and growers will tell you that it is now much in need of increasing. The rich field is waiting by advertising is somewhat neglected.

Worthy Giant Cut Down; Haley Fiske's Work, Vision

By B. C. FORBES

NEW YORK, March 6—Probably no one member of your family or mine is a policy of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, whose hereinafter head, Haley Fiske, has just died. The company has in force as many policies as there are families in the United States with 30,000,000 to spare. The world has never known any other organization like it. Its 4,000,000 customers (policyholders) are it more than $2,000,000 every day of the year. Its assets exceed two and a third billions. It has on the books $16,500,000,000 of life insurance.

Mr. Fiske was his later years regarded himself as the medical officer of health for America. He did infinitely more than any other man to improve the health of the nation. This work constitutes his greatest monument. In this work, that yielded him the greatest satisfaction in the seven years since he passed his proverbial allotted span of three score years and ten.

Some time ago he said to me with justifiable pride:

"We have lengthened the average life of our policyholders eight and a half years, contrasted with an average of five and a half years for the whole country. We sent our corps of nurses into one community, Framingham, Mass., and cut the death rate among babies from three hundred per thousand to ninety-six per thousand. And in 1924 we cut down our mortality from:

	P.C.
Typhoid	80
Tuberculosis	53
Children's diseases	53
Scarlet fever	67
Diphtheria	61

"We believe we saved 200,000 lives among our policyholders in that period. In our own sanitariums 84 per cent of the tuberculous patients have been discharged cured. Our nurses pay 15,000,000 visits a year, mostly among the families of workers. We distribute 40,000,000 pieces of health literature a year, aimed especially at the improvement of the health of mothers and babies.

"We spent $8,000,000 in building attractive homes to rent at low cost to men, and this has proved both a sound policy and a sound investment. We plan to do more along this line.

"Although our expenditures to raise the health of the people of this country look large, they have actually paid profits to the savings-bank policyholders because it is paid for all the services rendered."

Mr. Fiske added:

"We are proud of the fact that

All that Mr. Metropolitan did to better the health and lengthen the life of the American people sprang directly from President Fiske's broad-gauge ideas. He was particularly interested in the health and well-being of three classes—industrial workers, mothers and children. It was largely due to his ardent efforts that so many corporations were induced to take out insurance covering all their workers.

It is interesting to know that Haley Fiske became absolutely confident before he was so suddenly cut off—he died in the automobile on returning from church—that insurance against unemployment is bound to come in this country before long.

Mr. Fiske was one of the few remaining old-type heads of great corporations. He ruled his vast organization with autocracy, so self-reliant, so capable, so sure of his ground was he. He did not feel it necessary to lean on any trustees or even on subordinate officers. He thought things out for himself and then issued orders. He regarded himself as the commander-in-chief of the Metropolitan's tens of thousands of employes, and he was always prepared to accept full responsibility for his decisions.

He had applied himself so tremendously vigorously to his duties for almost 50 years—he completed 55 years' service last May—that he was complete master of every phase of the company's far-flung activities. A veritable giant, both physically and mentally, he was an ardent advocate of hard work, and he lived what he preached. Good health he regarded as man's greatest blessing. And he was a whole-heart crusader against everything endangering the health of the individual and the nation.

Insurance to him was an ideal means toward an end. That end, his mission was not merely to have his company make money, but to develop it into what Mr. Hoover called it, "The greatest humanitarian institution in the United States."

And he succeeded as few men of affairs have ever succeeded.

Upon whom will Haley Fiske's mantle fall?

Probably on either Frederick H. Ecker, first vice-president, or Archibald F. C. Fiske, a vice-president and son of Mr. Fiske. In late years Mr. Ecker has come prominently before the business world in charge of commerce work, as a director in various important corporations and as an authoritative speaker on problems concerning business.

Haley Fiske's place will not be easily filled as he filled it. You and I, all of us, are his debtors.

Gorton, Pew May Pay Extra Dividend

Gorton-Pew Fisheries Co., Ltd., is currently enjoying the most profitable year since the present company was formed, following reorganization of the Gorton-Pew Fisheries Co. late in 1923.

It is expected that something extra for shareholders will be forthcoming when directors meet to declare dividend action late this month on the common shares. This issue is currently receiving dividends of 75 cents a share annually.

The company is closing the March 31, 1919, fiscal year in sound financial condition, it has no funded debt and owes no money.

Bankers Trust Is Up $365 a Share

New York, March 6 (INS)—Bankers Trust stock jumped 365 points to $1878 a share in the unlisted market today, following the directors' announcement of the intention to split the stock on a 10 for 1 basis, making the par value $10 a share.

Wall Street heard rumors that the National City Bank, now the largest bank in America, would take over the Bankers Trust Co. in a new merger in order to hold its first place position, now threatened by the $2,000,000 merger of the National Bank of Commerce and the Guaranty Trust Co.

BASIC LINES MAINTAIN ACTIVITY

"The high rate of activity in the basic industries has been maintained through February and the current year to date has set a favorable record in volume of manufacturing and trade," says the monthly review of the National City Bank of New York.

"Money rates continue firm with no indication of easing in the immediate future, but thus far there is little evidence that general business has been hurt thereby.

"Annual financial statements that are now being received indicate a sound position of representative concerns in most industries, marked by large holdings of cash and securities, moderate inventories and small bank borrowings and other current liabilities. Earnings are in line with expectations, a table computed from net profits of 900 corporations which have published annual reports to date indicating a gain of 16 per cent over the preceding year.

"Steel mill operations are supported at record levels by heavy demands from manufacturers of automobiles and airplanes, railroad equipment, farm implements, machinery and tools. Advices from the trade indicate that, except for structural shapes, incoming orders have equalled shipments and that bookings apparently are increasing, with emphasis on quick deliveries, also that prices on certain specifications have been advanced slightly. Coke prices are higher.

"Automobile production set a record in January and expanded further in February, which leaves no doubt but that the first half of this year will bring large sales to the motor industry and its allied supplying materials, accessories and tires.

"A high rate of activity is noted in numerous other lines of manufacturing. Cotton mills consumed 668,589 bales of raw cotton in January, which was the second largest ever reported for any one month. Indications are now for the total season's consumption ending with July to closely approximate that of the 1927-28 year, despite the lower rate of operations last Autumn.

"Silk manufacturers are looking forward to an excellent spring trade and the recent advance in raw silk prices has stimulated the placing of orders for broad silks heavily and underwear lines. Production is now expanding at a decreasing rate, but the trade estimates that 1929 production will exceed no less than 20 per cent ahead of 1928.

"Woolen and worsted manufacturing has been in a depressed state for several years and although the 1929 outlook is improved there still remain uncertain elements, particularly excess plant capacity, subnormal demand as compared with other fabrics, and difficulty in procuring economically the short runs of specialties that have to such a large extent displaced staples.

"Construction of new textile mills and enlargements may seem surprising in view of the unsatisfactory conditions prevailing in the industry, especially the overproduction problem, yet the Textile World has tabulated 200 new mills and important extensions in 1928, as compared with 130 such projects in 1927. In an industry so varied as textiles there are always some projects that are profitable and in these the new construction has been the greatest.

"Building construction this year has proceeded in large volume, although it is too early to say whether the full year can equal the record of 1928.

"Overproduction remains a problem in the petroleum industry. This situation illustrates the unfavorable effect on a domestic industry of increased production in other parts of the world. In the immediate future such restriction as is made will probably be on the part of the larger companies and consolidation, despite the storage given thereby to other companies which do not choose to curtail."

STEEL OUTLOOK BEST IN YEARS, SAYS SCHWAB

Returning on S. S. Rome from five weeks in France and Italy, Charles M. Schwab, chairman of Bethlehem Steel Corp., said: "From knowledge at hand, the present year promises to be a momentous one for the steel industry.

"Bethlehem Steel Corp. is in exceedingly favorable condition, orders are plentiful, and outlook for March and April indicates the best in years. First quarter should be a very good one. Everything indicates an excellent year for Bethlehem."

Commenting on the Steel Corporation's recent plan of recapitalization, Mr. Schwab stated it was an exceedingly wise, constructive and proper step and that great benefit would be derived. As to whether Bethlehem would eventually follow the Steel Corporation action in retiring bonded debt, Mr. Schwab said that however wise such action might be, Bethlehem did not contemplate it at this time.

On European conditions, Mr. Schwab said France and Italy were showing remarkable progress and this was particularly true of Italy.

"Mr. Hoover's inauguration as President," Mr. Schwab said, "is a happy omen for the future. His administration should be exceedingly prosperous for the country generally."

MACHINE TOOL BUSINESS BOOMING

Prospects in the machine tool and machinery industry are the best since war times and the outlook for business in the current month is highly satisfactory, American Machinist reports. The rate of activity for February held at the same high level as in the first month of the year, and, with inquiries plentiful, a active trading is expected during March.

Railroad purchases of shop equipment are becoming more important. Orders and inquiries in the shops point to a busy month in this field. Cincinnati reported the receipt of several large lists from railroads, and in New York the New York Central is prominent among the buyers.

An unusual volume of new business is being received in Detroit, due largely to automotive activity. Even the smaller shops are buying equipment. Sales are holding up well in New England, despite the heavy sales in the month just closed. Construction of textile mills in the South is having its effect upon the machinery trade.

Canada reports a steady volume of machinery orders, with activity in railroad shops a factor.

F. S. Moseley Co. Buy Worcester Notes

Worcester awarded $1,000,000 notes, dated March 6 and due November 6, to F. S. Moseley & Co., at 3.19% plus $2,505. Other bidders were: Worcester County National Bank, 5.222%; First National Bank of Boston, 5.28%; Shawmut Corporation, 5.43%; Salomon Bros. & Hutzler, 5.44% plus $3, and S. N. Bond & Co., 5.57% plus $15.

Assessing Credit Unions Proposed

Assessing part of the cost of supervising credit unions of states, these institutions was advocated at a legislative hearing today by Bank Commissioner Roy E. Hovey. Governor Allen made the recommendation in his biennial address.

Hovey explained that the credit unions now pay no costs and, except taxes levied against certain banking institutions. He disclosed there are some 300 of three unions and the supervising cost to the State is around $10,000 a year.

Weekly Exports of Grain Show a Gain

Washington, March 6 (AP)—Grain exports from the United States for the week ended 2,998,000 bushels against 2,496,000 bushels the previous week. Commerce Department figures today gave the following comparison between last week's exports and those of the week before: Wheat, 668,000 bushels, against 582,000 bushels; rye, 41,000 bushels, against 1000 bushels; oats, 77,000 bushels, against 18,000 bushels; corn, 1,738,000 bushels, against 1,458,000 bushels; barley, 454,000 bushels, against 442,000 bushels.

BOYS' BRIGADE, 300 STRONG, ENTER PATRIOTIC FLAG CONTEST

VERMONT SCHOOLS ARE ALSO IN NEW ENROLLMENTS

THREE hundred boys of St. Joseph's Catholic Boys' Brigade, of 50 Barton st., West End, today entered the nation-wide patriotic Flag Contest being conducted by the United States Flag Association. The boys are under the leadership of Joseph Bedugnis.

These three hundred youths are planning to place at least one winner in this great Contest.

The entry of St. Joseph's Catholic Boys' Brigade should add impetus to every like organization not only in this city and state, but in every New England State as well.

Boys and girls, do you realize that you have an opportunity for a trip around the world?

Do you also realize that you have a chance to visit America's foremost patriotic shrines?

Do you realize that you are being offered scholarships valued at $200 each?

Are you aware that YOU will be the one to be decorated with the Cross of Honor, like that which Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh wears?

HOW TO ENROLL

To obtain these wonderful awards—the greatest offered in any Contest—all you have to do is to enroll as a contestant in the Flag Contest. How do you enroll? It is very simple. All you have to do is

1. Answer the set of 75 questions relating to the history and achievements of the American Flag.

2. Write a brief essay, short enough to be recited in five minutes, on "Old Glory's Greatest Glory."

What to do in case there is no local contest unit in your locality? Get in touch with a prominent man or woman in the city or town in which you live. Tell him or her that you are interested in becoming enrolled as a contestant in the Flag Contest. Ask them to organize a flag unit. Get together a group of 25 boys and girls. Submit to them their names.

The Contest Editor feels quite sure that you will be successful in obtaining the services of at least one patriotic citizen, if you explain to him that you wish to take a trip around the world, and also make the patriotic pilgrimage to the famous American patriotic shrines.

"How do you form a contest unit?" he may ask. Cut the following paragraphs and show them to him.

HOW TO FORM CONTEST UNIT OR FLAG BOARD

Any responsible adult individual, individuals or organizations wishing to conduct a Flag Contest may do so, by organizing a Flag Board consisting of five or more persons which shall work as an organization and be charged with the management of the Contest.

1—Obtain the contestants.

2—Appoint a committee to mark the papers of the contestants and determine the awards.

3—Arrange for recitation of the essays which accompany the answers to the 75 questions which are a part of the contest, and arrange for the presentations of the awards.

NOT TOO LATE

For the contestants themselves they have only to answer 75 questions relating to the history and glory of the American Flag and the institutions for which it stands, and to write the brief accompanying essay on the subject of "Old Glory's Greatest Glory." The answers and essays go to a local committee of judges selected by the person sponsoring the local contest.

A complete list of the 75 questions will be furnished on request. All material needed for the conduct on a contest unit or Flag Board will be furnished you without cost.

It is not too late to join!

Tell your prominent men you want to see the National Capital; that you want to see Independence Hall, Philadelphia, where the Declaration of Independence was signed; Valley Forge; Saratoga and Newburgh, N. Y.; West Point; that you want to sail down the Hudson; that you want to see New York city, Long Island, Fort McHenry, Md., Mt. Vernon, Annapolis, Gettysburg, and the famous New England points as well. Who could refuse such a request?

IS SPONSOR

From Castleton, Vt., Superintendent of Schools Sarah T. Leavenworth, has entered the schools of Castleton and the schools of Fair Haven in the contest.

From the same State, the Junior-Senior high school of Chester, Vt., has entered.

The North Junior high school, Leroy B. Sweeney, principal, of Waltham, has entered and is anxious to have a member of his school classed among the winners.

So it is throughout New England Schools, organizations and children are becoming enrolled in this great patriotic and educational contest by the thousands.

City Councilor Israel Ruby, of 102 Talbot ave., Dorchester, practicing attorney at 73 Tremont st., Boston, and a member of the city governing board for the past four years is sponsoring a local flag board in Ward 14. To the members of the various churches, synagogues, Hebrew schools, community centers and other organizations in his district he sends the following letter:

"I am sponsoring a local Flag Board in the patriotic Flag Contest conducted by the United States Flag Association and I would be pleased to have a representative of your organization as a member of the local board for Ward 14.

"No doubt you realize as well as I what wonderful patriotic possibilities a contest of this kind will accomplish for the young boy and girl of our locality. The contest is to be open to boys and girls between the ages of 14 and 18, and I am sure that you will be as enthusiastic as I am about becoming a member of our local board."

That is real patriotic spirit, Councilor Ruby!

PRAISES PLAN

Cecil L. Cheney, Junior Vice-Commander, Camp 9, Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War, with headquarters at 42 Mt. Vernon st., Charlestown, who is taking an active part in the Flag Contest, by sponsoring a Flag Unit, sends the following letter to the Flag Contest Editor:

"I cannot praise too highly the work being carried on by the United States Flag Association for furthering the knowledge of the younger generation of today, in regard to the Flag and the Constitution of the United States.

"A more patriotic and educational project could not be thought of. In this contest the boys and girls not only learn about the Flag and the respect due it, but they are rewarded by the local, regional, and national headquarters, with various medals of awards of educational, as well as enjoyable trips.

"The organization of which I am an officer, the name of which is the Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War, is one of the best known patriotic orders of today, its main purpose being to perpetuate the memory of the Grand Army of the Republic, and to teach love of country and the glory of the Flag to the younger citizens of our nation.

"I am sure that the plan to conduct contests of this nature annually would meet the approval and backing of all."

The Flag Contest Editor wishes to announce to heads of local Flag units, that within a few days he will mail to them a sufficient number of sets of the complete 75 questions relative to the Flag Contest.

With the extension of time granted to the schools, civic and patriotic organizations, and prospective contestants, until March 15 as a closing date, there is still ample time for YOU to take part in the Contest.

Schools, patriotic and civic organizations who enter from now until March 15 should have no fear of being penalized because of late entry. You have the same opportunity to win the wonderful awards offered.

GENERAL PHILIP H. SHERIDAN

one of the outstanding Union military geniuses of Civil War days, was born on March 6, 1831. The massacre of a large number of Texan patriots at the Alamo in San Antonio occurred on March 6, 1836. The Americans were surrounded in the old mission building and brutally slaughtered when their fortress capitulated. A few years later Texas came under the protection of the Stars and Stripes.

Official Notice

To schools, civic and patriotic organizations, individuals and contestants who wish to participate in the nation-wide patriotic Flag Contest, now being conducted by the United States Flag Association, the time limit has been extended to March 15. The previous time limit date was March 6.

INSTEAD of exercise

"Do it tonight! Join the ranks of the millions who know the secret of the exerciser in the vest pocket box or drug store!

Cascarets give your bowels as much exercise as you get from an hour on the links. Oils, salts and ordinary laxatives don't act like Cascarets. These things only produce mechanical or chemical action which really weakens your bowels.

Each time you use Cascarets your bowels become stronger! They are made from Cascara Bayrada, which stimulates the peristaltic action and exercises the bowel muscles. Nothing else does this. That's why Cascarets are selling at the rate of 20 million boxes a year, and people everywhere depend on them for lasting relief from headaches, biliousness, constipation, indigestion, etc.

WHAT did she know of him really—this debonair man of the world with the careless grace? But when he kissed her that first night under the waving elms, "the moon seemed to go out."

Blotted out, too, were Aaron—dear, good Aaron—whom she was to marry in June—father and mother who had hoped and planned for this marriage for years—everyone, everything, by this wonderful new feeling . . . a feeling she had never known in all her peaceful village girlhood.

Just twenty-four hours after she met Dick Vedder, she boarded the train to marry him.

And then, even on the honeymoon, his mother's light talk of "other girls." Gradual disillusion—quarrels that did not end in kisses. At last, the terrible day when she read on a hotel register—

But you must read it for yourself to the very end—this frank, deeply moving true story of the girl who followed a blind infatuation and drank the cup of bitterness to the dregs. BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN

EAGER THRONGS CROWD GREATEST AUTO SHOW

The 27th annual Boston Automobile Show, now being held at Mechanics Building, bids fair to be the most successful in history. Since the opening day eager crowds have thronged the exhibition halls to view the hundreds of cars on display. A total value of more than $1,500,000 and more than 45 separate makes of cars are represented.

The gala decorations in the exhibition halls have won wide expression of favor. Adapted from an extensive study of European tendencies in art, the decorations reveal a scene of modernistic beauty.

Coupes, roadsters, sedans, coaches, sportsters are among the models in the passenger lines; delivery cars, dump trucks, undertaker limousines and fire engines are included in the commercial models.

More speed, more power, more beauty and more comfort are the claims made by the motor manufacturers almost without exception for the 1929 cars. A more pronounced note of luxury through the use of chromium plating is in evidence. A general trend toward adjustable front seats to accommodate fat and thin drivers with equal comfort is another feature. More comfort is offered also in the rear seats of certain models, which have heavier upholstery and are split with arm rests.

Rubber mountings for engines, centralized systems of lubrication, internal expanding type of brakes, longer wheelbase are some of the other changes in which the motoring public has shown great interest during the past three days.

In the sport and roadster models are shown new rakishness in design and daring in color. The rumble seat, extra tire, headlights and top all are carefully studied in the effort to get streamline and symmetrical design.

Interest has been centered by early visitors to the show in convertible and roadster models for which record popularity during the coming year is predicted by industry leaders, many of whom are in Boston to attend the show. The convertible car is offered for sport and style in summer motoring and comfort in the winter.

The show will continue until next Saturday night. It is staged by the Boston Automobile Dealers' Association, under the direction of Chester L. Campbell.

AUTO SHOW FILLS NEED, DECLARES CAMPBELL

"The automobile show is a national institution. It is as much a feature of the winter months as the country fair is of the autumn and the circus of the spring," declared Chester L. Campbell, general manager, Boston Automobile Show.

"People like to see the newest product of the automobile makers displayed under pleasant conditions; they like to inspect the cars of the different manufacturers arranged side by side so that they can make comparisons; consequently, they throng the show buildings day after day," he said.

"Twenty-seven years ago, when the first Boston Automobile Show was held with co-operation of Boston dealers, it was a good deal of an experiment. At that time there were only a few shows, notably those in New York and in Chicago. The automobile was a curiosity and people went to the shows with a good deal more mental reservation as to the practicability of the thing than they do now in attending exhibitions of aircraft.

"Those people, who attended that first Boston Show, which by the way was held in Symphony Hall, were the nucleus upon which has been built the huge motoring population of today in this part of the country. At that time nobody would have believed that the time would come in a little more than a quarter of a century when practically every family would have its private automobile.

"Today there is not a large city in the country that does not have its automobile show each year and there are also ..... in most of the smaller cities and large towns. The attendance in the cities runs into hundreds of thousands and the advent of the show is looked forward to with greater eagerness on the part of the rank and file of the population than any other similar display. Only the most important sporting events can vie with the automobile show in point of attendance. And there are very few exhibitions that have anything like as large result in direct sales as does the automobile show.

"This year's Boston show is more attractive than any of its predecessors. We have supplied what we consider the finest setting in the long series of exhibits we have conducted from the very beginning of automobile shows.

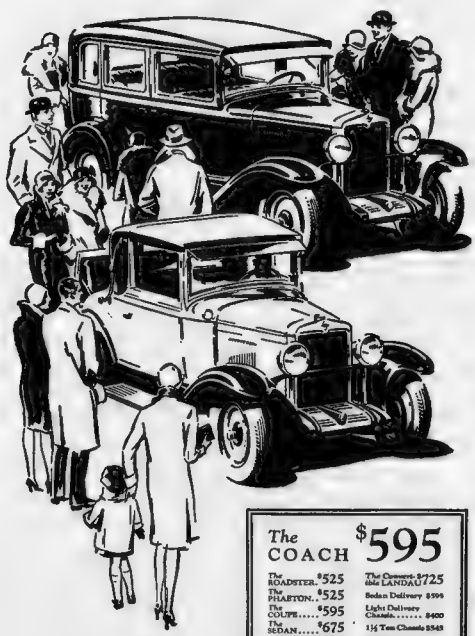
CHEVROLET



See the NEW CHEVROLET SIX at the AUTO SHOW

Be sure to see and inspect The Outstanding Chevrolet of Chevrolet History at the Auto Show . . . for it is one of the most sensational motor cars ever presented to the public!

Not only does it offer—in the price range of the four—all the wonderful performance qualities that are characteristic of the finest automobiles: great reserve power, flashing acceleration, dazzling speed and, above all, marvelous six-cylinder smoothness——but it delivers this thrilling performance with such outstanding economy—better than 20 miles to the gallon—that anyone who can afford to own any automobile can afford to own and operate a Chevrolet Six!

But, sensational as these performance qualities are, they are matched in impressiveness by the fine car features found in every detail of chassis and bodies. An inspection will reveal literally scores of features you never expected to discover on any low-priced car—such as adjustable driver's seat in all closed models, adjustable two-beam headlights with toe-button control, theft-proof Electrolock and luxuriously upholstered interiors.

Decide right now that, at the Auto Show, you will first see the Chevrolet exhibit.

C. W. NASH PREDICTS GREATER AUTO EXPORTS DURING 1929

U. S. ALSO MUST PREPARE FOR STIFF COMPETITION, HE ADDS

By C. W. NASH,
(President, The Nash Motors Co.)

With a greater world market opening wide before American automobile manufacturers through the steady improvement in international relationships, it is apparent that one of the main factors favorably influenced by the industry during the coming year lies in the continued improvement of economical motor transportation everywhere as well as in the United States.

Our industry has long since leaped its national boundary lines. It has already succeeded in pointing the way to reduced transportation costs and improved manufacturing methods to certain European countries. It has fostered international goodwill to that point where 35 nations have sent representatives to the National Automobile Show, and it has stretched a fairly efficient merchandising organization across the world. In all of these progressive steps, however, it has little more than scratched the surface of the world's demand for American made cars. There remains the need for American enterprise to take a definite lead in making the automobile as great a unit of general utility in the various countries of the world as it is at home.

Basing my opinion on recent personal observation in Europe, which included a tour of the Northern European countries, inspection of several volume production factories, visits to both the Paris and London Automobile Shows and conferences with automobile men from more than a score of countries, I believe that we may expect great progress in the export market during 1929. This business is undoubtedly growing rapidly. Our own books show that in three months of 1928, our export shipments of the new "400" Series cars exceeded by some 600 cars the combined export shipments for the four full calendar years ending in December, 1924.

It is only natural that, as American exports increase, our overseas competition will increase also. Such a condition is a healthy sign for motorists of the world, for keen competition whether at home or abroad reacts to the benefit of the public in the lowering of prices and improvement in quality and increase in prosperity.

Opportunities for the growth of motor transport are evident in the undermotored condition of most countries. Compare the United States, with approximately five people to each automobile in actual use, to Germany with one car to each 200 per motor vehicle in use, with 214 People to each car in Australia with 241 Cuba with 217 and so on up the scale to France with its 21,600 People to each motor vehicle, and the task ahead of world manufacturers will be apparent.

In South America, for example, the promotion and growth of good roads is essential to greater market, which should be materially improved for American manufacturers this year as the result of the goodwill tour made by President-elect Hoover.

At home I can see nothing in general economic conditions that should make any material backing down of the inspiring industrial march which brought new high production and sales records for the automobile industry in 1928. With a four-year record of splendid business back of us, it seems to me that we are in a position to enjoy a continued period of prosperity.

There are now more than twenty million passenger cars and nearly three million trucks registered in the United States, and the year's automobile production exceeded by a comfortable margin that of 1926 which peak year of the industry's history.

To balance this great achievement, there are now some 60,000 miles of surfaced highways in the United States—100,000 more miles of pavement than were available to motorists a year ago, and the state and national road programs promise another billion dollar highway year for 1929. Everywhere is apparent an increase in street facilities grade separations and other improvements over which all combine to increase the American market for automobiles and to add materially to their utility, while the increase in per capita wealth and continued prosperity furnish the resources for continued buying.

One of the most interesting revelations in the year's survey lies in the fact that nearly a million families in the United States who possessed only one car a year ago now own two automobiles. This great increase in auxiliary ownership brings an estimate that more than three million American families now own and operate two or more cars, and indicates the extent of the "second car" market.

In summing up, I can see no reason to expect other than a sound prosperous year to come for the automobile industry both at home and abroad.

Six Capacities of Dodge Trucks

Dodge Brothers trucks are built in six capacities, ranging from the light delivery merchants' express to the heavy duty three-ton truck. All models have four-wheel brakes, six-cylinder engines and the four heavier capacities have four-speed transmission.

Mono-Piece Body Construction

Mono-piece bodies are exclusive features of coach work in the new Dodge Brothers Six line. Rigidity and balance are offered in a unique construction that eliminates all possible body joints. Roominess and vision have not been sacrificed in effecting a low center of gravity.

SILENCE OF CAR HUDSON-ESSEX FEATURE

That one important feature of automobile comfort and satisfaction is overlooked by the average driver is the opinion of Chester Abbott, general manager of the Henley-Kimball Co.

This feature, they say, has to do with the thoroughness used in attaching closed bodies. A few years ago, you will remember, body noises were somewhat excited about the fabric body consisting of a wooden frame, over which successive layers of fabrics were laid until the ensemble resulted in a body of conventional outline. These bodies naturally lacked strength. But they did much in muffling the "drumming" or "booming" to which metal bodies were heir at the time.

It is worthy of note in this connection that Hudson body engineers had at this juncture eliminated body noises quite successfully, since then, however, their silencing methods have been still further improved, until the present day bodies are, as a matter of fact, more silent than the old-time wood-frame bodies. To achieve this end requires a number of departures from otherwise practices. Take the doors, for instance. The ordinary door consists of a metal panel shaped over a wood frame and covered on the inside with upholstery material. Hudson-Essex doors are built up of five successive panels. There is, first, the outside steel plate. Then comes a silencing pad. This is followed by a spring plate, which in turn is overlaid with a steel inside panel. And only then comes the upholstery.

Similarly painstaking measures are taken to insulate the tops of closed models. While the body proper is framed in steel, the roof is a stout wood frame, sheet to itself. Over the frame is laid heavy drill cloth. Over this come strips of heavy felt placed over the top bows. These again are overlaid with three full-sized sheets of thick padding before the final covering of coated fabric is put on.

Outlook and Review of Auto Industry

By C. S. HENSHAW
(President Henshaw Motor Co.)

The passing of the year 1928 draws only an imaginary line across a prosperous era in the automobile industry that bids fair to continue on unprecedented scale during 1929.

Significant factors in supporting the outlook are:

1. General prosperity shared alike by industrial and agricultural districts.

2. Stabilization of markets abroad, opening larger export facilities.

3. Rapid development of the two and three-car family idea.

4. Increased popularity of suburban homes and summer cottages creating a demand for additional motor transportation

5. Engineering and mechanical improvement of new models that represent desirable and important features in performance or appearance.

6. The growing demand for Fleets of cars and trucks on the part of corporations realizing the economy and dependability of motorized units for salesmen and delivery

The past year has been noteworthy in that no extreme slack period was experienced. Records in our own organization show that production was stable throughout the year, and this is verified by total figures for the industry. Acquisition of Dodge Brothers by the Chrysler Corporation and adjustments in the Dodge line have resulted in reduction in manufacturing overhead which has been passed on for the benefit of the car purchaser. High production has been maintained because the number of body styles at an attractive price range insures against dull sales periods.

Still more thousands of miles of paved roads, closed cars and the universal necessity for automotive transportation have made winter a appropriate a time as summer for purchasing a new car. Year around steady demand for cars, rather than seasonal spurts, should characterize the future automotive market.

The top rank position of the industry today rightfully entitles it to being one of the chief factors of national prosperity, as contrasted with its position of a few years ago when it was termed mere product of so-called "good times" More than 4,000,000 wage earners are directly dependent on the motor car industry for a living. With their families, they represent at least a tenth of our total population. Every line of business has felt the stimulating effect of the industry. Indirectly, it affects the welfare of everyone

Never has the motor car dollar represented the value it has today. Cars are better and cheaper than at any time in history. The coming year will see continued variations of the two base chassis on which automobiles are judged—namely, performance and appearance. The degree to which manufacturers meet these trends of public fancy will determine their success in 1929.

One of the most encouraging features in considering the outlook for 1929 is the increased export business. The European market in particular offers unusual opportunity to the American motor car manufacturer, as evidenced by the recent displays in London and Paris, where American cars came in for more than their usual share of attention. The Orient, Africa, South America, and Australia offer undeveloped sales fields beyond the scope of imagination.

The pleasure and convenience of owning an automobile have not been grasped by millions financially able to buy. First sales in this market and replacements of units now in use indicate the surface of the industry's possibilities has barely been scratched. The future happiness—even the very life of millions the world over—will depend upon the broad development of the use of millions of more vehicles. The present outlook indicates that 1929 will be a most important period in reaching this goal.

'CHEV' SALES HEAD REVIEWS PROBLEMS

By E. H. GRANT
Vice-President of the Chevrolet Motor Company in charge of sales.

Every adult member of American society who can finance an automobile should have one The reason for this is that with an automobile an individual can transport himself more quickly and, consequently, within a given day's time, can see more people, do more work and be more effective in his living. This is a fundamental matter in economics.

There are in the world three great necessities that must be provided if the human race is to exist These great necessities are food clothing, and shelter. After a man being provides himself with the three great necessities he then has a curiosity as to where he should go and how he should get there. To put it in other words transportation becomes an inherent necessity as soon as the three great actual necessities have been taken care of.

It so happens that the progress of mankind depends more on transportation, which is not in the strictest sense a necessity than it does on the three great actual necessities of life. The whole history of the progress of the world proves this.

Mankind was retarded in his material progress for many years from a lack of transportation facilities. The great and outstanding material progress of the world has taken place in the last two centuries since transportation has been made efficient. The introduction of the steam railroad the building of bridges, the introduction of rapid communication in the form of the telegraph, the development of rapid transit in congested areas, the introduction of the street car, the substitution of automobiles for horses and, finally the partial development of air transportation have been the greatest factors in the material prosperity of mankind. The underlying reason for this is that it enables men and women to increase their efficiency by covering a greater area, seeing more people and doing more things within the period of a working day.

We have now progressed to such an extent that economists watch the exports volume of automobile business to help them judge whether or not the country is going to be prosperous in the months to come and consequently, we can take it for granted that today with such progress as we have made in the automobile business everyone is convinced that our industry is doing the world good and not harm, from an economic standpoint.

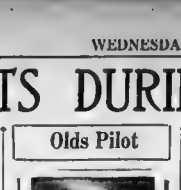
Trunk Racks on All Hudsons

The tendency to free the car interior of everything that might interfere with the traveler's comfort has caused the Hudson Motor Car Company to furnish trunk racks on all its 14 models. In order to make the rear trunk accessible, spare tires or wheels are carried in wells on the fenders.

Essex Puts Starter Button on Dash

In the seven models of Essex the Challenger, the starter button, which position causes to be most frequently encountered at the floor boards, is located on the dash. This arrangement gives the driver the use of both feet for the manipulation of clutch and brake pedal during the starting operation

Olds Pilot



Harry Dunn is president of the Boston Oldsmobile Co., which now is introducing new models.

OLDSMOBILE IS HIT AT SHOW

"The 1929 Oldsmobiles now on exhibit at the automobile show continue all of the qualities which placed Oldsmobile in an enviable position last year and to which have been added desirable refinements," says Harry Dunn, general manager Boston Oldsmobile Co.

"During 1928 Oldsmobile made one of the largest gains registered in the industry, increasing production and sales approximately 64 percent over 1927, which had been its best previous year. From the start of the spring season throughout the entire year it exceeded previous high records month after month

"The success of Oldsmobile was a direct tribute to the astuteness of the leading automobile critics When the car was first displayed at the New York Automobile Show automobile editors of the important newspaper and trade magazines hailed it as a distinct achievement. Several critics proclaimed it "the car two years ahead." Others declared it established a new style. Technical experts praised its engineering qualities.

"The opinions of these critics were reflected by the public demand. Month after month production was maintained at the highest peak sympathetic with the rigid manufacturing and inspection policies of Oldsmobile. Nevertheless supply failed to keep pace with demand. A huge building program was put through to meet the increased demands.

"Production of the 1929 Oldsmobile started in mid-December and is following a manufacturing schedule calculated to keep every one of the 2500 Oldsmobile dealers in this country supplied with cars throughout the year. The schedule is far larger than ever before in the company's history and it is believed that new high records will again be made during 1929.

"The Oldsmobile which was so successful in 1928 has been retained in all fundamental lines and engineering specifications with the addition of many desirable improvements. Those made in the engine have resulted in the development of 62 horse-power and even finer car performance."

WILLYS TELLS WHAT PUBLIC WANTS

By JOHN N. WILLYS,
President Willys-Overland Co.

John N. Willys

"For the first 20 years of the automobile industry the buying public was chiefly concerned with selecting cars that would run. Stress was laid on machinery. Operating efficiency is as important a factor today as it was in 1910, but new ideals of beauty and comfort have been established, and these new standards must be attained by the manufacturer who seeks wide public approval.

"Through the extensive dealer organization of the Willys-Overland Company we were quick to sense an insistent public demand for style and beauty; a demand that injected the fashion note into the industry which for many years had virtually ignored fashion. I am disclosing no trade secret when I say that the management of the company immediately set about assembling for the engineering staff the one man we considered the leading stylist of motor cars, Mr. Amos Northup. His conception of motor car artistry is reflected in the 1929 lines of Whippet fours and sixes, which already have received nation-wide public acclaim, and in the 1929 lines of Willys-Knights, which are making their first appearance at the New York automobile show

"Spaciousness and comfort have mounted in importance from the viewpoint of the buying public as a natural consequence of good roads and of motor car reliability. Modern American families think nothing of driving 300 miles a day in the family car, whereas the family of 1900 considered a 20-mile journey a big night out in event. Hence the 1929 automobile must have room for the babies and the baggage, and it must be so replete with easy-riding qualities that long tours may be taken without fatigue.

"The time has not yet arrived when the motor car buyer can take operating efficiency for granted Some cars are much better, more reliable, than others. Careful buyers will select their purchases in any given price group only after careful comparison of the respective mechanical advantages offered by the various manufacturers. Motors, brakes, steering gears, rear axles, front construction, spring suspension, ignition systems, starter and light controls, and other highly essential mechanical features of automobiles are varied, And they are not yet equally satisfactory.

"Style, room, riding comfort and mechanical excellence are the points by which the 1929 motor car is being judged, together with the responsibility of the manufacturer and the size of the dealer organization behind the product.

"Willys-Overland company has endeavored, in its 1929 creations, to give the public what it wants. The response already recorded indicates that our present plans for a vastly augmented output during the forthcoming year are based on an accurate estimate of the motoring public's present tastes and desires.

Motor Trucks Built to Order

Although building trucks, commercial cars and motor coaches meeting 96 per cent of all transportation needs, the truck division of Dodge Brothers maintains a special engineering department which annually fills orders for hundreds of special bodies having features not in the standard specifications. Bodies are built on designs submitted by the purchaser or dealer.

Self Adjustable Tie Rod Ends

The ball and socket type of steering knuckle tie rod ends on Dodge Brothers' Senior Six are provided with a unique arrangement for taking up wear and play automatically. Two crescent-shaped hardened steel pieces are held in play by a retaining spring surround the ball. The spring automatically moves the pieces in a circular path far enough to take up any lost motion.

Chromium Plating on All Dodge Cars

All exterior hardware of the Senior and Dodge Brothers' new Six is chromium plated. Bumpers, radiator shell, lamps, molding, hub caps and door handles are included in this hard, lustrous finish which will not tarnish.

Wide Doors Featured

Wide doors that open out to the full width of the door sills are featured in all the new Dodge Brothers Six models. Construction of the front seats enables passengers to get in or out without unnecessary twisting or turning. Ample overhead room for front and rear seat passengers has been effected by the new body design.

SHOPPING GUIDE OPENS USED CAR SALESROOM

To give the proper setting for used cars the Noyes Buick Sales Company, 837 Commonwealth ave., has opened one of the largest and best equipped salesrooms in the country to be devoted exclusively to used cars.

Splendidly lighted for either day or night use and with a floor space of 27,000 square feet the show room is flanked on one side by offices and customers' cars and the cars are placed as to afford ample opportunity for close and careful examination.

The used car service department is one of the features of the new place, the Noyes Buick Sales Company realizing the importance of the automobiles on sale being in the best possible condition. The service department will be staffed by workmen who are thoroughly familiar with all makes of cars They can be relied upon to see to it that every car is in proper condition for the customer before delivery is made

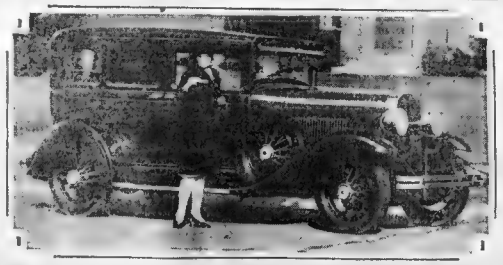
Arthur M Murston, with a record of 17 years of service in the Buick [illegible] is manager of the Used Car Division of the Noyes Buick Sales Company. He is assisted by Holly Burke and Robert Jewell The used car sales force consists of Messrs. Browne, Evans, Bailey, Hines, Torrance, Dodge, Cunningham, Gould, Beaumont, Robbins, Hand, Foley and Kunsmuth. They will be on hand to welcome their old customers and conduct visitors through the new rooms.

The Noyes Buick Sales Company extend a most cordial invitation to all to visit the new show rooms and inspect the fine assortment of used cars which will be on display.

Whippet Four Gear Ratios

Transmission ratios of the Superior Whippet Four are: Low speed 3.24 to 1; second 1.98 to 1; high 1 to 1; reverse 4.05 to 1. The rear axle gear ratio is 4.55 to 1

New Model in Oldsmobile Line



Oldsmobile Six de luxe, 4-door sedan in the 1929 models makes an ideal car for milady's motoring needs.

Foreign Motors Add to U. S. Shows

Added interest is given the National Automobile Show this year through the participation of foreign motor car manufacturers in the great annual expositions, in the opinion of C. W. Nash, president of the Nash Motor Company. The five cars displayed by European makers in New York, he pointed out today, afford excellent comparisons with the 1929 offerings of American makers, and give thousands of show visitors their first real opportunity to examine details of European workmanship

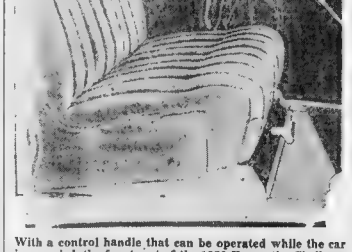
Nash Specifies Delivered Price

Modern buyers of motor cars manifest a distinct aversion to advertising of a local nature that does not specify the delivered price Recognition of this is shown by the Nash Motors Company of Kenosha, Wis., in most of its dealer advertising which displays the delivered price It is the delivered price of a motor car and not the factory price that often determines the sale of a car.

Sixteen Models in Dodge Line

The two lines of Sixes now built by Dodge Brothers represent 16 body types The Senior Six is available in the sedan, sport sedan, landau sedan, coupe, sport coupe roadster, sport roadster and brougham. The new Dodge Brother Six is available in the phaeton, roadster, sedan, de luxe sedan, brougham, Victoria, business coupe and de luxe coupe.

Essex Adjustable Seat



With a control handle that can be operated while the car is occupied, the front seat of the 1929 Essex the Challenger, can be adjusted to the comfort of fat and thin drivers alike.

BIG DEMAND IS SEEN FOR NEW PONTIAC

Truly a luxury car in the price field [illegible] 1929—bigger, [illegible] is displayed in the complete line of seven passenger [illegible] Automobile [illegible] Hersey, general manager of the Oakland Pontiac Co. of New England.

"Heralded as a 'big' six the new Pontiac measures up to its name by offering a wide and flexible performance range, and distinctive Fisher bodies styled to please an exacting public.

"The new line provides not only new body lines, but a car almost entirely new. Major features of the chassis and body all have been redesigned or engineered to bring the car, in performance and smartness, into the big car field.

"An engine [illegible] of cylinder size developing 67 horse-power, the addition of a harmonic balancer and counterbalanced [illegible] valves, manifold and carburetor, sturdier rear axle [illegible] transmission assembly and new Hotchkiss drive with two universal joints are among the chassis improvements that make possible quick, vibrationless acceleration and high top speed.

"In the beautiful new longer and wider bodies, craftsmen of the Fisher Corporation working in conjunction with Oakland engineers have wrought a unique arrangement of [illegible] and unusual style touches that give the finished car an appearance [illegible] unlike any other now on the road.

"The Fisher closed bodies all have adjustable [illegible] seats, smart new sun visors of all-metal construction, [illegible] beam head lights operated by [illegible] ebony-finish steering [illegible] individual mounting and illumination by two shielded bulbs, smart elliptical windows [illegible] slender ebony-finished steering wheel and deep luxurious upholstery in solid colors harmonizing with the new and beautiful exterior Duco combinations.

"A unique feature of the new car is the absence of a name plate in the conventional position on the radiator shell. While the familiar 'Chief Pontiac' emblem is still carried on the radiator filler cap the name of the car now here appears except on the spare tire carried on the rear deck.

"On all are model [illegible] fitting spring covers which, by keeping dirt from contact with the metal assure freedom from squeaks and rattles. The four Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers, and front bumper and rear fender guards are [illegible] equipment at slight extra [illegible]

"Seven models comprising the line are a 4-door sedan [illegible] dan, sport roadster with [illegible] rumble seat, sport phaeton coupe and two new types—a custom-like landaulet sedan with a folding top over the rear quarter section for all-weather driving, and a convertible cabriolet with rumble seat.

Essex Relieves Driving Strain

"Practically all of the new models embody features designed to reduce driving strain. Noteworthy among them is the new Essex, which is equipped with an automatic choking device. This innovation eliminates a good deal of the annoyance usually experienced when driving in [illegible] weather says Fred Ordway, president of the Henley Kimball Co.

"Instead of constantly choking his motor after starting it on a cold morning, the driver of the new Essex need only pull out the choke button half-way and from then on the choking action is entirely automatic and ceases when the motor becomes thoroughly warmed. This is accomplished by means of a balanced butterfly valve on the air intake, which controls the amount of air taken into the carburetor. The valve is opened gradually by the action of suction as the speed of the motor is increased, providing the proper fuel mixture when a steady driving speed is attained.

Oldsmobile Has New Air Cleaner

The new type air cleaner now used on Oldsmobiles is given added efficiency through the crankcase ventilation system of Oldsmobile motors. The cleaner draws the air to the carburetor through mineral wool. The air drawn from the crankcase also passes through the cleaner and the light oil vapors contained in this air keeps the mineral wool damp constantly. As a result even the finest particles of foreign substance in the air are caught and retained in the cleaner.

Detroit Uses Dodge Bros. Buses

Detroit, the nation's motor capital, has more than 300 Dodge Brothers' buses operating on its streets. The buses have run approximately 2,500,000 miles on the city's service. The city recently placed an order for 129 additional de luxe motor coaches to replace the jitneys on the main thoroughfares.

Hundreds of Truck Types

Making the motor truck fit the transportation requirements of modern business is done by unique surveys and research constantly carried on by the truck division of Dodge Brothers. So completely has the field been covered that the recent addition of a three-ton truck to the line brings the total coverage to more than 96 per cent of all commercial hauling. Six capacities are now available in hundreds of different types made possible by interchanging the body, chassis and equipment.

OLDS PERFECTS SMALL DETAILS

Acorns grow into sturdy oaks and the perfection of small details makes an automobile better and more desirable. The development of just one of these little details contained in the 1929 Oldsmobile was the result of weeks of testing and perfecting an additional factor of safety and driver comfort.

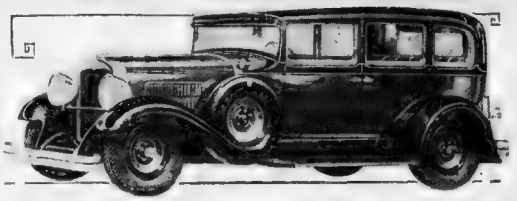
The improvement is simply the use of a subdued green light to illuminate the instrument panel. It eliminates glare and a result is ease on the eyes of the driver. At the same time it improves the readability of the engine temperature indicator, ammeter, gasoline gauge, oil pressure indicator and speedometer.

About two years ago Oldsmobile reduced the danger and annoyance of light being reflected from the instrument panel to the driver's eyes by taking the lamp from in front of the panel and placing it behind and above the instruments so that the rays gave indirect illumination. This was a distinct advance, but it failed to completely solve the problem.

During the past year various types and colors of lighting were tested out on the fleet of Oldsmobiles which constantly is in operation at the General Motors proving ground. These tests proved both the efficiency of indirect lighting and that green was the ideal color.

The green light is obtained inserting a colored screen in front of the two lamps used to illuminate the instruments.

Nash Winner at the Auto Show



Model 440, Nash Special Six, 5-passenger, 4-door sedan, with royal equipment, has drawn much favorable comment at the Auto Show.

Distinct Color for Every Model

Unique attractive color combinations are featured in the New Dodge Brothers' Six models. Every one of the eight body types has a distinctive color with molding and striping in harmonious tones.

Shatter-Proof Glass For Windshields

Shatter-proof glass is now being used in the windshields of Hudson cars. The glass is of a new composition in which the non-shattering medium does not turn yellow with age.

WHIPPETS SHOW ARTIST HAND

Evident in every line and contour of the Superior Whippet Fours and Sixes displayed at the automobile show is the genius of Amos E. Northup, who over a period of years has virtually founded a new school of applied art in the design of automobile bodies. Heretofore Mr. Northup has devoted himself exclusively to styling high-priced automobiles, and his characteristic touch is reflected today throughout the fine car field.

Willys-Overland permitted generous proportions in the design of its newest light cars, adding several inches to the wheelbase lengths. The increased wheelbase of 112½ inches for the six and 103½ inches for the four have been cleverly utilized to give these models pleasing proportions of massiveness and comfort.

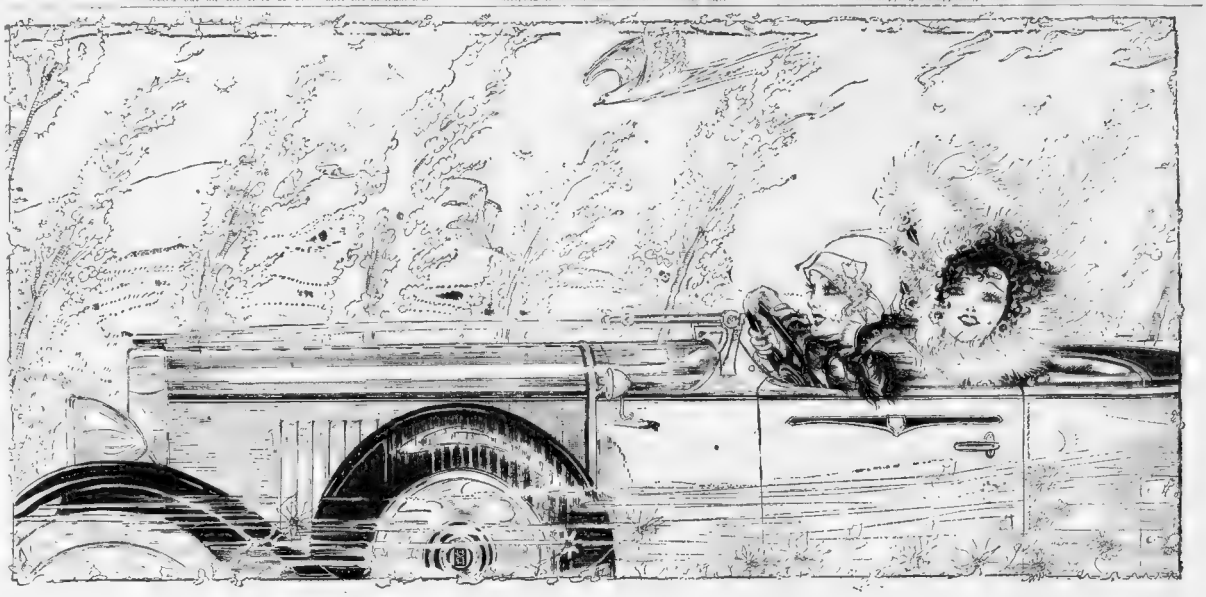
Contributing to the appearances of the cars are slender and delicate lines sweeping straight back from the radiator, unbroken and uninterrupted. The effect is that of a low-hung car which can fairly hurtle through space, cutting its way with a deep narrow radiator and slipping off opposing wind.

PLYMOUTH HAS BIG INCREASE

Commensurate with his pocketbook, the buyer of a low-priced car wants and has the right to expect equally as much as the manufacturer can possibly give him in size, comfort, distinctiveness, performance, style and luxuriousness, as the man who can afford to pay more, says Allan Fay, vice-president of C. E. Fay company. "Somehow, everyone seems to have overlooked that until now, when it is brought out forcibly in the Plymouth."

Owing to the prevalence of larger families among those in more moderate financial circumstances, low-priced cars generally carry more persons per car than those of higher price, he continues. "The former is truly the family car—the only one that family has. It serves both parents and children alike at all times.

"Just how much all these conveniences are demanded by buyers in the low-priced field is evidenced by the tremendous popularity of the Plymouth. Dealers all over the country have reported that never before have they received such enthusiastic comments over a low-priced car as they have received about this automobile



"... I suspect that an engineer designed these Century Cars for his lovely daughters"

"Once upon a time, a great automotive engineer decided to build two cars . . . a Six and an Eight . . . especially for his daughters.

"'They must be mechanically perfect, of course,' he said, 'but above all, they must be everything a modern girl could hope for or dream of, in a car for her very own.'

"At least, I suspect that is how the New HUPMOBILE Century Cars happened to be designed.

"They are darling, inside and out . . . these new 1929 Century Cars.

"So good looking that they will hold their own at any country club in comparison with the most expensive custom motors.

"Indeed, they look imported . . . with their low-swung, rakish body lines and their chic interior upholstery and appointments.

"Each car is marvelously easy to drive and control. Almost as simple as winding a wrist watch.

"A finger-tip touch shifts the gears. The steering wheel obeys the lightest urge of the hands.

"The frailest girl can tour with it or shop with it, all day long, without fatigue.

"And it is fast. As swift as the travel of gossip! With greater speed than you'll ever care to use. On second thought, I have more than a suspicion on this subject.

"I am almost sure that an engineer designed these Century Cars to thrill the hearts of his lovely daughters!"

THE RECORD-BREAKING NEW NASH "400"

The New NASH "400" is the one car at the show you must not miss seeing

Twin-Ignition Motor
Far more power and speed with greater economy of gasoline than possible with single ignition. At every speed this new Nash Twin-Ignition motor delivers wonderful performance. Instant, alert get-away and surpassing smoothness through the full range of power and speed.

World's Easiest Driver Control
We challenge the world on this new "400" feature. Nowhere is there another car so marvelously easy to steer and turn and park, or with such effortless clutch action as the new Nash "400." Nash is far ahead of the industry in ease of driver control.

Houdaille Shock Absorbers
These Houdailles are especially engineered by Nash to the new "400" with outboard mounting, new to the industry and exclusive to Nash. They are double-acting—softening the action of the springs both when they are depressed and on the rebound, and giving you fullest riding ease.

Front and Rear Bumpers
These are the finest bumpers built, exceptionally beautiful and strong. They are integrally designed by Nash to harmonize perfectly with the new "400" Salon body design. As regular equipment at no extra cost, they contribute to the remarkably low Nash price, delivered, in this city.

—In fact it is an entire show by itself—because it embodies all the newest and most valuable motor car developments—all as regular equipment at no extra cost.

. . . In any comparison you may make, your own good judgment will prove that we are understating the actual facts about the new NASH "400". . . . . .

Bijur Centralized Chassis Lubrication
Press a pedal and 21 points, including all spring shackles, are oiled automatically and instantly under 100 pounds pressure. Saves both your time and money. One of the greatest features of convenience and economy ever presented to motorists.

7-Bearing Crankshaft
This is the world's finest practice—expensive but worth it—because of finer performance than is possible with fewer bearings. Each connecting rod is given maximum support by big bearings on both sides. This is the modern type of engineering.

Refreshing Comfort
The deep, soft cushions, form-fitted to the body, the wide seats, the roominess of the Nash "400" interior, all help to bring you to the end of every ride refreshed beyond anything in your whole motor car experience. On the longest trip you rest as you ride.

Costly Car Interior Finish
Costly upholstery and luxurious craftsmanship distinguish the new Nash "400" interiors at once from competitive cars. You can see the difference the instant you open the door. Nash "400" interior finish is matched only by the very highest-priced cars.

REUTER TALKS ON OLDS MOTOR PROGRESS

By I. J. REUTER
President and General Manager Olds Motor Works

Looking at the [illegible] mobile from an engineering standpoint, there is one [illegible] which is evidencing itself [illegible] of the balanced automobile [illegible]

A balanced automobile is one in which every [illegible] been given its proper [illegible] so that style, comfort, riding, safety, accessibility and [illegible] tures of engineering [illegible] balance and harmony with each other. The day is now [illegible] when the public [illegible] exclusively recognizes [illegible] desirable and [illegible] that would embodies the proper balance of all desirable features rather than presenting but one outstanding attribute to the exclusion of all others.

Throughout the life of the automotive industry there have been cycles of engineering development. Of course the first emphasis was placed in making a car which would consistently run. This was followed by a universal desire for speed which was stimulated by the early automobile races.

20 YEARS AGO

About 20 years ago after sturdy engines had been developed, there started a cycle of chassis style. Emphasis was placed on bodies with all manner of brass and nickel trimming. Following the war the newer demands of the motoring public resulted in a different feature being emphasized each year. These included braking ability, acceleration, speed, driver comfort, dollar value, visibility, quietness and numerous others.

Today all these factors must be embodied in the modern car. The development by these cycles has resulted in automobiles which are balanced in all particulars. They undoubtedly present the greatest dollar value ever offered to the public. All this, however, has been accomplished through the years of development and by continuous effort.

This balance and increased value of the 1929 automobile is due to improvements in car appearance and car performance. Both of these factors are the result of engineering and manufacturing skill plus manufacturing economies. Each of these three factors is the result of unremittent effort by engineers, and victories gained by them either in new refinements or manufacturing economies being passed on to the consumer in the form of added value.

ARTIST-ENGINEER COMES

The vital importance of car appearance has resulted in the development of the art-engineer. His work embraces the practical and the practical. The [illegible] engineer must sense the [illegible] trend in automobile styles, interpret these trends into harmonious body lines and appointments and furthermore, regulate these lines so that they conform to the mechanical design of the car and are practical from a manufacturing standpoint.

The engineers who have improved car performance have worked on somewhat similar lines. They know what features of car performance appeared most desirable to the public, and then sought to give proper balance and proportion to those features without sacrificing any other characteristics. This year may well be termed one of achievement in the industry through the introduction of the balanced automobile. The car of 1929 represents excellent qualities in all the features which the public have desired, and at a value greater than ever.

Hydraulic Brakes on All Dodge Cars

Every Dodge Brothers' car is equipped with four-wheel hydraulic internal expanding brakes. The brakes are weather-proof, being completely enclosed and protected from dirt, dust and water. The brake action is noiseless and positive and represents the highest degree of safety.

Twin Ignition Successful

The practical use of twin ignition in an automobile power plant has proved highly successful, according to the performance of the Nash "400." The success of this feature as it has been developed accomplishes a saving in fuel in addition to increasing power.

Plymouth's Brakes Big Safety Factor

"The Plymouth is the only car in the low-price field that is equipped with internal expanding hydraulic brakes in all four wheels," says Allan Fay, vice-president of C. E. Fay Co.

"Because of their freedom from dirt, dust and water, their simplicity and inherent quality of applied pressure, they assure the driver of positive brake control over all wheels under all weather conditions. Even if the car were left standing in a stream and water should find an entrance, it would be thrown out readily when wheel motion was resumed, the Chrysler engineers who designed them report. These same engineers also say that they stop a motor car more smoothly, surely and noiselessly at all times than any other type.

"Plymouth's internal expanding hydraulic four-wheel brakes are of the same basic design as those Chrysler uses for its new Imperial '75' and '65'. They are the outcome of more than a years' tests to develop a brake that will give practically foolproof service, their engineers point out. They are equipped with specially moulded squeakless linings, operate upon light pressure of the foot and, of course, always have equalized pressure applied to them. To obviate chatter, the lining on the rear shoe of each brake drum is shorter than on the front one.

"An extension of the brake support over each drum, in the form of a housing, excludes the dirt dust and water. Longer brake shoe life and even fewer adjustments than before are also among the results.

"The Plymouth brakes also retain all the advantages of previous hydraulic four-wheel brakes, the engineers say. Among those immediately apparent are that they need no lubrication whatsoever; they have no toggles, clevises or other parts to become loose, work out of shape or otherwise require service attention, and that they are always in equalization because of Pascal's law, which is a natural law of physics. This fundamental principle is that 'pressures exerted upon a column of liquid is expended equally in all directions.'"

FRANKLIN PLANS GREATEST YEAR

"The new year finds the Franklin Automobile Company launching the most expansive program ever planned in our 27 years' experience in the building of motor cars. Plans for 1929 were begun more than a year ago and find their culmination in our presentation of a complete new line of Franklin air-cooled cars on three chassis, at new prices that are made possible through the increased demand for air-cooled cars and numerous manufacturing economies recently worked out," says H. H. Franklin, president of the Franklin Automobile Company.

"It is certain that 1929 will see the greatest number of motor cars ever produced in the history of the automobile industry. If each manufacturer carries out in full his car building schedules during the next 12 months there will be a total of 7,000,000 motor cars turned out.

"This is a distinct indication of the prosperous condition of our nation and shows the confidence that all motor car manufacturers hold toward a continuance of this healthy business stability.

"It is notable that the manufacturers of cars selling in the higher prices brackets are planning a production in 1929 far exceeding even the most ambitious car building schedules of other years. This is attributable to the constant moving up of purchasers from the middle price ranges to the cars that sell for a few hundred dollars more; a justifiable belief on the part of the buyer that the investment of this additional amount brings to him outstanding car value, quality, comfort, luxury, economical operation, longer motor life and all-around performance, not found in the lower price brackets.

"I am confident that 1929 will see the volume of quality car sales completely outdistancing all previous years and the Franklin organization, through its expansion program and the enlargement of its line to include a quality car range beginning at $2180, is definitely certain to share to a highly satisfactory degree in this increased business."

Talking Chassis Hit at Show

A talking chassis is on display in Paul Revere Hall, Mechanics building this week.

It is the voice of standardized quality, a novel educational and entertaining exhibit arranged by the Boston Motor Co., Dodge Brothers Dealers.

Representative stands inside of the chassis guard rail, and questions are invited by the attendant upon matters pertaining to the Dodge Brothers line of motor vehicles.

A most instantaneously as the voice reaches the microphone a detailed complete answer comes back pertaining to the question.

The first public appearance in New England of this talking chassis is bound to create unusual interest among those attending the 1929 Automobile Show.

It is claimed that the composition brake material affords a silent friction surface that is subject to very little

The 1929 Oldsmobile is winning even greater admiration from owners, because it is DESIGNED TO DO ALL THINGS WELL

It is a relatively simple engineering task to design a car which emphasizes only a few qualities at the sacrifice of others.

It is an engineering achievement, however, to combine all desirable qualities to an outstanding degree in a balanced whole. Yet that is exactly what Oldsmobile engineers have accomplished in the new 1929 Oldsmobile.

How well they have succeeded is evidenced by the tremendous gains Oldsmobile has made in public acceptance—and by the enthusiasm of owners everywhere.

Every phase of performance has been developed to a remarkable degree in this finer Oldsmobile. You have only to drive it to realize what brilliant speed—what mighty power—what thrilling getaway it provides. You have only to try it to know how smooth it is—how quiet—how easy to drive or to park. And when you examine Oldsmobile's big 62 horsepower high-compression engine you will find many indications of its progressive engineering—such as pressure-lubricated piston pins, a feature formerly characteristic of high-priced cars.

In appearance, this finer Oldsmobile is as beautiful and as smart as any car on automobile row. Its grace of line—its perfection of detail—its harmony of color—all bespeak the artistry of Fisher craftsmanship. The interiors are luxuriously appointed and richly upholstered . . . they are roomy and comfortable as well. The seats are soft and deep-cushioned. Restful riding ease is assured by four Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers. And the new Fisher adjustable front seat, combined with Oldsmobile's adjustable steering wheel, makes the driving position a matter of individual preference.

And as the months and miles roll by, Oldsmobile delivers not only the advantages of this balanced design—but adds to them the satisfaction of dependability, economy of operation, and long life.

Visit your nearest dealer. Take a drive in the 1929 Oldsmobile. Enjoy the results of full development of all the qualities that contribute to motoring pleasure. Check Oldsmobile's new lower prices. Then judge its value for yourself.

CHRYSLER

Style and Beauty Leadership

. . . No Accidental Creation . . . .

FOR THE FIRST TIME

in Motor Cars—A Deliberate Design Using the Centuries-Old Canons of True Charm and Loveliness.

Chrysler's unerring success in developing, year after year, beauty and style which lead the motor car industry, may be credited to the very individual and definite plan which animates Chrysler design.

To achieve its unique beauty, Chrysler trusted no accidental inspiration of individual designers.

Instead it went directly to those sources of art and architecture which have come down the centuries unsurpassed and unchallenged.

These were studied, and examined, in the patient pursuit of authentic beauty. They were reduced to exact formulae of line and outline.

Then came the characteristically daring Chrysler step.

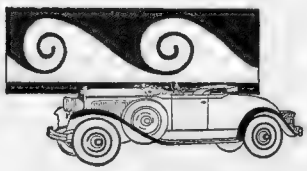
These canons of ancient classic art were carefully translated into terms of motor car beauty and utility. They were applied to the most modern vehicle that travels the earth.

The results were hailed as masterpieces of dynamic symmetry—an expression as new to the industry as the Chryslers themselves. The accompanying illustrations make clear the origins of some of the details of the very latest Chrysler style—the style that re-styles all motor cars.

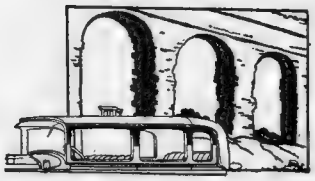
They show very definitely the workings of a plan, the like of which can be found nowhere else in the industry.

It is everywhere conceded that Chrysler style and beauty are today more striking than ever. The deliberate and conscious plan which gave them birth assured then and there the greater grace, charm and artistry in Chrysler cars.

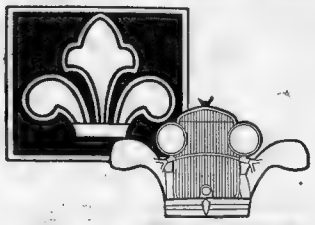
THE most modern thing in motor car design—Chrysler's matching of slender-profile radiator with cowl bar moulding—has its artistic origin in the repetition of motif in the historic frieze of the ancient Parthenon.



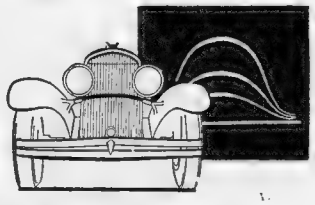
NOTE how the dynamic symmetry of Chrysler fender contours and wheels expresses the very essence of life and motion, just as do their counterparts in the "wave border" of the classic masterpieces of architecture and design.



IT may seem a far cry from the correct lines of an old Roman aqueduct to the "arched-window" silhouette of the Chrysler of today. Here it is, however—a plain indication of the artistry with which Chrysler lines are developed.



THE Chrysler front elevation indicates the influence of the Egyptian lotus leaf pattern. Modified to its modern application, it is perfectly proportioned, and applied with consummate artistry in blending beauty and utility.



ARTISTS know this as a "rising, diminishing series." The level road, the slightly arched bumper, the shorter arched tie-rod above, and finally the shorter and more deeply arched radiator contour, form a series in perfect harmony.

New Lower Prices—with Quality Unchanged—are focusing public attention on Plymouth and winning even more enthusiastic recognition of its outstanding dollar-value. Comparing the Plymouth with other cars at its price, people easily convince themselves that in it Chrysler offers greater value and lasting economy.

Economy with Full Size: Buyers are turning to this car in ever-increasing numbers because in point of size and seating space, it overshadows every other offering at its price—is the outstanding full-size car in the lowest-priced field.

Economy of Operation and Upkeep: It is obvious that Plymouth has all the economy advantages of a simple, sturdy four-cylinder engine, resulting in substantial savings in gas, oil, tires and freedom from upkeep expense.

Economy with Modern Engineering: Designed by Chrysler it embodies all the recognized advantages of modern engineering including such important developments as rubber engine mountings, aluminum alloy pistons, large main bearings, torque reaction neutralizer and positive pressure-feed lubrication.

Economy with Power and Safety: It is a joy to drive the Plymouth—to note its typical Chrysler alertness, responsiveness and smoothness of performance—to feel the positive safety of its Chrysler weatherproof hydraulic four-wheel brakes (internal-expanding, front and rear) which are found on no other car near the Plymouth price.

See the Plymouth! Drive it. You are bound to recognize the wisdom of popular judgment in rating it the biggest value and the soundest economy among cars selling under $850.

TELLS HUDSON STANDARDS OF PRECISION

"There used to be a time," says J. E. McLarty, service manager of the Hudson Motor Car Co., who is in Boston to attend the show "when folks applied a certain Mechanical standard to high priced cars of America's foremost [illegible] and [illegible] the equal of [illegible] standard which [illegible] in the field.

"The fact is now established," that we of Hudson and Essex are producing cars that [illegible] cting the standard which we in building, to-day.

PAPER-THIN ACCURACY

"The paper on which [illegible] age newspaper is [illegible] 5-1000 inch thick. [illegible] paper, measured [illegible] in thickness. Now with the [illegible] we have 129 operations in which the absolutely insignificant [illegible] any stand is just half of [illegible] inch.

"And there are [illegible] operations, such as [illegible] pertain to the crankshaft where the accuracy must be as great as a quarter of 1-1000 inch. And [illegible] 500 operations [illegible] a tolerance of 1-1000 inch. So it is not [illegible] than 2-1000 inch, and [illegible] correct [illegible] limited to [illegible] 195 operations having [illegible] inch.

"To many people such [illegible] standards [illegible] But [illegible] few instances [illegible] price car standards [illegible] rope, may seem [illegible] applied to the lower priced [illegible] it is another fact [illegible] duction in the one thing [illegible] adherence to [illegible] code possible.

HUDSON INSPECTION SYSTEM

"Our standards of quality are [illegible] maintained by a 'triple inspection' plan.

"First. All raw materials are carefully inspected before going either a visual, chemical or [illegible] test, based on the nature of the material.

"Second: Included in each production group are inspectors who are under the production foreman's supervision, and it is their duty to maintain first-class workmanship. Their rate of pay, as well as the rate of pay of the group in which they are working, depends upon the amount of good work turned out. Therefore quality is their constant objective.

"Third. Entirely independent of the two previous [illegible] inspection group we have a central inspection department that employs approximately two men who place a final inspection on each manufactured part. Gauges and precision instruments of the very latest design are used. This central inspection department extends its supervision to every point of manufacture and assembly, thus maintaining the high-grade workmanship and quality standards that characterize our product.

HIGH SERVICE STANDARDS

"Most important to the owner perhaps is the service given on the car by his distributor or dealer. New England Hudson-Essex [illegible] long been fortunate in having the very highest standards of service. This has maintained the inherent quality in the car for the permanent benefit of the owner.

Chromium Plating in General Use

CARLOAD AUTOS SHIPPED DAILY

"Nineteen twenty-eight was the most successful year in our 18 years as Hudson-Essex distributors," says Mr. Chester G. Abbott, general manager of the Henley-Kimball Company.

"[illegible] shipping schedules are [illegible] Motor Co. history. A carload of Hudson and Essex cars will be shipped to us each business day during March [illegible] description of [illegible] has been in operation that even this large volume appears inadequate. We are able to meet at the present time to have the factory increase our allotment.

"[illegible] known as the Hudson and Essex [illegible] the Cabriolet. In the Essex we have the outstanding value in its price class while in the Hudson we have unequalled performance and value for cars selling above $1000."

MOST COMPETITIVE YEAR

When questioned as to the outlook for 1929 Mr. Abbott said: "This will be the most competitive year the automobile industry has ever known, owing to the [illegible] price class, and the [illegible] have unequalled performance and value for cars selling above $1000."

MOST COMPETITIVE YEAR

When questioned as to the outlook for 1929 Mr. Abbott said: "This will be the most competitive year the automobile industry has ever known, owing to the [illegible] price class, and the [illegible] have unequalled performance and value for cars selling above $1000."

Personally, I [illegible] competitive." Abbott stated [illegible] 1929 is going to [illegible] and highly prosperous. We have as evidence of this our own [illegible] of the best business analysts, but also the present day conditions of active business and aggressive confidence. It is because of competition that the industry is so active, for the buyer of the modern 1929 car is offered such a value that it is no wonder that he responds by giving the car [illegible] demand.

WHAT BUYER SEEKS

The buyer this year is looking for, first of all, [illegible] of line [illegible] and smart appearance; second, much better performance both in maximum speed and in pickup, smoothness and the nicety of operation, third, braking adequate for today's traffic, fourth, reliability as a matter of course.

"We have heard much of the magic of mass production in building automobiles. Now we are coming to the equally interesting [illegible] of merchandising. To sell cars [illegible] of hundred-thousands is [illegible] and absorbing [illegible] the buying of cars. The public has set [illegible] the car [illegible] the designer and builder.

AUTO OWNERS WANT SPEED, BEAUTY

By J. F. FIELDS
Vice-President in Charge of Sales, Chrysler Corporation.

The story of Chrysler is a romance of American industry.

Ask Walter P. Chrysler what is the secret of his self-answer, "[illegible] organization." Ask members of the organization and they answer, "Chrysler leadership."

It is now possible to summarize the part that Chrysler has played, and it will be expressed in the following ways:

First and [illegible] what the public want—[illegible] demand instead of merely meeting it.

Above all, supply [illegible] wants effectively and economically.

The public [illegible] is changing constantly. [illegible] meet it it is easy for [illegible] cars of beautiful and [illegible] appearance, [illegible] powered and easy to [illegible] [illegible] traffic—all so developed as to give [illegible] much more with [illegible] expenditure for [illegible] fuel and so sturdily built as to [illegible] and repay [illegible] a [illegible] investment.

SUCH IS ACHIEVEMENT

[illegible] a [illegible] action to turn [illegible] impossible, [illegible] to command the confidence and enthusiasm [illegible] growing [illegible] public—such is the Chrysler achievement.

Late in 1923 public [illegible] was aroused by an unusual [illegible] ment. Under the [illegible] heading "Walter P. Chrysler, Motor Car Manufacturer," [illegible] the statement that a most interesting announcement of the [illegible] plans of Mr. Chrysler and his associates would be published within the coming few days.

The announcement thus dramatically [illegible] the [illegible] production of [illegible] Chrysler.

At the time [illegible] Chrysler meant much to the automobile industry itself, but although millions of [illegible] were then [illegible] in automobiles made [illegible] cars [illegible] public at large knew little about him and even less about [illegible] accomplishments in motor car manufacture.

In the five years that have [illegible] since that announcement [illegible] what was merely public interest in a new automobile has become recognition of a remarkable achievement in the automobile world.

NEAR MILLION SOLD

Nearly a million Chrysler-built cars have been sold in those five years.

Chrysler today has become one of the strongest and soundest companies in American industry. The Chrysler name stands high in public esteem for fine qualities in motor manufacture and service, for progress in automotive development and for remarkable dollar value.

Two factors chiefly have contributed to Chrysler's success in winning and retaining public confidence. These are (1) engineering and manufacturing experience and the genius for organizing industrial enterprise along sound lines of financing, production and distribution, and (2) the possession of a balanced group of young and able executives to carry on that enterprise [illegible] intelligently.

The company's outstanding position today reflects, therefore, not [illegible] the many [illegible] personality of a leader, but also the creative spirit of an organization which has been inspired to achieve, in five years, results that epitomize the progress of the American motor car industry.

Durant Starts on 26th Year

W. C. Durant has just completed 25 years as a manufacturer of automobiles, winding up 1928 with the greatest year in the history of General Motors.

While it is true that Durant has played a big part in developing value in popular priced cars, it now seems that his greatest contribution in this field will prove to be the four forward speed, silent double high transmission. This type gear-shift, authorized for use in America only in Durant cars is said to cut gas and oil consumption by 20 per cent and reduce wear and tear on the engine by 35 per cent.

Durant this year offers the public the lowest priced six in America with the four forward speeds.

Air-Cooled Engine Built Before Wright's First Flight

By JOHN E. WILLIAMS
Vice-President in charge of sales, Franklin Automobile Company

It is notable that the tribute paid to Orville Wright a few days ago at Kitty Hawk, N. C., where he and his famous brother made history just 25 years ago by making the first successful airplane flight, should come at a time when the airplane industry has almost universally adopted the air-cooled type of power plant—a type of engine pioneered in the automobile field by H. H. Franklin just two years prior to the Wright brothers' initial flight.

The 25 years that has intervened since that first flight has witnessed an almost total revolution of the airplane field, reaching its greatest era in the past two years with the adoption of the air-cooled power plant in most of the leading planes.

This rise of the air-cooled engine to a dominant position in aeronautics finds its counterpart in the automobile industry with the success and the wide public acceptance of the Franklin car which employs the air-cooled power plant.

For more than 27 years Mr. Franklin, president of the Franklin Automobile Company, has developed this engine, and its recent record breaking performances both in mountain tests and transcontinental runs, places it in the same relative position in the automobile industry that the air-cooled engine occupies in the airplane industry.

'Twin Top Gear Box,' They Say in England

The four-speed transmission of the Graham-Paige is known in England as the "twin top gear box," because both fourth speed (direct drive) and the internal geared third speed are quiet and fast. British motorists speak of "top" gear instead of "high," and the transmission is the "gear-box."

In Europe, where four-speed cars with the ordinary spur-gear drives are common, the Graham-Paige transmission, with two high speeds, has been hailed as a great improvement by the motor experts of automobile magazines and newspapers.

NEW CHEVROLET HAS SEVEN MODELS

"Reflecting scores of advances, resultant from four years' intensive research and the economies made possible by great volume production, the new line of six-cylinder valve-in-head cars which Chevrolet is offering this year," says R. A. Walsh, sales manager of the Boston zone, "are among the most popular exhibits at the automobile show.

"Since the announcement last November of the new six, which provided one of the most sensational news items of the year, motor circles have watched with interest the public favor accorded the new Chevrolet, which General Motors officials predict will again make motor car history in 1929.

"Known as 'The Outstanding Chevrolet of Chevrolet History,' the new cars are acclaimed by company officials as superior to any previous Chevrolet models. In beauty, power, speed, smoothness and riding comfort the new cars display obvious improvements over their famous four-cylinder predecessors. All closed bodies carry the famous Fisher stamp of craftsmanship. In gracefulness of line and quality of finish they have never been excelled in their price range.

"Seven models, two open and five closed cars, comprise the line. Among the closed models are the coach, sedan, sport cabriolet, coupe and convertible landau, the latter model making its appearance in the low price field for the first time. The open models are the roadster and the phaeton, which complete the touring car.

"The line is characterized by numerous comfort and safety features, which include the adjustable driver's seat in all the closed models, the new beam headlamps and the quiet, positive four-wheel brakes.

"But it is the beauty of the new Chevrolet that catches the eye of the crowd. All the new models are provided with a lustrous finish, and each has its own smart color combination. All are roomier than a year ago, and display many refinements, exterior and interior, not found in last year's line.

"In its new offering Chevrolet has retained the proved worthiness of the valve-in-head principle. The motor is of the high compression type, with a non-detonating head, fully enclosed and develops 32 per cent more horsepower than its four cylinder predecessor. Despite its greatly improved performance standards, the car has a proved economy of better than 20 miles to the gallon, Chevrolet engineers declare.

"During the four years of exhaustive experiments with six-cylinder engine types, Chevrolet engineers built over 100 different models. They were guided in their efforts by an unswerving determination to produce a six-cylinder engine which would combine an almost perfect balance between tremendous power, on the one hand, and economy and smoothness of operation on the other."

Types of Dodge Bros. Coaches

Three types of motor coaches are built by Dodge Brothers. The street-car coach seats 21 passengers, the parlor coach seats 18 passengers, and the club car seats 12 passengers. All types have six cylinders, four wheel brakes and four speed transmissions.

PREDICTS A BIG BUSINESS ERA

By ALBERT RUSSEL ERSKINE, President the Studebaker Corp.

For a number of reasons, I believe that the United States is about to enter upon the greatest business development of its history, in both its domestic and foreign trade. The capacity of our industries was never greater; their products were never better, more diversified, more attractive, or generally lower priced; they were never better financed, and their sales departments were never more extensive or efficient.

The United States is primarily an industrial country and our prosperity depends chiefly upon big production, with its resulting low costs. High wages established by American industries during the past decade have given us the greatest mass consumption any country has ever enjoyed, and consequently the home market of the United States is the biggest, richest and most coveted of any national market. The retention of this market by American industries is essential to our national prosperity.

DODGE OUTPUT MAY REACH TOP THIS YEAR

Dodge Brothers Corporation is entering 1929 with prospects of the largest year in its history. Under the guiding genius of Walter P. Chrysler, the company expects to establish new sales records, according to Charles W. Matheson, general sales manager.

The new Dodge Brothers six, introduced at the Boston show, is attracting unusual attention.

The rich and unique color combinations, graceful lines and flowlines of the eight body types woke much favorable comment from visitors at the show and orders have exceeded all expectations.

The spacious Dodge Senior, introduced late last summer has enjoyed unusual popularity for those who seek the highest quality in motor cars. The Senior is available in eight body types, and is being shown with the new Dodge six models.

"We anticipate the heaviest production schedule in Dodge history," said Mr. Matheson. "Facilities at the factory have been geared for peak volume output of quality cars. New high standards have been established in attaining maximum performance and dependability that have characterized the more than 2,000,000 motor cars that bear Dodge Brothers name."

Bank Savings Grow, Registrations Rise

Despite the 25,000,000 automobiles now in service, many of them bought on time payments, the savings banks of the United States had more than $28,000,000,000 on deposit last June 30, it was pointed out by Mr. John N. Willys, president of the Willys-Overland company. Mr. Willys says the financial statistics indicate that America's collective ability to save is helped, rather than retarded, by use of motor cars

Big Car Power,

Speed and Smoothness

The Coupe, $745
Body by Fisher

Hear Our Special Musical Program from WEEI at 10:25 Tonight

Today thousands of motor car owners have an opportunity to realize an ambition of long standing. We refer to those who have wanted the kind of performance once available only in a big car of higher price. And if you are among those thousands, come see and drive the New Pontiac Big Six. It offers big car power, speed and smoothness at a price you're glad to pay.

This great new six displays big car performance because it is powered by a big, new L-head engine of advanced design. Its smoothness results from a counter-weighted crankshaft, the Harmonic Balancer, the G-M-R cylinder head, and accurately balanced rotating parts throughout its chassis.

Many other fine car features indicate the thorough-going quality of the New Pontiac Big Six. Among these are the cross-flow radiator and new, noiseless internal four-wheel brakes. And, of course, the New Pontiac provides big car beauty and style. For Fisher created the Pontiac Big Six bodies and endowed them with all the luxury, quality and inherent value which Fisher craftsmanship implies.

Here, truly, is a new idea in low cost motoring luxury! A car conceived, designed and built for those who want something more than the cheapest—and who choose to reveal their progressive ideas in better cars as well as better homes and better furniture. What a reception these buyers are giving the New Pontiac Big Six! For they've sensed that it gives them a new opportunity to step up in motor car quality without stepping out of the low-priced field!

HOOVER CODE FOR TRAFFIC PRAISED

By JOSEPH B. GRAHAM
President of Graham-Paige Co.

Traffic regulation and relief has made great progress in the last year because it is no longer treated as a purely local matter by those charged with this important branch of legislation and its enforcement.

Perhaps the most important development is the Hoover code for uniform traffic control, but only [illegible] offering an answer [illegible] but suggestions [illegible] drivers [illegible] But there are agencies that have worked wonders to prevent and stop traffic congestion [illegible] not to need the credit that is due. That agency is the automobile itself.

Joseph B. Graham

Everyone will agree that the remedy for congestion is to increase the use [illegible] of existing streets. In other words we cannot have [illegible] we must make more efficient use of space we have.

This progress of [illegible] more traffic on [illegible] has been [illegible] most to make [illegible] is the automobile [illegible]

HOW CARS SAVE SPACE

Consider what would happen if all the automobiles in a crowded city today were suddenly transformed into 1915 models in good running condition.

What would happen? The worst traffic congestion ever known because the cars of 10 or 15 years ago required much more road space than those of today.

In 1915 there were no four wheel brakes, no balloon tires and no high-powered engines as we know them today. Each of these improvements has resulted in a net saving of space on the streets or has speeded up traffic or has done both.

SAVING OF SPACE

Four-wheel brakes alone have caused a great saving of road space because they reduced the distance that must be maintained between running vehicles for safe stopping, and because they permit cars to maintain the full legal speed with safety.

Balloon tires, with modern shock absorbers, permit vehicles to move at good speeds over rough city pavements that would have required the old style car to move at a crawl—another saving in space.

And the present day high-powered engines have had almost as great an effect as the improved braking—not because of higher speeds, but because of more rapid acceleration.

Today's automobile, starting even with a 15 year old model at a standstill, would be half a block away running at full legal speed in high gear, before the old-time car had cleared the cross street; and there is another gain of space

Senior Six Pistons Weighed

Connecting rods and pistons of Dodge Brothers senior six are assembled in groups of six, and weighed separately so that they all are within one-quarter ounce of each other, insuring smooth engine performance. Pistons are of the Rehnalite pattern, being of aluminum with steel struts. The lightness of these pistons adds considerably to the performance and smoothness of the senior engine.

Fuel Temperature Control in Senior

The exhaust heated intake manifold on the Dodge Brothers senior Six insures the delivery of equal amounts of properly prepared fuel to all cylinders. There is an adjustment on the dash for controlling the amount of heat supplied to the mixture, change so that the proper temperature may be secured regardless of weather conditions

HENLEY KIMBALL CO. BREAKING RECORDS

"The Hudson Motor Car Company [illegible] in 1925 the greatest production year in its history, set it [illegible] 1927 with definite plans to [illegible] the record by a large margin," says Mr. Fred A. Ordway, president of the Henley-Kimball Company, local distributors for Hudson and Essex motor cars.

Hudson built and shipped more than 252,000 six cylinder cars in reaching its 1924 high record. On January 2 1925, Hudson announced its dealer organization another program. This was that the company had advanced during 1925 to the position of third largest builder of the Six in New York show. On this showing, Hudson Essex was awarded third place, in the estimation of the show.

SIX-CYLINDER RECORD

"These records have been equalled and exceeded in Massachusetts during 1926," says Mr. Ordway. "Both Hudson Essex cars were second in the state during 1926. This was the largest number of six cylinder cars sold in this market by a single [illegible] during that period.

"The reception accorded the Greater Hudson and Essex, the Challenger at the New York Show caused the factory to immediately increase its already large production schedule. The subsequent weeks have showed this increase to be made safe and as fast as consistent production is being stepped up to meet the demand.

"Our sales," says Mr. Ordway, "for January and February, 1926 have exceeded the same period in 1925 by better than 175 per cent. Orders are being handled in total and every means taken to insure prompt delivery. All indications point to the fact that in the Greater Hudson and Essex the Challenger we have a product built and priced to the public's taste

100 PER CENT GAIN

"Our dealer in Lynn has asked for an increase of 300 per cent in his March shipments. His request reads 120 Essex of various models and 27 Hudsons. In Fitchburg our dealer sold fourteen cars in two days during his local automobile show. The first of these cars was sold five minutes after the doors of the show opened.

The Henley-Kimball Company is showing the largest variety of Hudson-Essex cars in its entire history, 21 models in all, seven Essex and 14 Hudsons. This is regarded as particularly interesting because for several seasons Hudson-Essex followed a policy of very few body types. From this period of specialization Hudson has broadened into offering every important body type—open or closed, or convertible—which the market affords.

Eliminates Feet Slipping

Of particular appeal to women motorists are the rubber pads on brake and clutch pedals which now are standard equipment on Oldsmobile cars.

UNIFORM RIDING COMFORT AIM OF ENGINEERS

New and increasingly difficult engineering problems confront the automobile builder each year," says P. S. Frost, general manager Boston Franklin Company. "Every improvement educates public expectancy to a higher degree of performance and the super-refined sensibilities of today's motor owners react unfavorably to slight variations in performance that would not have been noticed two years before.

P. S. Frost

"Take the matter of riding ease. Everyone knows conditions of the road surface vary tremendously in even a short drive. Stretches of concrete and asphalt are interspersed between cobble stone pavements and washboard macadam or hilly detours. Speeds range from the regulated traffic pace to brisk touring rates. And to satisfy the modern-day critical motorist it is necessary to build a car which will perform over any of these surfaces and at any speed with a uniformly soft and gliding motion.

"The problem is not an easy one even to build a car which will ride as easily on concrete as on dirt, for the sub-divisions of the concrete are always slightly uneven and cause a vibration at high speeds.

Franklin has always made a careful study of the subject. It has built a flexible chassis frame which absorbs shocks, and has rigorously excluded weight from below the springs, keeping the great proportion above the spring line and equally distributed over each of the four wheels in order to lessen rebound.

"In addition it has always employed full-elliptic springs, doubling the spring resiliency which cushions the car, and in the present models giving the equivalent of a single-section spring 156 inches long on each side of the car.

"This year we have developed riding ease and uniformity to a still higher degree, making it almost independent of speed or road surface. The result is accomplished through the use of double-acting hydraulic spring controls which soften both the compression and rebound of the full-elliptics, giving a smooth, gliding motion comparable only to the flight of an airplane."

School Buses for City Children

A growing tendency to use school buses to carry city children between home and school is noted in a recent survey of the motor bus division of Dodge Brothers.

HUPP DRESSES IN NEW MODES FOR 1929

Enter the New Century Hupmobiles, long noted for their mechanical excellence and enduring performance, now clothed with a new personality—dressed in a new and exclusive mode in motor car design."

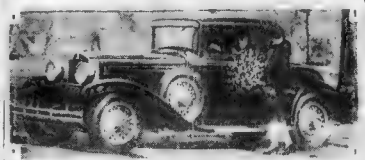
"That," declares R. E. Cole, vice-president in charge of sales of the Hupp Motor Car Corporation, "is the descriptive phrase with which we prefer to publicly introduce the New Century eights and sixes.

"For 20 years Hupmobile has been a good car. It has long been respected and thought of as such. From Hupmobile a mechanical perfection has come a reputation second to none.

"Then Hupmobile introduced the Century cars. Resplendent in new beauty and refinement, these two new cars became more than mere years in advance of existing design. They established a new mode—created a new striking rhythm which clothed the tireless and endless mechanical efficiency with refreshing style. Hupmobile, for 20 years approved as the Viking of motor cars became, as well, the Fashion Plate —the Master Craft of the industry.

"In the New Century models Hupmobile has achieved a new grace and captured a new beauty theme and unified symmetry that is in itself a distinct and exclusive mode. Hupmobile, always first in advance engineering, has now blended the mettle and stamina of its years of experience in fine motor car construction with an original style and vivid personality.

Spring Is in the Air



Interest shown in the new Dodge Brothers senior sport coupe, with rumble seat, forecasts active sales for this model in the next few weeks, according to Dodge dealers.

OLDS SPEEDS UP PRODUCTION

With greater facilities than ever before Oldsmobile has entered 1929 equipped to surpass the phenomenal gains registered last year. Throughout the year an expansion program has been in operation which has resulted in adding 815,140 square feet of additional floor area, or two acres of ground. It is being, the total floor area devoted to the manufacture of Oldsmobiles to 2,012,042 square feet located on a 75-acre plot.

In addition to these new buildings, the last of which were being completed early this year, thousands upon thousands of dollars worth of new machinery and equipment have been installed. Manufacturing lines have been rearranged with the result that production facilities have been greatly enlarged.

MERIT WINS FOR DE SOTO SIX

Merit alone can explain the unparalleled success experienced by the new Chrysler-built DeSoto Six since its announcement last August, in the opinion of L. G. Peed, DeSoto general sales manager. The DeSoto Six came to its first New York Automobile Show with a sales and production record behind it never equalled by any other automobile during the first five months of its production.

"The DeSoto Six has achieved this enviable record entirely on its merit," says Mr. Peed. "Because of its merit its success was assured from the outset. It is and has been from the start the outstanding value in its price field, a surpassing value for a moderate investment. The three words chosen as a motto, 'multum in parvo' or 'much for little,' epitomize the whole DeSoto Six story.

SAYS QUALITY CAR MARKET GROWING

"Increasing desire on the part of the motoring public for fine motor cars is evidenced by the existing demand and is very definitely expressed by the number of high-grade cars purchased during 1928," said H. M. Stephens, general sales manager, Cadillac Motor Car Company.

"The unusually prosperous condition of the country as a whole has made it possible for a larger number of people to gratify the very natural desire for better and finer things.

"As a result the world-wide reputation and acceptance of the Cadillac Motor Car Company's products is stronger today than at any time during Cadillac's more than a quarter century of leadership in the quality car market.

The LaSalle, companion car to Cadillac, introduced in the spring of 1927, is steadily strengthening its position in the field of the world's finest motor cars; and the new Cadillac, with its many new and exclusive features of safety and luxury, maintains a position which rightly entitles it to the distinction of being Standard of the World.

"The new idea of special Fleetwood custom bodies introduced in the fall of 1928 enables the service of exclusiveness to select a creation in keeping with his individual taste.

"During the calendar year of 1928 the Cadillac Motor Car Company enjoyed the most successful year in its history. A total of 41,500 units was sold and delivered, an increase of approximately 15 per cent over the previous record years business.

Vacuum Booster For Hudson-Essex

One of the power plant features of the Greater Hudson and Essex the Challenger is a vacuum booster incorporated in the carburetion system. The purpose of the booster is to assure a plentiful supply of gasoline for the carburetor, and to take care of unusual demands on the fuel supply, such as occurs in ascending long, steep hills and in driving at top speed for considerable periods.

The obligation of leadership is to lead. At the Show, as elsewhere, AC outranks its field.

See the AC exhibit at the Show.

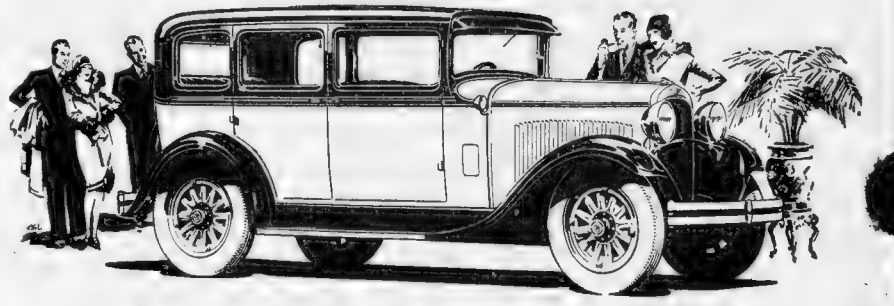
it's NEW



NEW BODY • • NEW BEAUTY • • NEW BEHAVIOR • • and NEW DEPENDABILITY

even for DODGE BROTHERS cars

OUT of Walter P. Chrysler's inspiration and the practised manufacturing skill of Dodge Brothers comes a new car—new in every respect and from every angle—the new Dodge Brothers Six. It introduces more than a score of outstanding betterments unmatched by any car at or near its price.

NEW BODY . . . . . The new and exclusive Dodge Brothers Monopiece Body is notably roomy—with wide doors and ample windows. Built inflexibly onto the wide chassis, it is rigid, balanced and steady-riding. Door openings, body sills and window apertures being fashioned out of a single piece of metal, there are no joints to squeak. Tens of thousands of miles of hardest usage leave the Dodge Brothers Six body as tight, as firm and as noiseless as when new.

NEW BEAUTY . . . . . The new and beautifully proportioned silhouette is impressive of bigness with a new degree of grace. Consider these innovations! New deep-faced, narrow profile radiator with attractive wing-tipped cap. New cowl-bar and lamp tie-rod in matching curves. New one-piece fenders of exclusive Dodge full-welt design. New running-boards of Chrysler steel channel principle, with moulded rubber coverings. New pattern headlights and cowl lamps. Chromium-plated, tarnish-proof exterior metal parts. Matching interior fitments, complete in every detail.

NEW BEHAVIOR . . . . . New powerful, fleet and competent performance. A new wide, staunch chassis. A masterful engine, cushioned in live-rubber. Massive crankshaft with seven big main bearings. Full force-feed lubrication. New wide-faced transmission gears. New rear axle with double thrust-absorbing roller bearings. New Chrysler weather-proof hydraulic 4-wheel brakes. New roller-bearing steering gear. New Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers all around. Tires generously oversize (5.50) for increased mileage.

The proverbial dependability of Dodge Brothers cars attains new heights in this new Dodge Brothers Six. It is the most triumphant value in all Dodge Brothers history, typical of the genius of Walter P. Chrysler.

PRICES

The new Dodge Brothers Six is offered in eight distinctive body styles—each unique in seating and coloring: 2-Passenger Business Coupe, $945 5-Passenger Sedan, $995 - 5-Passenger Brougham, $995 - Roadster with rumble seat, $995 - 5-Passenger Victoria, $1025 - DeLuxe Coupe with rumble seat, $1025 - 5-Passenger Phaeton, $1025 5-Passenger DeLuxe Sedan, $1065. Adds Output at Willys' Plant

Sedan is one of the new Whippet models whose popularity is turning faster the wheels of production at the Willys factories.

HUPMOBILE WON ALPINE RACE IN 1928

"Among the outstanding sports events contributing much to engineering knowledge of motor car power and performance, and which was won in 1928 by a stock New Century Six Hupmobile, is the five-day International Alpine test, which was run off a few weeks ago.

"Conducted by both American and European as one of the most gruelling and difficult endurance contests ever attempted, the Alpine run of 1150 miles traverses the highest mountain tract in all Europe. That a New Century Six, without special equipment or gearing, should eclipse all other entries of its class, speaks volumes of the new car's speed, power and positive control," says Leslie Balder, vice-president of the Boston Hup.

"The run starts at Milan, Italy, and concludes at Munich, Bavaria. The trail crosses such famous passes as the Simplon, with an altitude of 6590 feet; the Furka, 7701 feet; the St. Gothard, with an altitude 7216 feet, and the Stilfser, 9055 feet above sea level. Each stage of the terrific grind is marked off into certain distances, with a minimum, but no maximum elapsed time schedule prepared for each. Heinz Hinterleitner, driver of the winning New Century Six, said, when presented with the International Alpine Gold Cup:

"'We were always under the maximum time controls, although we encountered many dangerous curves on the high mountain passes, and we were credited with the best elapsed time at each control.

"At no time was there any indication of the overheated motor one would look for in such a gruelling contest. The special advantage of the New Century Six Hupmobile that made possible our fine showing includes:

"Deep gravity center which permitted us to go into curves at high speed without fear of capsizing; the new type spring suspension and frame reinforcement, which, no matter how hard the car was pushed, prevented front wheel play; powerful breaking capacity of the remarkable four wheel brakes assured us safety even when stopping the car at top speeds, and the exceptionally flexible and responsive steering ability. Without these desirable features, coupled with the New Century Six's powerful motor, we would doubtlessly have finished with the others."

NEW WHIPPET EASY TO STEER

A marked engineering advancement is seen in the new Whippet Four, which, with the adoption of a completely redesigned steering gear.

The new steering gear on the Whippet models materially increases the ease in steering, a feature which has a decided appeal, especially to women drivers. The design of the wheel itself makes for more comfort since the oval section of the rim is inclined and not parallel to the steering post. As a result the hands rest in a naturally or slightly in-curved position. On long drives especially, one is not conscious of any strain in keeping the hands on the wheel.

The redesigned steering gear has a worm and gear reduction of 11 to 1 as against 9 to 1 employed in the former Whippet, with the result that the resistance to turning is momentarily reduced in that proportion. The grooving of the king pins so that a greater amount of grease is stored in the bushing proper than has before been possible, is an additional improvement that adds to the ease of steering. However, the adjusting features of the parallel post rives been retained, these being desirable for people of sub or abnormal stature.

The adoption of this improved steering mechanism makes parking of the Whippet cars decidedly easier, this being especially true with women drivers, by requiring so effort to turn the wheel.

Fuel Pump Makes Enormous Strides

Widespread adoption of the fuel pump during the past 12 months is among the important developments that have taken place in the automotive equipment field, according to R. W. de Gelleke, president of the AC Spark Plug Company.

"Prior to July, 1927," Mr. de Gelleke says, "not a single car was equipped with a fuel pump of any kind. Today there are 30 users of it in this country and during 1929 this number will be greatly increased this year.

"It is interesting to recall that the fuel pump which had been under test for years, received its initial appearance on the first Oakland All-American model in 1927. At present there are three quarters of a million cars now in service equipped with the pump.

"The fuel pump has proved added another manufacturing activity to the industry, and its quick acceptance by many prominent car manufacturers, together with a huge increase in other business, has necessitated building expansions totaling three-quarters of a million dollars. These expansions when completed early this year, will further increase our production facilities, which have been t capacity during 1928—the best year in the history of the AC Spark Plug Company.

Hupp Chief

Erie Courtney, general manager of the Hupmobile Company of Boston.

FOUR RANGES OF PRICE FOR WILLYS

"Termed as the outstanding stroke of the new year in automotive circles, Willys-Overland's presentation of the complete lines of Whippet Fours, Whippet Sixes and Willys-Knight Sixes with the body lines of entirely new design, notable improvements in the chassis, increased performance ability and marked refinements in the four power plants employed, give the Toledo manufacturers complete price coverage in every field," says Herbert G. Fitch, district manager.

"With the company concentrating its volume of production in the same price ranges on the Whippet Fours and Sixes, Willys-Overland reaches that great mass of buyers who prefer cars that are neither the lower price brackets. This dominant position was first gained a year ago when John N. Willys announced that 'there can be no monopoly in the light car field,' and then proceeded to slash the Whippet Four prices to a point that made them directly competitive with the lowest priced cars in the world.

IN 21 YEARS' HISTORY

"This characteristic move on the part of the Willys-Overland leader resulted throughout the past year in the greatest buying demand in the company's 21 years' history, the company establishing new sales and production records from month to month and firmly entrenching itself as one of the three largest producers in the automobile industry.

"A few months later came the presentation of the new Whippet Six, equipped with a seven-bearing crankshaft and other construction-al features which set a definite new trend in the low-priced six field. Immediately the buying public accepted these new cars which swung into a healthy sales volume that continued throughout the year.

"And so 1929 finds Willys-Overland with complete price coverage in the light four and light six-cylinder field, with its introduction of its new lines of Whippet Fours and Whippet Sixes.

WITH SLEEVE VALVE

"Into the intermediate price classification, Willys-Overland brings the Willys-Knight division of the company with its introduction of the newly designed Willys-Knight Six models. These models, each powered by a patented Willys-Knight Six cylinder sleeve valve engine, appeal to those buyers who desire more exclusive quality features than can be offered in the low-priced fours and sixes, yet at prices below those cars that are priced in the higher ranges, frequently termed 'the quality car field.'

"A continuance of the price coverage in every classification is found in the new Willys-Knight Great Six, the price range of these cars going into the higher field for the buyer who demands quality to a superlative degree.

"This latter line, like the other Willys-Overland products, is presented with a completely new body and chassis design and the highest development yet obtained in the largest Willys-Knight engine built by the company."

Nash Expansion Costs $2,000,000

Increased plant facilities, amounting to approximately $2,000,000, are being made this year in the Kenosha, Milwaukee, Racine and Pine Bluff, Ark., factories, controlled by the Nash Motors Company. This expansion program, which is in addition to the $2,500,000 in plant improvements and new machinery last spring, has been ordered to help care for the overwhelming international demand for the new "400" series Nash cars, according to officials.

Test for Motor Trucks

To insure dependability and economy in operation, the truck division of Dodge Brothers sends trucks and commercial cars on test trips totaling 200,000 miles annually. The runs are made in all parts of the country, and accurate records are made of performance. In addition, every unit is tested on a proving track after it leaves the final assembly line.

Goodwin Sees Plan to Shelve Auto Bill

By FRANK A. GOODWIN

Former Registrar of Motor Vehicles and Author of Goodwin-Boston Evening American Insurance Bill.

Whenever there is a great public demand for legislation to relieve the people from the grip of a public service corporation the representatives of organized wealth resort to the old subterfuge of referring the matter to a commission for further study.

Then they pick their own investigators and write their own report!

The State House is already full of investigating committee reports which are not worth the paper they are written on. The Boston Elevated question has been investigated several times, and the straphanger still pays an exorbitant fare and endures rotten service.

Now the advantage of these smoke screen investigations is that by them a remedy sought by the people is delayed, and eventually everyone becomes tired of waiting and resigns himself to his fate.

ZONING SYSTEM WRONG

With this, apparently, is the program being prepared for the shelving of a settlement of the compulsory automobile insurance question. Reports are burning around the State House corridors to the effect that the whole problem is to be turned over to an investigating committee.

If the Republican party wants this troublesome question on its hands as a State issue, well and good, but there is no necessity nor excuse for an investigating committee.

The car owners are being charged about $7,500,000 a year too much under compulsion by the State!

The zoning system is wrong, and no intelligent argument can be advanced in its favor!

Charged claims of more than $20,000 have been made, and most of them have been settled by the insurance companies with the car owners' money!

250,000 ASK RELIEF

Even if the Legislature passes a bill this year providing relief, it will not go into effect until 1930, and if the amoke screen of an investigation committee is involved we shall get no relief for several years.

More than 250,000 car owners are affected by this insurance question, and they are looking for relief. They may not be organized as the insurance companies are, but each and every one of them knows that his pocket has been touched. He knows he is already paying a registration fee, a gasoline tax, an excise tax, and fees for licenses, examinations and transfers. He is beginning to get ugly about it all.

Out of the money taken from the car owner, five cents is for only building roads for the present and future but is also paying off liabilities contracted years ago for the roads of the past—then boasting of cutting down the overweight.

I think the car owners want relief and want it now!

OLD SUBTERFUGE

At the hearing on February 26, there were no real arguments advanced against either the constitutionality or the contents of the Goodwin-Boston Evening American bill. On the other hand, the insurance companies, with full knowledge that the "Power" bill, fell flat, for it was successfully attacked both as to construction and as to substance.

The legislative committee apparently has realized the weakness of the "Power" plan, and now is forced to adopt the time-honored subterfuge—a recess committee for investigation.

HOLIDAY FOR SCHOOLS

Schoolboys and girls of South Boston and Dorchester were rejoicing today, with the announcement by Superintendent Burke that those pupils attending schools outside of the district must have a holiday on March 18 next as well as those attending schools within the district.

The decision regarding the boys and girls going to school in Dorchester in many cases is the result of a compromise on the matter which was brought to an issue last Thursday when a delegation of South Boston residents, consisting of all the Boston representatives, Councilor Mahoney, William L. Kendrick, chief marshal of the Evacuation Day parade, Chief of Staff James J. Tracy and others, appeared before the school committee and urged among other things that all schools throughout the city be closed on the holiday.

Sues Former Woman Bus Service Owner

Worcester, March 6—Inez Thurston Conlin, wife of Thomas F. Conlin of this city, who, with her husband, sold out the Conlin Bus Lines, Inc., two years ago to the Automotive Transport Lines, Inc., during the time the latter line was sued today in superior court here by $25,000 by Gladys C. Johnson, also of this city.

Details of the suit were not made public. Only papers filed thus far are attachments on the property of the defendant. Attorney Carlton C. Murphy, counsel for Mrs. Johnson, stated today that the action is one of tort, but further than that he declined to discuss the case. Mrs. Conlin several months ago asked her husband for divorce in the probate court of Suffolk County. Mrs. Johnson is credit manager of a local clothing store.

Childhood Discussed

"The Problem of Childhood" was discussed at a meeting of the recently formed Child Study Group held at the Old South Church. Mrs. Grafton T. Abbott, clinical psychologist at the Judge Baker Foundation, Boston's Institute for the Guidance of Childhood, and Youth, addressed the members.

Boy Delivers Liquor on Way to School

Chicago, March 6—John Caffe, 19, was caught with 26 half-pint bottles of liquor in his brief case. He said the package was made the liquor and he delivered it for them on his way to high school.

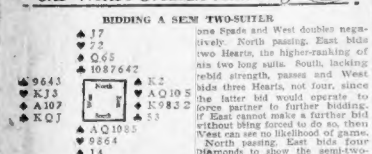
AUCTION BRIDGE

by WILBUR C. WHITEHEAD

The World's Greatest Authority

BIDDING A SEMI TWO-SUITER



AUCTION BIDDING: South bids one Spade which West doubles. East responds with two Hearts properly calling his four-card Major in preference to his five-card Minor. Even had his Heart suit contained no honor, it should have been bid. South lacks the official probable tricks necessary for a rebid and passes, the two Heart bid securing the contract.

Contract Bidding: South bids one Spade and West doubles negatively. North passing, East bids two Hearts, the higher-ranking of his two long suits. South, lacking rebid strength, passes and West bids three Hearts, not four, since the latter bid would operate to force partner to further bidding. If East cannot make a further bid without being forced to do so, then West can see no likelihood of game.

North passing, East bids four Diamonds to show the semi-two-suited character of his hand. West then makes the game bid of four Hearts as probably offering a better chance for game than five Diamonds. Four Hearts, therefore, becomes the contract.

The play of the hand will be explained in tomorrow's article. Correct defense set the contract one trick.

MERELY MARGY

Story by Lloyd Mayer

By John Held, Jr.

I JUST SAVED HER FROM DROWNING DONT STAND THERE LIKE FLAT TIRES! DO SOMETHING
WHAT SHALL WE DO! SHE'S FAINTED. SHALL I GET SOME WATER?
WOW! WOW! HELP! HELP! THE SHARKS HAVE GOT ME!
YOWERP!

"WELL, my dear, of COURSE I was FIRMly convinced it was BASil who had LEAPED into the drink and heROically rescued me when I was atTACKED by this SHARK or something, my dear, so I was in NO hurry to snap out of this helpless FLOP I'd pulled the minute I felt his AMrouse ARMS enFOLD me, as it were, so I remAINED in this PITiful and apPEALing state of collAPSE while NOisy and PHWEEN, who had suddenly appeared after the DANger was all over, proceeded to make HELPful suggestions such as bringing WAter to throw in my face or something—can you BEAR it, my dear? But I NEARly had hysTERics, because at this point the most ANguished CRIES suddenly became audible, my dear, and OUT leaps ABah from the wild waves with FUFty-wups grasping him FIRMly by the STERN—can you COPE with it? ACtually, my dear, it was PERFectly SCREAMing because you've never HEARD such MINgled YELPS and SHRIEKS, Arab being convinced a SHARK had him by the RUMble seat or something and the PUP apparently having decided ARah was responsible for my nearly DROWNDing and all, but I was DREAMily aware that any MINute BASil's intriguing LIPS might be seeking MINE and all I CRAVED at that moment was that these OTHer pipsqueaks would FADE out of the PICture and leave us aLONE, do you know what I mean?"

MY DEAR MRS. KLOTS, WHAT HAS COME OVER YOU? WHAT HAVE YOU AGAINST MY DEAR FRIEND, MR. GOOGLE?
HORACE, IN THAT MAN REMAINS IN THIS HOUSE ONE MOMENT LONGER, I SHALL LOSE MY MIND! GET HIM OUT OF HERE AT ONCE!!
THIS WHOLE AFFAIR HAS LEFT ME COMPLETELY MYSTIFIED - IT'S CLEAR THEY HAVE MET SOMEWHERE BEFORE AND DO NOT LIKE EACH OTHER - OH, DEAR, I MUST SEE HOW POOR MR. GOOGLE IS - HE WAS ABSOLUTELY UNCONSCIOUS WHEN I LEFT HIM.
I MUST GET HIM TO BED QUICKLY AND CALL THE DOCTOR!
HE'S HAD A TERRIBLE SHOCK AND WILL BE HYSTERICAL FOR SEVERAL DAYS - DO NOT MOVE HIM UNDER ANY CIRCUM-STANCES.

DELAYING MARRIAGE

By LUCY LOWELL

SHE is twenty, though she looks older, and in love. And she wants to get married—wants it so much, in fact, that she doesn't want anything else in this wide, wide world.

And the boy she wants to marry feels the same way. He, too, is just a kid, as you might say, being 23. But he has made a good little start and is capable of taking care of the girl in a modest way, which probably would not be modest at all after a few years.

The girl, however, is an only child, and her mother is full of fears and trouble. She doesn't want Margy to marry—not for years and years at least. A girl with a lovely home and everything she wishes—why in the world can't she be satisfied? Girls don't marry as young as they did! If Margy waits till she is 25 it won't be a day too late. She'll know her own mind then and can marry a man old enough to take good care of her. And so forth and so on.

It brought to my thought a marriage I know about. The bride, a charming woman, was at least 35 and a spinster, and the bridegroom, a widower, was old enough to take good care of her surely enough.

They get on very nicely together since the bride, being 35, knows enough to see that friend husband gets his meals on exact time and precisely what he likes to eat at those meals and that he gets his quarter-hour doze after lunch and dinner.

She sees that he puts rubbers on when the weather is damp and that he takes his tonic regularly and has plenty of soda handy for his attacks of indigestion.

She is careful to see that the night air doesn't blow on him and that when he goes for a motor trip he takes along a heavy coat against the ever-imminent neuritis.

She does a great many things of this sort and because of this, as I say, they get on very nicely together.

Of course, it isn't romantic; it isn't very interesting for a bride. But elderly middle-age gives a lot of time and thought to physical care.

If the two had been married when the man was young and the bride very young, indeed, they would have grown into more or less ailing age together and therefore been indifferent to it. As it stands, this bride is more a trained nurse than anything else and hers seems a bleak and wintry honeymoon to those who know her.

Let the 21-year-old girl get married of course! Don't make her wait until she is middle aged and the zest has gone out of life and love and laughter.

BAER FACTS

MR. DAWES left Washington convinced that vice-presidents are the smartest people in the world.

Maybe he is right. There is a first time for everything.

We do know that Mr. Hoover was inaugurated out in the rain.

While Mr. Curtis displayed great sagacity by getting his diploma indoors where it was dry.

Dawes wore a small, but determined, high silk hat. Every time he saw a Senator he glared at the unfortunate bozo as if he would like to tear off his leg and use it for a pipe-cleaner.

It was the renaissance of high hats. The most popular type was the old Colonial skimmer with crown fenders.

There were low high hats, high high hats and medium tall toppers. Some had mansard roofs, some had wide, spreading eaves and some looked like tomato cans in mourning.

Mr. Dawes took advantage of the vice-president's prerogative to make a speech every four years.

And when Dawes is talking, an oyster ain't a bivalve with him. He calls it by its right name.

After he finished his trumpeting he yelled, "And I won't take a thing back."

When talking to the Senate, Mr. Dawes has always acted as if he was the valedictorian of a Chinese intellectual famine.

Mr. Dawes has great compressed dignity. He can walk out on a two-inch pair of heels and look like a man on stilts.

Mr. Hoover was there, too.

However, Mr. Dawes has the military habit of getting straight to the point with the least possible logic.

Mr. Dawes glared scornfully at Mr. Curtis. The look intimated that Curtis was only a freshman.

There was quite a social traffic jam when some single-breasted, short-coated politicians got mixed up with the double-breasted, swallow-tailed diplomats.

Mr. Dawes used a couple of big words that had no bearing on the subject, but must have sounded good over the radio.

Coolidge left for Massachusetts. Dawes left for San Domingo. We are glad to see that the boys finally agree.

There was great cheering for the young administration as Mr. Hoover dashed up Pennsylvania ave. to reach the White House before his cabinet grabbed the best rooms.

We recommend Mrs. Coolidge's example to every wife in the nation. When she left the White House, she did not take the electric bulbs with her.

Nobody in town was arrested under the Jones law which deals forth five years for a drink and an extra six months for a chaser.

A pale, attenuated citizen was seen dashing up the avenue spreading the bad news that the Republicans were coming.

He proved to be a Democrat, without portfolio.

Mr. Dawes' job in San Domingo is to straighten out that nation's monetary troubles. The San Domingans will have to listen to Dawes' speeches. But they will get even by paying Charley off in their kind of money.

The entire parade was held in the rain. At 14th st. and Pennsylvania ave., a musician was drowned in his own trombone.

Mr. Hoover spoke on progress, civilization, education, prosperity, justice, business and co-operation without mentioning the farmers once.

He also chatted about peace, health, congress and prohibition without dragging the farmers into it.

Well, the farmers still have a friend who remembers them.

He's the bird who sends out those mail order catalogues.

Famous Recipe For Stopping a Severe Cough

You'll be pleasantly surprised when you make up this simple home mixture and try it for a distressing cough or chest cold. It takes but a moment to mix and costs little, but it can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. Pour this into a pint bottle; then fill it with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. The full pint thus made costs no more than a small bottle of ready-made medicine, yet it is much more effective. It is pure, keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste.

This simple remedy has a remarkable three-fold action. It goes right to the seat of trouble, soothes away the inflammation, and loosens the germ-laden phlegm. At the same time, it is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly upon the bronchial tubes and thus helps inwardly to throw off the whole trouble with surprising ease.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

to keep in touch with detectives watching Felicia and the boy, yet hidden, he hoped, beyond danger of detection.

As the sun rose higher and higher on the morning of the abduction, he had paced more and more nervously the veranda of the hotel, glowering darkly at the bright surface of the lake before him. Where were they, with his boy? What had happened?

A car drove up and a fat man, purple and perspiring, emerged. Brett moved eagerly to meet him. Like conspirators, they moved away from the hotel, seeking solitude for their confidences.

Brett's face darkened as he listened to the report of his detective.

"Fools! Idiots! He found little consolation in the fact that his two hired gunmen had landed in the Reno jail, paying the price for their bungling.

"I'm gonna call back to the works," the fat man explained. "They're expecting more dope on the old guy that took the kid."

"And they'd better get it!" Brett muttered, savagely. He scowled. "Well, we'll let the boy go for the moment. Perhaps it's just as well—let my wife think I'm frightened off and out of the country." His eyes glittered. "You're to report every move she makes, understand?" he ordered. "And watch this Stuyvesant. Go up now and telephone your boss."

"What we call a Desert Rat," the detective reported when he came from the telephone. "Nutty old guy that wanders around, finding stones and selling 'em. Used to amount to something once. Broker—name of Stephen Pierce."

"Stephen Pierce—!" It was almost a shout. "How old a man? What else do you know about him?"

Brett listened avidly, a cruel smile playing about his lips. Then he laughed.

"By God!" he exclaimed, "this is our busy week! We've more than one score to settle before I start East!"

CIRCULATION IN NEW ENGLAND LARGEST EVENING

OUR Power Trust

Bigger Than the State?

If, busy with his personal affairs, the independent voter can follow closely no more than one or two matters of major importance now before the Legislature, he should be sure to choose the legislation asked for by Chairman Harry C. Attwill and his associates of the Public Utilities Commission, for the purpose of upholding the Massachusetts theory of public regulation of power and light companies.

The Attwill proposals are the result of the rebellion last year of the Worcester and Cambridge electric light companies.

Directed by the Public Utilities board to reduce its lighting charge from 7 to 5 cents per kilowatt hour, the Worcester company ran for help to the Federal courts.

The Cambridge company, ordered to lower its rate from 8 to 5½ cents, followed suit.

Mr. Attwill and his fellow commissioners would hold fast the long-established Bay State practice that rates are to be so fixed as to pay a FAIR return upon capital HONESTLY AND PRUDENTLY INVESTED.

SOME of the companies desire such rates as will enable them to earn a fair return upon the REPLACEMENT value of their properties, including going value, cost of financing, organization, engineering and supervision, less depreciation.

On the one hand, the rate-base is PRUDENT INVESTMENT, on the other it would be REPLACEMENT COST.

Under the pending legislation, Massachusetts lighting companies would be required to sign a contract with the Commonwealth agreeing to submit themselves to the regulation of the Commission.

Should any company refuse to enter into such a compact with the Commonwealth, the city or town served by that company will have the privilege to give it competition, by means of a MUNICIPAL plant.

As things stand today, cities and towns MAY establish their own plants, but ONLY AFTER BUYING THE PLANT OF THE PRIVATE COMPANY. The lighting company in Massachusetts, therefore, has a monopoly.

A second proposal of the Public Utilities Commission is to repeal the law compelling the purchase of the private company by a municipality planning a venture in public ownership.

What the Commission really wants, as its free and able chairman has made plain to the members of the Committee on Power and Light—AND his fellow-citizens—is to "keep wide open the door of Opportunity," to the end that the community may at any time go into the electric business on its own account.

If the companies are wise they will quit bucking the Attwill proposals and be content with the Massachusetts square deal. The recent election in this State was altogether too close for comfort. "Power" was one of its main issues. Several more or less distinguished State Senators, hitherto doughty champions of the companies, were tossed into the political discard. These things may happen again.

Keep an eye on the Attwill bills. Let your representatives on Beacon Hill know that you want them written into the law.

The Automobile

Within the Reach of All

The average retail price of the American automobile last year was $876. Of the more than 4,000,000 sold, 58 per cent were bought on the installment plan.

The average "down" payment was $270.

Your attention is called to these figures, only recently revealed by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, before you visit Boston's 27th annual auto show in Mechanics Building.

Young and observant reporters who have almost lived at the show since its opening last Saturday evening report that the stand-out features are two in number.

First, they say, the attention of Motordom appears to be directed this year to the buyer who is likely to spend less—MUCH less, probably—than $1500 for his car.

Second, the makers appear to have discovered that woman is the national motorcar buyer and are designing their products accordingly.

The manufacturers seek to arrest the attention and meet the wants of the modest income. They direct their appeal to mothers, daughters, aunts, nieces and sweethearts. One is fascinated at the Auto Show by the "variety of new hues used for the bodies of the cars. There are the pinky beige, the sun-burned tans, all the lovely gamut of colors to which we have grown accustomed in smart shop windows."

Well, Massachusetts is spending $15,000,000 every year on its highways, and Pa can scarcely blame Mother and the girls if they want to know how long THEY must wait for a share of the enjoyment thus made possible.

The FIRST objective of every young couple should be to own a home. In Greater Boston the wife of a healthy and ambitious man regularly and gainfully employed can have no good excuse for not owning a home. Co-operative banks and other agencies are eager to help.

The home should be WELL FURNISHED.

Established in the home they own, or upon which they are making regular payments without discomfiture, Mr. Goodman and his wife owe themselves a motorcar. Where there are children in the family the car is NOT to be thought of as a luxury, but a necessity.

Visit the Auto Show in Huntington Avenue and let some of the young men up there explain how credit merchandising has placed the automobile "within the reach of all."

New York Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, March 6—It is estimated 10,000 persons come to New York every year to lose themselves in the city's immensity. They walk out of the great railroad terminals and become almost instantly members of that vast army of the missing.

More than 50,000 men and women in this manner belong to the "living dead." They are not criminals fleeing the law but irresponsibles shirking obligations and seeking escape from unhappy pasts. Cashier cages in all night restaurants as well as other night jobs are frequently ports of missing men.

But the majority make little effort to hide. Unless hunted by the police they do not need to. In the busy hell of Broadway are hundreds who have deserted wives and children to pick up the threads of a care-free existence among the swirls of light.

Even criminals have found it easier to hide in congested centers than off the beaten path. When the entire police force was searching for Nickey Arnstein, he rode down Fifth avenue on the heels of a parade. Recently I talked to a fellow who came here to vanish, following the failure of a small town bank.

Outside of raising a mustache, he made no changes in his appearance, and for four years worked in a Times Square restaurant. He served many he had known in affluent days, without recognition, including a man who worked at an adjoining desk for years.

Searchers for the missing always seek among waiters. "Nobody ever sees a waiter's face" is axiomatic, and those trying to disappear have learned this. The great majority of this human driftwood eddies eventually to those barren shoals—the flowery lodging house.

Here at night they sit motionless in upstairs offices, clutching frozen dreams. The consuming greed of discovery has stilled their tongues and why complain? They have come to know New York in one of its hurrying way pays scant heed to broken dreams, broken hearts and broken lives.

I ASKED a celebrated gourmet today what dishes had tickled his palate most. I expected him to name such tid-bits as gray caviar from Premier's, woodcock from Corsica, pheasants from Norfolk, prawns from France or perhaps a few culinary choices from the famous masterpieces of Brillat Savarin. Instead he reeled off such plain American dishes as boiled short ribs of beef with horseradish sauce, chopped beefsteak with fried onions, frankfurters and sauerkraut, country sausage with red cabbage, smoked Nova Scotia salmon with potato salad, and venison steak with rich brown gravy.

A WELL-KNOWN novelist tells of his wife's first and last intoxicating drink. She was a small town girl and arrived at a New York hotel on her honeymoon in the late evening following an early morning marriage. The city was shimmering in a wave of heat, and the groom suggested refreshing themselves with a bottle of champagne. She was thirsty, and gulped down two brimming goblets, one after the other. Ten minutes later she fell in a swoon, cutting a gash in her cheek that remains to this day.

ALONG the West st. water front are innumerable men who have all the seafaring manners of the hardened seaman, even to a rolling gait, but have never been to sea. They satisfy the romantic desire for a roaming life without going anywhere, and hang onto the fringe of marine life, hustling baggage and freight.

ZIEGFELD is said to have spent $50,000 reviving the Midnight Frolic on the New Amsterdam roof to interest a class clientele in a phase of nocturnal pleasantry passing with prohibition. He does offer another generous burst of Ziegfeldian profligacy, but I for one wish the modern revues would tone down their hair-raising aerial antics. In this one three acrobatic gentlemen use a frail young girl as a human skipping rope. Many of us could go through the evening with less exciting novelties—perhaps a refined gentleman plaiting his eyebrows or something would satisfy.

Meditations of a Wife

By HELEN ROWLAND

SOMEBODY ought to write a book on "How to Hold a Woman's Love."

In a world overflowing with advice on how to capture and hold the elusive male, it would be SO refreshing. And, if Gertrude Atherton is right, there is a crying need for such a work.

"The modern woman," says Mrs. Atherton, "is finding the modern man dull and quite a bore." Wouldn't that flatten your marcel w..ve?

Yet her statement is backed up by the fact that in Washington a group of debutantes have formed a "Bachelor Girls' Club," with the avowed purpose of discouraging marriage, and promoting single blessedness.

Of course, to the conquering male, all this looks like "just a new gesture." Just "an alibi," in case they fail to make the grade in matrimony.

Well, let's be perfectly frank and honest about it. Economic independence and modern freedom have made women a lot more fastidious and "choicy" in the matter of male companionship. To a girl with a perfectly good job and plenty of spending money, marriage looks more like a beautiful luxury than like a dire necessity.

Yet, glorious and thrilling as economic independence may be, it will never take the place of romance, love and marriage in any normal girl's existence. A career is dazzling and exciting; but you can't tie ribbons on your brain-children, nor sing them lullabies.

Fame and money and success are wonderful. But the average woman is just that "weak," that she would rather be pinning laurels on "her man" than winning them for herself. And there is a thrill about having the man you love buy things for you that exceeds any thrill you ever got out of a weekly pay envelope.

No, dear heart! If women are looking a little dubiously at marriage and a little speculatively at men, there is more to it than a mere gesture.

Men have lost their glamorous charm in the eyes of women because they have almost forgotten how to talk to women or how to be companiona..le.

After concentrating his whole mind on the pursuit of the almighty dollar for eight or ten hours a day all that a man can think of to entertain a woman in the evening is to offer her a kiss, a dinner or a diamond bracelet.

By the time night comes, the American business man's imagination has "gone dead," his mind is a total blank and even his heart has slowed down to low gear. There isn't a sparkle left anywhere in his tired brain, and his conversation sounds like one long yawn.

He can dance, pet and play bridge in a mechanical sort of fashion, but you sort of get the impression that he "keeps going" just in order to prove that he's still conscious.

Some day, man will get tired of being a dollar-slave and a robot, and will learn again to read books, to enjoy poetry and music and beauty. And then, perhaps, he will learn how to charm a woman.

Because, after all, chasing dollars dulls the imagination and deadens the senses, and is very tame sport beside chasing rainbows and romance.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

THIS is going to be the queerest article.

I never wrote anything like this before for a newspaper, and probably after the editor reads it I never will again.

Properly speaking, it isn't an article at all. It's a very intimate letter—to YOU.

I've been writing to you for quite a time. Writing about all sorts of things—often about myself. I've written about myself because I know myself better than I know anything else I have told you about my being a liar and a coward and a conceited ninny—and other vital statistics. Though I hate to acknowledge it, you frequently agree with me.

And now and then—because in some strange way you seem as near to me as my own blood kin—I told you how my heart was broken when I lost my only child three years ago. I told you that partly to ease my own pain and partly because I hoped, through my confession, to comfort some other poor mother's or father's heart a little.

Well, today I'm going on with that story.

But I'm not going to tell you again how my heart was broken—I'M GOING TO TELL YOU HOW MY HEART WILL BE MENDED!

For three years I've been lying with my face to the ground, with all the love that my boy might have had accumulating in a great, bitter reservoir in my heart. Love, that should have been living water to some little tad, stored up, useless, in my selfish grieving heart.

But I'm not lying on my face today—

I'm up and laughing!

And the love in my heart is getting ready to be used again.

FOR I'VE BOUGHT A LITTLE RED CHAIR!

I'VE BOUGHT A LITTLE RED CHAIR FOR THE BABY I'M GOING TO ADOPT!

I'm going to put that love into circulation again. My boy was the bonniest lad that ever lived. He was 21 years old and he had a brave golden head and a gay laugh. He was never mean or stingy in all his life. It would make him sick and mad to know that I was hoarding his love, not sharing it with some other little shaver. So I'm going to share it. I'm going to adopt a little brother to sit in that red chair and play with my boy's toys and read my boy's books and wear his Boy Scout pin and use his love.

I have a big job to do and as soon as I finish that and get some money I'm going out to find my baby. I want one about two years old with stick-out ears and freckles and red hair, but of course I'll take some other shade if they haven't that color in stock. And I don't want a nice little boy. I want one who will make a lot of noise and track in mud and swipe cookies and drag in all the dogs in the neighborhood and get into fights. So I can quarrel with the neighbors again about their kids and MINE.

The more I think about him the more excited I get. I could write about that little boy for days on end. It's strange—I thought I'd never be able to write about a little boy again. BUT love goes right on if you give it a CHANCE. I'll certainly be glad when I finish this job and can go out and find him.

Perhaps it may have bored you to hear all this. Maybe my editor will ask what in heck I'm using his paper for anyway. But there's just a chance that somewhere there's another mother who is letting love lie useless in her heart as I did—and like many, knew her a way out. I hope it does.

At any rate, I wish YOUD give me a hand. If you have time I'd be mighty glad if you would write and wish us luck—me and my little new son.

WORDS OF THE WISE MEN

Despise not any man, and do not spurn anything; for there is no man that has not his hour, nor is there anything that has not its place.—Ben Azai.

Few men have virtue to withstand the highest bidder.—Washington.

There is one right which man is generally thought to possess, which I am confident he neither does nor can possess—the right to subsist at rest when his labor will not fairly purchase it.—Malthus.

It is only to those who do not know how to work that do not love it. To those who do, it is better than play—it is religion.—Patterson.

The Next Life Period

By GARRETT P. SERVISS

"The period of earth life is a highly valuable part of existence."—Sir Oliver Lodge.

THIS is a very good text for a little thinking. Suppose we consider immortality aside from religious conceptions. Assume that it is purely an effect of the principle of conservation—conservation of matter, conservation of energy, conservation of soul, or spirit. Probably thousands are willing to look at the subject in that way, though they are hopelessly prejudiced against all theological presentations of it.

The universe exists. The earth, a minim point in the universe, exists. We exist for a moment of time upon the earth. These are "scientific" facts. There are also indications that an inhabitant of our perishable bodies while they are alive, exists which each person calls "I, myself." And sublimest feel this something to be, in essence, infinitely superior to the body. It commands the body as a workman commands a tool.

There was a time when the idea of a spiritual entity constituting the really important part of us human beings could not be reconciled with the scientific knowledge accumulated through the physical senses. It could only be entertained by assuming that it rested on a miracle, something supernatural and against that idea there was an inevitable revolt by minds trained solely in physical investigations.

This is no longer so. We may reject Sir Oliver Lodge's creed as to the manifestations of the human spirit after the death of the body, but he is unquestionably right in affirming that science has shown the possibility of such survival.

The theological view of what comes after the earth life has not kept pace with the advance of the intellect. It was born at a time when, in men's thoughts, the universe consisted of only two parts, the earth and heaven, with hell as a yawning pit between them. The future life of man, if he escaped tumbling into hell, was to be passed eternally in heaven. What heavenly life was supposed to be you may see vividly pictured in Bunyan's "Pilgrim's Progress," one of the world's greatest books on the history of the human mind.

The one fruitful thought contained in it is that the successful pilgrim was to live forever with God. That was as broad a conception as could be. But its breadth was pinched into narrowness by a totally false representation of what living with God would be. Here the very vividness of the allegory made the picture unacceptable to the growing intelligence of man. Walking on golden pavements, clad in white garments, thrumming harps and singing psalms forever and forever! This realism was far inferior in its suggestiveness to the red man's "Happy Hunting Grounds."

If the advance of scientific knowledge has cast a shadow upon the religious aspirations of man it has been in making him long for a higher life of correspondent "activity that wants no rest." There is nothing to show that the intelligence exercised which has brought science up to its present level is offensive to the all-embracing intelligence which rules the universe. On the contrary, there is every reason to believe that the highest power approves of man's efforts and self-help in the direction of understanding the universe and its laws.

Boston American's Policies For Boston-New England

FOR BOSTON:

1—Clean streets.
2—Solution of traffic and parking problems.
3—Better pay for honest public service.
4—An airport SECOND TO NONE.
5—Erection of a MUNICIPAL AUDITORIUM to compare with any in the land, in order that Boston properly supplied with first-class hotels, may be the premier convention city of the U. S. A.

FOR NEW ENGLAND:

1—Weld the six States into a unit through the activities of the New England Council, thus creating a community consciousness.
2—Promote intercourse with Central and South America, encouraging "New Englanders to "turn to the sea" again.
3—Keeping everlastingly at the job of telling the rest of the country all about our unique advantages as Summer and Winter Playground of the Nation.
4—Foster the prosperity of our industries through (1) greater efficiency in production and (2) the use of modern methods in merchandising.
5—Promote in every way such natural resources as forests, water powers and fisheries.
6—Assist New England agriculture to better marketing methods.
